NEW YORK BANK SUSPENDS

Affairs of the Institution Not Satisfactory to the Authorities.

Notice Posted on the Doors of the St. Nicholas Surprised the Officials- Examination to Be Opened-Depositors Will Not Be Losers.

CLOSED BY THE STATE SUPERINTENDENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 21,-The following notice has just been posted on the doors of the St. Nicholas bank, which is a state bank, at Broad street and Exchange place:

This bank is closed, pending examination. CHARLES M. PRESTON, Superintendent. Mr. Preston is the state superintendent of

This notice was posted on the doors before the officials arrived. President Graves, who arrived at the bank shortly after, said: "This is a high handed proceeding. I don't understand it. I supposed this bank was

The St. Nicholas bank acted as the clearing house agent for the suspended Madison Square bank and the examination being made by Superintendent Preston is due to the connection of the St. Nicholas with the Madison Square bank. Upon the failure of the Madison Square bank the St. Nicnolas bank withdraw from that institution some $250,000 worth of securities in order to secure itself, but it is understood that the St. Nicholas bank affairs have been unsettled ever since that time.

Surprised Nobody.

A member of the clearing house said: "The closing of the St. Nicholas bank does not surprise any of us. Some time ago the bank had to reduce its capital, and since the failure of the Madison Square bank it has been known to have been in a weak condition. I believe, nevertneless, the bank will make a fair showing, and that depositors will be paid in full."

The statement made by the St. Nicholas bank to the New York clearing house was: Capital, $500,000; net profits, $132,200; loans. $1,755,804; specie, $43,900; legal tender, $471,400; deposits, $3,011,200. The bank consequently held a reserve of 25.4 per cent. The deposits last night had been reduced to about $2,000,000. Persons conversant with the bank's condition say that there has been absolutely nothing like dishonesty in the management, though bad judgment has been shown in the conduct of business. Superintendent of Banks Preston held a conference with Messrs. Tappin of the Gal-latin bank and Nash of the Corn Exchange bank, as members of the clearing house committee. Mr. Preston examined the books with these gentlemen and found that the capital was largely impaired. Mr. Preston accordingly decided to close the doors of the bank pending further investigation. It is believed that the assets are sufficient to pay the depositors in full. Mr. Tappin says the suspension of this bank is not connected with the difficulties of the Madison Square the good work. Superintendent Clark trusts that public interest in the poor will not be a spasm of sympathy soon to be forgotten. He hopes for permanent assistance through the winter months, as the institution is entirely at the mercy of the public and dependent upon popular support. Deaver's Good Suggestion. OMAHA, Dec. 21 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: As a measure to assist in preventing suffering from hunger and cold in our city I suffering from nunger and cold in our city I suggest the following for consideration: Let some measures be taken whereby the men who are title around Rescue hall can be put to work soliciting subscriptions to be paid to some well known reliable person who will use whatever is contributed to the best adjusted. The following would, in my opinion, be a good copy for a petition to be used: We, the undersigned, hereby agree to mail the amount set opposite our names to Mr. —, within forty-eight hours, to be used by him for the benefit of the unemplaced.

Then let committees of two be appointed Then let committees of two be appointed and given credentials and placed in districts covering the entire city to solicit subscriptions. The citizens who are able will then have a chance to give what they can and will know that it will be used judiciously. Every person solicited by such committee should give what they can if it is not more should give what they can if it is not more than 25 cents, for that amount is worth more to a hungry man than $25 would be to the ordinary person. Another advantage to be gained by this system, in my opinion, is this: The persons on these committees will not experience the pangs felt by truly honest persons who try to beg for themselves, but on the other hand will be considered and consider themselves on. for themselves, but on the other hand will be considered and consider themselves en-gaged in a noble work to prevent suffering among their fellow men. The petition might very properly be arranged so as to provide for anything in the way of clothing or other comforts of life, groceries, etc. I do not think that at this time the system of soliciting subscriptions to be paid in stated-amounts each months is practical, for many amounts each months is practical, for many persons would give something now who do not wish to obligate themselves for the future, not knowing what is in store for them shead.

STOCK YARDS LITIGATION.

Commission Men Object to Being Held Up by Dishones: Employes. The live stock commission firm of Speits, Hitchcock & Olney, the South Omaha Live Stock exchange and the Union Stock Yards company of South Omaha have all engaged in a legal fight, all of which has been brought about by the alleged dishonesty of some employes.

The members of the commission firm are plaintiffs and the action is brought to re-strain the defendants from expelling them from the benefits accruing by reason of being members of the exchange. In the perition which is on file—the—plain tiffs allege that for a long time they have been members of the exchange, dealing in cattle, hogs and sheep, and that during all that time it has been the custom of the ex-change to purchase from the stockyards company the feed for the stock consigned to the members who were in good standing.

Some months ago the plaintiffs allege that they discovered that their employes and the employes of the stockyards company had conspired to do them up on the question of feed. This, they aver, was handled by their own employes buying from the stockyards employes a small amount of feed, which was charged at more than double the amount. When the members of the firm learned this they registered a complaint, which was investigated. The investigation resulted in a finding of the fact which they had claimed. The same investigation proved that the employes had been working the stock yards company and that they had held that com-pany up for $579. This amount the plain-tiffs were asked to pay. They refused to contribute, after which the stock yards people signified their intention of expelling the plaintiffs from membership. The in-junction which has been issued prevents this action until the case can be investigated

Mrs. Tassler's Case. The family fight between Catherine Tussler, Dr. Keenan, Henry P. Stoddard and William E. Healey has been given another airing in the courts by the filing of an answer of Healey. He admits that he was a student at the university at Madison, Wis.; that he married Mrs. Tussier's daughter, and that there was a great fight over the possession of the horse ranch out in the western part of this state, but he absolutely denies that he and Stoddard con spired to defraud the woman out of her property. Minor Court Matters. James Collins and John McDonald are on trial before Judge Scott for burglary, the allegation being that a few weeks ago they entered the Temple of Israel and stole gold and silver images from the altar, the value of which was $55

Today will practically close the business of the September term of the district ness of the September term of the district court, as all of the jurors will be discharged and nothing more will be done by the judges aside from passing upon cases which they have under advisement, entering orders and hearing a few equity cases.

The trial of the case of Mary Warner againsts Newton J. Smith is now in progress before Judge Blair. The plaintiff sues for $10,000 damages for false imprisonment. She alleges that in the summer of 1500 miles. 1892 while she was guardian of her minor children, being then a widow, Smith, who was her bondsmen, caused her arrest on the charge of embezziing $1,000 from the estate. The next term of the district court in and for this county will begin on February 6, at which time all of the present judges will be upon the bench, though there may be some different arrangements with regard to the dockets. On New Year's day all of the seven judges will meet in room No. 6 in the Bee building, where they will hold a meeting for the purpose of assigning the dockets for the next year and also for the appointment of a bar committee, bailiffs and stenog-

Immediately after the filing of the petition Judge Ambrose issued an injunction restraining the defendant from entering the Pierson premises and interfering with the business conducted therein. The case was set for hearing on January 4. The defendant in this action claims that about December 15 he visited the place and while there attempted to caress the tiger. This caressing act, he avers he performed and lost the sum of $1.100, which he bet on some game of chance, played with cards.

At a subsequent date, it is alleged that the defendant tried to extort money from the plaintiff, but failing in this he had nim arressed and taken before a justice of the peace. In addition to all of this the plain-tiff alloges that he is being amoyed by con-stables and police officers, all of whom want to search the premises to find some portion of that $1,100. The issuing of the restraining order stops all of this until the case s passed upon by the district court. Pierson alleges in his petition that the attempt of Huntzinger to extort money is in the nature of blackmail, and is for the pur-pose of ruining his business.

HARVEST FOR PICKPOCKETS.

Police Take Measures to Protect the Crowds of Christmas Purchasers. The crowded condition of 'the large stores and of certain portions of Sixteenth street, where thousands of people jostle each other daily in the endeavor to either catch a glimpse of the attractions in the show windows or make holiday purchases, is offering the pickpockets a splendid chance to ply their trade. They have not been slow in embracing the opportunity, as the police register for the last three days shows. In order to put a stop to this kind of work. Captain Mostyn yesterday detailed four detectives and four other officers to watch for the offenders, and especially to protect ladies out on shopping tours during the day. In the afternoon at the Boston store. John Gordon was appre-hended after he had gone through the pockets of several women. Complaints of losses of pocketbooks elsewhere were numerous, but in many instances the police re covered them, it being ascertained that the purses had been dropped only and not stolen. Brownell Hall's Christmas Musicale. A Christmas musicale was given last evening at Brownell hail by the young ladies of that institution, under the direction of Miss Waliace and Mrs. Cotton. The program consisted of fourteen numbers, and each was given with fine offect. A large audience greeted the young ladies and showed its approval by frequent applause.
