Commissioners Decide to Adopt Their Own Course and Take Testimony-Done with Long-Winded Harangues Made Only for Delay.

Gilbert M. Bitchcock, who, from an office down on Farnam street insists on issuing the Daily Mistake, was before the Heense board again last night to protest against the issuance of licenses to applicants who had published their notices in THE EVENING, BEE, and for three long hours he dodged the issues by refusing to make a showing in his onslaught against the saloon men who had failed and refused to drop their dollars into his coffers. As on as the meeting was called to order this man walked up to the desk of the clerk of the board, where he deposited fifty protests against that many parties who had ignored his plaintive appeal to publish their notices in the World-Herald. With these protests he filed another paper showing that he had withdrawn the protests filed against Miller & Stotenberg, Louis Schm'dt and Jacob Rower, for the reason that these three parties had come to time and had each dropped the sum of $3.25 into the till of Disposing of this part of the program the bisposing of this part of the program the board attempted to do business, but the attempt was a dismal failure, simply for the reason that Mr. Hitchcock availed hinself of every opportunity for getting under cover. In the first place he wanted to know how he happened to be knocked over the ropes in the Fred Metrosco which was tried Tues. Fred Metz case, which was tried Tuesday night.

Reminded of Judge Keysor's Decision. Upon this subject the gentleman was informed that the findings in the case were in strict accordance with the decision rendered by Judge Keysor one year ago. Having winded himself in another long talk Attorney Dick Hall jumped to the relief of Mr. Hitchcock and reviewed the action of the board in reference to its course in passing upon the Metz case. Mayor Bemis, as chairman of the board. said that he was tired of long speeches and was anxious to get down to business.

For the time being this throttled Mr. Hall and then the members of the board stated that they were ready for the start, and asked which of the cases should be tried first. After some discussion it was decided that the protest against the issuance of the cense to Andrew Nelson should be called presented the following:

In the matter of the application of Andrew Nelson for the next to sell liquor, comes now the applicant herein and alleges that the remonstrance filed by Gilbert M. Hitchcock is frivolous, mallclous and baseless, and that the several allegations made by the said Hitchcock are untrue.

Eirst, Your applicant admits that he advertised his notice in The OMAHA EVENING BEE in good faith, believing that the said OMAHA EVENING BEE is the paper having the largest circulation in Douglas county. The allegation of the said Hitchcock that The OMAHA EVENING BEE is not a newspaper within the meaning of the law, but only a part of a newspaper called The OMAHA DAILY BEE is frivolous and unfounded. THE OMAHA EVENING BEE, copy of which is herewith submitted, has for several years last past and is now the cilicital paper of the city of Omaha, and was so designated by the city council in compliance with the provisions of section 133 of the charter of metropolitan cities.

ond, Your applicant denies that there is Second, Your applicant denies that there is now, or ever was, a newspaper published in Douglas county and designated as the Daily World-Heraid. Wherefore, this applicant prays that his license be granted. Andrew Nelson.

which he abused the editor and about every body connected with THE BEE, even to the

A Fraud on the Board.

In reply Mr. Rosewater insisted that the remonstrance to the granting of the license was without any standing and that it was a fraud perpetrated upon the board. He urged that there was no such paper pub-lished in the city as the Daily World-Herald and in support of the assertion produced copies of the papers which Mr. Hitchcock is issuing, together with letter heads and other office supplies of the sheet. He showed conclusively to the poard that Hitchcock's attempt to get money from the saloon men and the druggists was in the nature of an extortion and that in all intances where he could get $3.25 each from the applicants he had withdrawn his protests. The fact of protesting the 200 appli-cants was a disgrace and one which should not be tolerated by the board.

Hitchcock tried to reply by maintaining that by the bunching of all of his editions

he had the largest circulation in the city, but this fell flat when Mr. Rosewater showed that each edition was a separate paper and that if all were bunched they would not equal one edition of THE BEE. Continuing his remarks Mr. Rosewater argued that the only question which could be raised against the applicants was the question of good faith when they inserted their notices in The Ber. During all this time Hall was uneasy in his chair and when he got a chance to talk he insisted that no man could dictate to him, nor could be be controlled by any members of the board. Mr. Smith informed him that the board did not want to control any person, all that it wanted was to get started and dispose of the cases.

Mr. Rosewater stated that he was ready to go upon the witness stand and give testi-mony, but the way the matter was being rug it was an infamous farce and a disgrace. If he testified he wanted to see the board make the protesting party bring before the board the paper which he called the Daily World-Herald and show up its circulation, as what was fair to one side was fair to the other.

This brought Hall to his feet with a protest, claiming that it was not the thing for his client to be compelled to show his hand, even if he was the protesting party Mr. Rosewater replied by saying that the remoustrator ought to show as much good faith as the applicants, and that if the re-monstrator would not produce his books the board could not get at the question of circu-

Would Not Take Him Up. E. W. Simeral offered to quit the field if the Evening or the Morning World Herald could show a circulation of 7,000, but neither Mr. Hall nor Mr. Hitchcock accepted though Hall insisted that Mr. Rosewater was responsible for the delay. Commissioner Hartman said that he was tired of the dilatory tactics pursued by the Hitchcock crowd, and suggested that the board had about decided to adopt its own course and take the testimony of the applicants and grant licenses if everything was found in proper shape. If the board then committed a wrong there was a remedy

This did not strike Mr. Hall as the proper thing to do, but he was shut off by the mayor, who urged that the board could not spend the entire time in listening to argu-ments of attorneys, particularly when the arguments had no bearing upon the issues which which were under consideration.
It was finally agreed to hold another session this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time witnesses will be subported to give testimony, and if they do not appear the board will test the question of whether or not the body has the right to issue process and enforce its obeyance

Indiana Pedagogues Meet in Session at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Dec. 27 .- Today's program of the Indiana State Teachers association, whose convention is being held in Representative hall, was a varied and attractive one. Prof. Benton of Butler university conducted the devotional exercises, which were followed by musical numbers and papers pertaining to educational matters. A sym-posium was the morning feature, the subject being "State of Public Education," which was partipated in by President Sawin of the Indiana university, E. E. Griffith, superintendent of the Institute for the Blind; A. C. Johnson, superintendent of the Institution for Feeble Minded, and J. Charlton, superin-tendent of the Reform School for Boys. Arnold Thompson of Chicago read a paper on "The Law of the School." Tonight there was an intercollegiate debate between Indiana university and Depaw.

Kausas Teachers, TOPEKA, Dec. 27 .- The meetings of the State Teachers association showed an increased attendance today. The principal matter discussed at the morning session was the law concerning county high schools. The general belief was that the law should be mandatory, and an effort will probably be made to secure an amendment to that effect at the next session of the legislature. A general meeting was held today, and Bishop John H. Vincent, of Chautauqua fame, de-livered a lecture on "Tom and His Teachers," before '1,500 people. Officers will be

SALT LAKE, Dec. 27 .- The Irvine divorce case opened this morning with W. H. Irvine on the stand giving testimony in reputtal. He testified that Smith, his brother-in-law, told him at Omaha on November 30, 1892, that if he did not give his wife money he (Smith) would publish him in every paper and that he had to do it in the country, and that he had whether his wife was guilty or not.

On cross-examination he swore he had decided not to take his wife back before she made the Omaha confession. He had previously testified it was on November 30, eleven days afterward, that he had reached this conclusion. •He also dented that he dictated the confession. He swore that his mind was a blank the day after he killed Montgomery, but that he said nothing to Smith at that time about a confession. GEORGE LILLY HAD CASH WHEN HE DIED

But None Was Found When the Undertaker Called-Drunken Companions Tell Bad Tales and Are Arrested-All Were Old Bachelors,

The police and Coroner Maul are engaged tendered a $40 check in payment and was to in inquiring into the cause of the death on Tuesday afternoon of George Lilly and the disappearance of a sum of money which, it is contended, he held in his hands at the time when he died.

Hugh Fitzpatrick and Carl Lincoll, who are thought to know something about the matter, have been taken into custody, and are now confined in the city jail on the charge of being vags and suspicious characters. Lally was one of the oldest residents of the city and near the point of three score years, which is also about the age of the parties arrested.

Lilly was an old soldier, whose business, that of buying up and repairing old harness, brought him in contact with a great many people, to whom he was a very familiar figure. His shop, which also was his place of residence, was located at different times in different parts of the city, his last place of abode' being at 1452 South Thirteenth street. Here Fitzpatrick and Lindell mad? their home with him, the former as his partner in the harness business.

Three Gay Old Fellows. As far as can be ascertained all were old bachelors, who frequently drank freely to-gether. Lindell, it is claimed, is a pensioner of the government, drawing $14 per mouth, but whether Fitzpatrick enjoys, or Lilly did, the same privilege cannot now be stated. Their mode of living evidently proved satisfactory to all three. At times, so the po-lice claim, they were joined in their feasts by Patrick Kearney, another old familiar form at the station, who is now also viewing the outside world from behind the iron bars under a charge of being drunk.

Lilly's death occurred after several days sickness. At the time he was sitting in a chair in the shop, upon which he had been placed by his companions. It is said that he then had $150 in his hand, but when Heafey & Heafey called for the remains a short time later no money of any kind was found and the body lay on an old couch. The re-mains were removed to the undertaking establishment and nothing more was thought about the matter until yesterday, when Pat Kearoey called at the shop. He found Lin-dell and Fitzpatrick there, both in a hilari-ous state, and, of course, joined them. They Talk About the Money.

While in this condition he heard Lindell and Fitzpatrick speak about the missing money, and alternately they would accuse each other of having appropriated it. In this way the police soon received knowledge about the affair and Sergeant Whalen at 5 o'clock arrested all the parties. According to Fitzpatrick and Lindell, who were in a beastly state of intoxication at that time and unable to render an intelligent account about the matter, Lilly had no relatives except a sister in Philadelphia, whose name they do not know, but of whom they have heard Lilly speak.

Farme: He up e us : naving a Hard Time to Get Omaha Lots. Two men, John Hempleman as the plaintiff and C. O. Edling as the defendant, have gone into the courts, where they have asked Judge Ambrose to decide the merits of a trade which they made last January, and which involves the title to the block of frame store buildings at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Davenport streets, as well as the title to some land down in Sarpy

Hempleman claims that for a long time he was owner of a tract of 160 acres of land down in the vicinity of Bellevue, and that during all of this time it has produced crops which have been the pride and envy of the neighbors for miles around. About the middle of last January, he avers, he was in the city and came in contact with the defendant. Together they walked the streets, gazing into the windows of the large stores until Elling suggested that he was the owner of some property that was as good as could be found. Hempleman wanted to see the particular tract and later on in the day was allowed to gaze upon the corner lot which is now the subject of one end of the

About this time Hempleman ventured the opinion that he had something that was bet-ter than town property, but, as he had tired of farming, he would trade for some dirt in town. Edling wanted to know what this was that was more valuable than a town lot and was informed that it was a tarm in Sarpy county, near a point where the mighty Missouri always flows along in its course to the sea. Going out into the alley the two men got down in the snow, where Hempleman diagrammed in the snow an outline of that Sarpy county farm, showing the groves, the cultivated land and the location with reference to the surrounding towns and ratiroads.

After bantering one another for an hour or more the two men got to the point where they could agree upon the prices, terms and all of the minor details. Then they quit for the day, agreeing to get together at some other time and pass the titles. That time never came and that is the reason the two men are in the courts now feeing lawyers and fighting a legal battle.

The plaintiff in the case claims that at all times since the first talk he has been ready and willing to turn over his farm in ex-change for the Omana lot, but that Edling has failed to do his share in making the trade a go, and that now he absolutely refuses to confer with reference to the deal. To all of this Edling replies, alleging that when first he talked trade he was acting in good faith, but that subsequently he learned that the Sarpy county farm was nothing but a bar in the river, the most of which was covered with water and willows and was suitable for nothing but the raising of bull-

When the were consolidated under the New Jersey corporation the management of the Omaha plant was piaced in the hands of a commit-tee consisting of C. H. Venner, L. M. Under-wood and J. H. Dumont. When the suit was brought by the stockholders for the appointment of a receiver and a settlement of the the company, Judge Wakeley was retained by Mr. Dumont to assist Mr. Webster in making the defense. The stockholders won the day in the courts, and the property of the company was turned over to the receiv-ers under the direction of the court. This left tre company without funds to pay its attorney, and Judge Wakeley was left out in the wet.

The jury in the case of Willis F. Churchill against Nemaha county to recover something over $4,000 on a job lot of county bonds of the vintage of 1870 returned a verdict for the defendant. The bonds were issued to the Brownville & Fort Kearney railroad company, and ran for twelve years. The last three coupons remained unpaid, as the county claimed that the road was not completed according to contract. Jurors for Next Year.

The county commissioners have about completed the preliminary work of preparing for the drawing of jurors for the courts to be held during the year 1894. This preparation is made in accordance with the provisions of the law passed at the last session of the legislature and is much different from the old mode of procedure.

This time the commissioners have taken the polibooks of the November election and therefrom selected the names of one-tenth of the voters who cast ballots at the election These names are selected alphabetically and proportionately from all of the wards and precincts, and after being so selected they are placed in the jury list box and drawn out as needed. In making up the roll of jurors at this time the commissioners have placed 2,300 names in the box.
