Interesting De c-iption of the Great American's Visit to the Vatican.

IMPRESSION OF HIS HOLINESS

Vigorous in Mind and Body, One of the Greatest Men Who Has Occupied the Papal Chair-His Inquiries Concerning America.

New York, Dec. 25.—Chauncey M. Depew was interviewed on his arrival here from Europe by a reporter of the Associated press. One of the Catholic papers of New York, in its correspondence from Rome. criticised Mr. Denew for the speech he made at Chicago during the fair, in which the orator had severely handled the church in regard to its policy in this country.

"Mr. Depew, said the paper referred to "will get the cold shoulder should be ever come to Rome again.

In regard to the attitude of the paper, Mr. Depew said he did not care what its corre spondents had to say. Life was too short, he said, to notice such trifies. Then Mr. Depew began to tell of his trip and gave his views on Europe and Europeans generally.

Did Rome in Four Days. "I did Rome in four days," he said "visited Pompell, Naples and Vesuvius. In Pompeti I saw some curious things that had been taken out of the runs. On one of the faces of the well preserved bodies I noticed a drunken leer. Evidently the man was under the influence of wine when the city was overwhelmed, for the smile was still there just the same as it was 2,000 years ago. I wanted to see the pope and was told he could give no private audiences. His time is too much occupied with the affairs of the church all over the world. But on the evening of the day my letter was sent the bishon of northern New York called to say that the pope would see me in private the next day at 12. I requested the bishop to accompany me, as my knowledge of the language is limited. I regard the present pentiff as progressive and in touch with the pontiff as progressive and in touch with the spirit of various countries, and especially the United States, and I thought the conversation might run upon difficult problems and delicate subjects. During the hour I waited the pope sent out a monseignor to entertain me. He was a charming man. I asked him what would be the ceremonial for me. He said the universal rule was for those presented to fall on their knees and kiss the papal ring on the pope's hand, but as my appointment was unusual, and I was a Protestant, he would inquire. The answer showed the exquisite tact of the pope.

"The holy father," said the monseignor directs in your case the ceremony shall be precisely the same as if you had a private audience with the president of the United dience with the president of the United

Greeted by the Pope.

"As I entered the audience the pope came across the room, shock me cordially by the hand, requested me to be seated, and then resumed the papal chair. With the memory of Mr. Gladstone, who is nine months his innor, in my mind, I studied him enruestly, especially in view of the reports of his feebleness. He certainly is as vigorous as the great Englishman. He had been in constant andience since So'clock in the morning. and it was then 12 o'clock. The questions presented came from all parts of the world and were mainly appeals to him. One dele-gate told me the pope took the paper out of his hands and read it himself.

his hands and read it himself.

"The pope expressed in very complimentary phrases his pleasure in seeing me, his knowledge of my position and life at home and his hope that I would enjoy the sights of the Eternal City and carry away pleasant memories and soon visit is again. I told him many thousand memoers of his church were in the employ of the company of which I am president and it would be a great gratification to them when I returned for me to be able to teil them of the head of their church, whom they so profoundly revered. In a few minutes we were in the vered. In a few minutes we were in the midst of an earnest and instructive conver-sation on property, its rights, duties of capi tal and labor, of employer and employe. I said his encyclical on that subject was in accord with the opinion of the American people and that I had made it the text of an address a year ago to a body of Catholic students at the Catholic codege. Then came a splendid exhibition of the 'Old Man Eloquent,' The pope pressed to the front of the chair, grasped the arms and presented the appearance and vivacity of 50 in-

Eloquence of Ills Holiness.

"Nearly ten minutes he spoke, and in clearness. directness, force and fervor, it was one of the most eloquent and expressive utterances to which I had ever listened. It is a misfortune that it could not bave been taken down as it was spoken, but any report written would have lacked the fire and magnetism and all its delicacy. The substance of its meaning was this: That in his encyclical he had stated nothing new; the principles laid down had always been the doctrines of the church. The times, however, with the troubles existing and growing more acute everywhere, demanded they be given thought and attention. The right of man to his legally acquired property had always been recognized. It was the basis of the social system; labor and capital are inseparable. I alsor has rights which robody must able. Labor has rights which nobody must ignore, but labor must recognize the rights of capital. The church had always recognized the doctrine of the fatherhood of God and the fatherhood of man. We all came from the same Heavenly Father, and all, whatever our condition or circumstance in this world, stand equal before Him, and we are equally accountable to Him for ourselves and for conduct toward our neighbor.

Inquired About America. "The pope made many inquiries about America. I told him at New York every-tning which happened there stood in the same relation to the rest of the country as happenings in London did to Great Britain and Paris to France. Thus it was that more than usual prominence was given to anything one or said by his representative, Archbishop Corrigan. His Love for the United States. "The pope blessed a few simple articles of piety I had with me to gladden the Christmas and New Year of some Catholic friend: when they knew they were direct from the hands of the pontiff and were blessed by him. I was afraid of wearying him and arose to go. He took my hand and said he had the profoundest respect and admiration and love for the United States and wished I would tell the American people he was much impressed with the World's fair and had done all he could to help it; that he was much pleased and gratified to learn I was always kind and con-siderate for the employes of my company and that I had never made any distinction between those of Catholic faith and others. He also expressed his gratification when I told him of Archbishop Corrigan. Thus ended for me one of the Corrigan. Thus ended for me one of the most pleasant meetings with one of the mest remarkable men of the age. He is one of the few men who are still active and vigorous after the alloted span of life. The only others are Gladstone and Bismarck.

"The pope sent a message to me, but I re ceived it when I could not return to the Vat ican. The Vatican looks to America with more interest and attention, in view of the rapidly increasing spread of socialism and theories, as her great field of the future."

Mr. Depew also saw King Humbert, but was short and he did not have an opportunity to discuss matters other than

Death of Mrs. Harriet Hayden Recalls Some

Interesting Incidents. Boston, Dec. 15 .- Mrs. Harriet Hayden widow of Lewis Hayden, died yesterday at home, 66 Philips street, of attack of pneumonia at the age of 74. Mrs. Hayden had a remarkable history. Born a slave in Kentucky, she made her escape early in the to's into Michigan and lived for a short time in Detroit. From that city she moved to Boston, and became identified with the inti-slavery movement, and her home on Philips street became a rendezvous for tugi-tive slaves. John Brown held a meeting at her house with some of his associates prior to his departure for Harper's Perry, and per-fected his plans there. Mrs. Hayden was a warm personal friend of William Libyd Gar-rison. Wendbit Philips, Charles Summer and in fact, all the members of the anti-slavery society held her and her husband in the highest ester m. the highest esteem.

Litigation tiver the Ancient Maxwell Grant

Not to Be Resumed. DESCRIPTION DEC. 23.—Governor Waite today received from Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior, the following letter is reply to one in which the governor characterized the Maxwell land grant as thoneycombed with

"Washington, Dec. 19, 1893.—Hon. David H. Waite, Governor of Colorado: This department is in receipt, by reference of the ommissioner of the general land office, of your letter to him dated the 27th alt., inclosing a petition by O. P. McMains relative to that part of the Beaupien and Miranda (or Maxwell) land grant situated within the state of Colorado. Mr. McMains requests that the plats of the public surveys of the Colorado portion of the alleged Maxwell grant be restored to the local land office at Pueblo. Colo. for filings and entries, and for the enforcement of which their (the settlers') titles depend. He says that these are honeycombed with fraud and that the petition of the settlers be given careful petition of the settlers be given careful attention and that the remedy which practice demands be applied.

"Congress, on June 21, 1860, confirmed the Maxwell grant to the fullest extent of the boundaries as described in the petition of the claimants. In accordance with said act of congress, patent was issued for said land on May 19, 1879. Suit was brought in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Colorado on August 25, 1882, to have said patent vacated and set aside and have said patent vacated and set aside and the survey declared void insofar as it included land in Colorado. The court dismissed the suit. An appeal was taken to the supreme court of the United States, which, on April 18, 1887, rendered a decision sustaining the court below and refusing to interfere with the patent.

"This department has no jurisdiction over the land after this issue of the patent. Its the land after this issue of the patent. Its power over the land is ended when the patent is issued and placed on the records of the department. In this case, not only had a patent been issued, but its validity has been sustained by the highest tribunal of the nation. Mr. McMains in his communication, however, contends that the act of June 21, 1840, requires the Colorado portion of the alleged Maxwell grant to be treated. of the alleged Maxwell grant to be treated as public land because located within the out boundaries of the Virgil and St. Vrain grant. The said commissioners (referring to Commissioner Carter and Commissione Stone) wherefore having simply refused, in the interest of public land thieves, to endorse a law that is binding upon the land de-partment. This contention of Mr. Mc-Mains is sufficiently answered by the su-preme court in its decision in the Maxwell grant case. "Therefore, the great surplus which, it is claimed, was conveyed by the patent to Beaubien and Mirania was the property of the United States, and congress, acting in its soverign capacity upon the question of the validity of the grant, chose to treat it as valid for the boundaries given it by the Mexican governor, and it is not for the Judicial department of this government to controvert their power to do so.

"The same question again arose in the asc of the Interstate Land company against Maxwell Land company, in which the su-preme court said: We conclude, therefore, that questions affecting the validity of that that questions affecting the validity of that grant—that is, as to the authority of the Mexican government to make it—are no longer open. The action of congress in confirming it, and the subsequent proceedings in the court to set aside the patent, certainty settled those questions forever. The confirmation and patenting of the grant to Beaubien and Miranda operated to divest the United States of the right to the land embraced in the grant which the country acquire I from Mexico by the treaty of Guadaloupe lindalgo. And the only way that that grant can be defeated is to show that the land embraced in it had been previously granted by the Mexican gov-

"The language quoted refers, as will be context, to the very land docated within the outboundaries of the Virgil and St. Vrain grant, which Mr. McMains contends should have been restored to settlement and entry. If this department were to disregard the confirmatory act of congress and the re-peated decisions of the United States su preme court and restore to the local office the plats of public surveys of the grant for filings and entries, the only result would go to mislead innocent parties into making entries on lands to which the department would be wholly powerless to convey any title. Hoke Smith."

BURKE WAS READY TO TELL Judge Longenecker Says He Nearly Got the Story of the Killing of Cronin.

HE HAD THE LITTLE SUSPECT COWED

Conversation with the Prisoner After His Return from Cauada and a Peculiar Circumstance that Followed Immediately After.

CHICAGO: Dec. 25.—According to a story in this morning's Times Martin Burke was at one time after his extradition from Winnipeg on the verge of making a complete confession of all the events connected with the murder of Dr. Cronin. Judge Longenecker, at that time prosecuting attorney, tells today what a narrow escape he had from securing from Burke a confession that would have changed the whole complexion of the celebrated trial of the conspirators. Judge Longenecker says:

"Burke reached Chicago in charge of Chief Hubbard, who had taken immediate supervision of his extradition and had gone to Winnipeg to bring Burke home. I ordered him carried at once to the Harrison street station. Here, I felt, I made my first mistake. Perhaps I ought to have had him taken to some other station. I went directly to the station, where Chief Hubbard and held a long interview with the prisoner. tried my best to get him to confess, and am confident that I should have succeeded had nobody else seen him before my next

We know that you nought the furniture which was put in it. We know that you field to Canada as soon as the murder was discovered. We know all this and a great deal more, and we can prove all we know. Now, we also know that you were not alone in the murder; there were others. Now, the people who were be-hind the murder don't care a thing for you; it is the others they are going to try and get off. They will simply use you as a scapeon. They will simply use you as a scape-goat and as a bridge to carry themselves to safety. Burke, you have used the only chance you had to save your neek.! "I talked a long while with him in this strain. Then I showed him a letter from his mother. It seemed to be the finishing his mother. It seemed to be the finishing stroke. When I left that afternoon, both Chief Hubbard and myself felt there was

The people of Ireland will have to support them. The federation of America was organized to support the parliamentary party, a number of whom the parliamentary party, a number of whom are young men who could not remain in Parliament without assistance. We will try to collect as much money for them as we can, and if there is a balance over it will be given for the evicted tenants. It takes $15,000 a year to support our members of Parliament.
