Brooks Wants a Pardon.

Domestic soap is the nest.

James Brooks of this city is circulating a petition about the city asking the governor to pardon his son, Tom, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Fort Madison for murder. The circumstances of the crime are well remembered by the people of Council Bluffs who have lived here for the past five years. Brooks and a young man named Frank De-Goode were in a saloon known as "The Bucket of Blood" on Upper Broadway one afternoon in May 1889. Brooks discharged a pistol and DeGoode was instantly killed Brooks claimed the shooting was accidental, but the evidence controverted that statement, and he was sent up for life. Mr Brooks claims to have received

Doug McGuire has been identified beyond doubt by the young woman who was employed as domestic at William Keeline's house, as the man who broke into their house several years ago and stole quite a lot of valuable property. McGuire had a partial hearing in erty. McGuire had a partial hearing in Judge McGee's court yesterday afternoon, and considerable evidence was adduced against him. The young woman referred to, in going from one room into another, was suddenly confronted by McGuire, who stopped and talked with her some little time. When he left the goods were found to be missing. It was further shown that McGuire had confessed the crime while confined in the Nobraska pentientry; to Mr. Keeline and had promised to restore them to him if Keeline would not prosecute him a condition to line would not prosecute him a condition to which begins said be agreed. DIVORCE MILL.

Two Cases Receive Attention from Judge Thornell-Peter Miller's Case Dismissed. The divorce case of Peter C. Miller was on trial in the district court not been for a little technicality, which cause him to sweat- a few months longer It seems that instead of waiting until the statutors two years had elapsed between his wife's desertion and the time of commencing his suit, he filed his petition eighteen months after his wife find sused to live with him. The case was accordingly dismissed and he was told to file another information three months from now.

Mary A. Hansen's plen for a divorce from Hans C. Hansen was also under considera-tion. Both live in Necla. and the plaintiff's side of the case was looked after by a local attorney. The evidence showed that the two had lived together without intermission from the time the suit was commenced until the night before the trial was to begin. They then separated and for the first time they found themselves without the delights of home life. One rather amusing thing took place during this cross-examination of Hansen. Stolen Cattle Recovered. A "trampified" young man introducing bimself as Harry Smith was found yesterday afternoon with five cattle in his care which seemed to be stolen. He was trying to sell them for $25 a bead, when competent judges thought they were worth at least $40. He said he was coming to Council Bluffs by the ran across a man driving a team, behind the cattle. The man offered him the job of taking the cattle to the city and Smith accepted. Thompson, as the other man called himself, told his new man so keep the cattle for him near the Western house while he went to Omaha and also told him to sell them for $25 if he could Smith claims to be perfectly innocent of any wrongdoing and the authorities are inclined to believe his statement. The cattle are evidently stolen, but they think it was Thompson who did the job. In the meantime the cattle are in Jenning's stable wall-ing for an owner to turn up. They are said to bear the same brand as some cattle owned by Mr. Prouty, east of the city.
