WILL RESIST THE ORDER.

Railroad Men Will Seek to Have Federal Court Decrees Mod fied.

Representatives of the American Railway union will probably be in Omaha Thursday to present to Judge Dundy a petition signed by 5,000 employes of the Union Pacific protesting against the recent equalization wage schedule ordered by the circuit court of this district. Eugene Debs, president of the union, has wired local officials here that he will be in Omaha Thursday and it is expected representatives of unions on the entire system will be present to urge Judge Dundy to withdraw the order granted some days ago. In speaking of the order Mr. Debs is represented to have said: "The court not only reduces wages, but compels the employes to accept the reduc-If they submit without a fight their enslavement is accomplished, and no possible plea can lift them a thousandth part of an nch above the dead line of degradation. Federal judges are treading on dangerous ground. If they are not totally mortgaged to their corporate bosses they will take warning of the mutterings their cruel and Infamous decisions are exciting. The American Railway union may be relied upon to do its duty as it understands it, totally regardless of Judge Dundy. The real anarchists occupy the federal bench. The issue is upon us and I am in favor of facing it, not evading it. If the men are true to their manhood they will rise as one man from end to end of the system, to resent the monstrous judicial outrage that strips them naked of their guaranteed constitutional rights.' In this section the employes are little affected by the order, but they are in sympathy with their brethren of the west who are endeavoring to have Judges Riner and Hallett refuse to issue confirmatory orders regarding the wage schedule.

The meeting of Union Pacific employes Saturday at Cheyenne developed the fact that the men desired to exhaust all legal efforts first before any extreme measures were resorted to, the speeches made at the meeting which was held in Knights of Pythias hall being of a very conservative character.

GOT DOWN TO BUSINESS.

Attorneys in the Northern Pacific Case Consume the Day in Arguments.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 6.-The attorneys in the Northern Pacific fight, who spent yesterday in skirmishing, got down to the real business in the case this morning and consumed the entire day in arguments, some of syhich were very vigorous and made things interesting for the spectators. At the request of the court, Colonel Pettit made a synopsis of the allegations on which he thought it would be necessary to furnish proof. Some time was consumed in going over the synopsis and explaining it to the of the court. Not much progress was made, however, and it is probable the argument will be finished tomorrow

No Strike on the Northern Pacific.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 6.-The chiefs of the railway brotherhoods now in the city to consider the grievances of the Northern Pacific employes will leave here for Milwaukee tomorrow night, a conference with General Manager Kendrick and the receivers of the Northern Pacific having been agreed upon for Thursday in that city. There has been no strike ordered and there will be no decision of any sort in the matter until after this conference. Even should the conference result in the defeat of the men a unanimous vote of the grand officers of the brotherhood is required to order a strike, and that is scarcely likely from present in-

The chiefs, without exception, denounce the rumors of a strike as "nonsense" and without any foundation. They claim that without any foundation. They claim that all actions against them have not been legal and are occasionally inclined to be bitter in expressing themselves against the injunction order of Judge Jenkins, but assert positively that a strike is a last resort, and will not even be considered until all other means of attaining their end have failed.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

SMITH NAMED FOR BUILDING INSPECTOR

Municipal Tax Levy Slightly Reduced-Disenssion on Market House Ordinance-Beindorff Will Be Paid-Report in Specht (asc.

Mayor Bemis submitted to the city council last evening the appointment of W. S. Shoemaker, democrat, as city prosecutor, and Richard Smith as inspector of buildings. The first was confirmed and the second turned over to the judiciary committee. The democratic members seemed to have had an inkling of what was coming, for it was quietly whispered around for an hour or two before the meeting that this was down on the bills, and shortly before $ o'clock President Howell called all the democrats and Councilman Hascall into the committee room, where a short caucus was held. When they emerged each councilman had a full deck of trumps up his sleeve.

It was a few minutes after the regular time when the gavel fell. Deputy United States Marshal Coggeshall served notices of an injunction restraining the members from proceeding with the proposed changes in the railroad assessment against the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad; President Howell named A. H. Behrens sergeant-at-arms, the appointment being confirmed; the annual reports of the city treasurer, commissioner of health and gas inspector were received, and then came

The record was read and Wheeler challenged its correctness.
In the absence of Mr. Bechel, who made the original motion, the chair held that the record was the best evidence and ordered the roll call on confirmation. The appointment was confirmed by the following vote: Yeas—Burkley, Cahn, Elsusser, Hascall, Holmes, Lemly, McAndrews, Parker, Mr. President—10. Nays—Bruner, Edwards, Jacobsen, Saunders, following Elsasser.

On the first call both Jacobsen and Specht passed, and on the recall both voted no, but the result was announced Specht changed to aye, and gave Mr. Shoemaker a

The mayor also sent in the name of Richard Smith for building inspector, but on motion of Holmes the appointment was sent to the judiciary committee. EBBITT'S HOPES AGAIN BLASTED. Parker called up the action of the recommendation of the vote rejecting the appoint-ment of Richard Ebbitt as city veterenarian. The action was reconsidered by a vote of to S, with the democrats and Hascall arrayed against the republicans. Saunders raised the point that a full majority vote was necessary to reconsider, but was overruled.

The roll call on confirmation resulted in another blasting of Ebbitt's hopes by a repetition of the vote in Shoemaker's case. The bond of the American National bank in the sum of $50,000 as a city depository vas referred to the city attorney. Herman Kountze asked that Tenth street between Mason and Williams be repayed.

J. E. Bonewitz petitioned for the exten sion of the Leavenworth street car line from Fortieth to Forty-eighth street. Referred A comunication was received from the fire insurance bureau praying for the speedy passage of the pending electrical ordinance. It was set forth that the existing ordinance is inadequate and unless changed would induce a great many companies to quit doing business in the city. It was claimed that the proposed ordinance was the only safeguard proposed to prevent disastrous fires, and that the interestof the companies in this matter was also the inrest of the property owners.

The matter was referred. C. Bruner withdrew his offer of land relative to the North Omaha ditch, made a week ago.

A communication from General Manager Dickinson of the Union Pacific suggested that all communications from the city to the Union Pacific be addressed to the c nasmuch as the road was in the hands of

The protest of W. F. Sweezy and others gainst the use of Jefferson square for any but park purposes was referred.

The building inspector was allowed $50 o defray expenses of a trip to Beston to attend the annual convention of the Na-tional Association of Building Inspectors. The president was instructed to appoint a special committee of three to devise ways and means to offset the delay of property owners in paying special assessments caused by the recent decision of Judge Ambrose, and named Saunders, Cahn and Edwards

The finance committee reported in favor of amending the sewer bond ordinance by making the sum $49,000 instead of $75, owing to the impossibility of exceeding the limit of bonded indebtedness. Adopted. Adopted. DEBATE OVER TAX LEVY.

The finance committee reported the tax levy for 1894 as agreed upon by the informal neeting of the council on the preceding day. Elsasser offered a resolution calling radical reduction, but it was defeated, as was the committee report immediately afterward, the majority being in favor of still further retrenchment, although not to the extent proposed by Elsasser. After the vote was reconsidered, Burkley moved to change the sinking fund levy from 8 to 7 mills; water, from 4 to 3½ mills; lighting, from 3 to 2½ mills; curbing, guttering and cleaning, from 2 to 11/2 mills; and the general fund from 10 to 8 mills.

The council declined to cut the water levy, but reduced the curbing, guttering and cleaning levy from 2 to 11/2 mills.

A lengthy discussion followed the at-empt to reduce the sinking fund levy. The followed the atcity treasurer insisted that 8 mills would be necessary, and the comptroller receded from his position previously taken that 7 mills would be sufficient. It was finally decided that the maintenance of the city's credit abroad would not permit any niggardline in this direction, and the levy was left at 8 mills, while the lighting fund levy was allowed to stand at 3 mills, and the gen-eral fund levy at 10 mills.

Hascall kicked against any reduction. His speech had the effect of inducing Edwards to move to reconsider the reduction of the curbing fund levy, but it failed to carry.

Elsasser moved again to reduce the general fund levy from 10 to 9 mills. It was fought by Wheeler and Edwards, but it car-ried by a vote of 9 to 8.

The ordinance was then ordered sugressed in accordance with these figures, calling for a lovy of 43½ mills for municipal purposes for 1894, 1/2 mill less than last year. The judiciary committee reported baying investigated the charges preferred by E. W. Simeral against Conneilman Specht, and expressed the belief that they were unfounded and inspired by improper motives. It was further set forth that the charges were fallacious and mendacious, and that there was nothing that would warrant the mayor in inatituting impeachment proceedings.

IMPRESSIVE SCENES AT THE CHURCH Bruner stated that the popular clamor was for a market house on Jefferson square, Thousands of Sincers Mourners Gather was impossible to purchase ground for the creetion of such a structure anywhere else, the committee had concluded 'Round His Bier-L. id to Rest by the Side of His Lifethat the only way to get it this year was Long Friend.

to take the square and begin the expendi-ture of the money voted by the people. Saunders said the matter might as well be settled first as last. It was certain that the city couldn't buy at this time, and it was simply a question whether to take $25,000 and start work on the square now or have nothing. If the ordinance was defeated, the council would have nothing on which to go ahead, and the market house project would be dead for a long time to come, while if it was passed, the council could go ahead if it so desired, but the passage did not necessarily fix the site upon lefferson square. Wheeler kicked against it, and was of the opinion that the site ought to be first agreed upon, and then the bonds could be issued afterwards.

Hascall thought that in view of the action of the park commissioners it would be a long time before any money could be spent on Jefferson square for market house purposes, and inveighed to quite a length against that site.
On recommendation of Saunders, who said that he was about to introduce an ordinance on that subject, the report was referred back to the committee, with instructions to report on it at the same time the report on ordinance was submitted. The committee on public property and buildings reported that the smoke consumer placed in the city hall was all that was claimed for it, and on its recommendation the comptroller was instructed to place in the next appropriation ordinance the amount of $600 as the balance due W. S. Hutchinson. The same committee reported on the claim of Architect Beindorff, also submitting the report of City Attorney Connell on the same matter. The committee thought the report of the city attorney unjust, and found that the architect was entitled to the greater part of his claim, as he was not responsible for the changes that had been made in the plans. It found that deduc-tions amounting to $567.55 should be made,

Yesterday afternoon John Sheehey shot his wife in the left side and was arrested. The affair took place in the home of the couple, 1614 Martha street, and was at first supposed to be accidental. This statement does not agree with that of Mr. and Mrs. Sheehey, who say the girl was outside scrubbing the steps at the time Chief Detective Haze thought that in the face of the conflicting stories he would be death of his brother, and as time went on he began to lay his plans to put an end to Ciampaniella's life. The latter was to have been married today, and the preparations had been made for the event. Invitations had been issued and almost everybody in the village, which has only 800 inhabitants, expected to have a dance and feast.

Early this morning Falcini avenged his brother's death. He treacherously cut the throat of the expectant bridegroom and then placed the corpse in the nuptial bed that had been already prepared. Falcini surrendered to the police, acknowledging his crime with out the slightest trace of remorse.

The bride-elect was informed of the fate of her intended husband and some of her friends took her to the room in which the murderer had placed the body. When she saw the corpse lying on the nuptial couch her grief was frightful. It is feared she will lose her reason.

Falcini's sister and brother-in-law have been arrested, it being suspected that they instigated Falcini to commit the murder when he did.

The town was borrified when the news of the murder was made public and the carnival fetes were at once stopped.

CAMPAIGN AGAIN T THE YAQUIS.

Mexican Government Determined to Break the Power of This Troublesome Tribe. HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mex., Feb., 6 .- A campaign against the rebellious Yaqui Indians of northern Mexico is being organized by General Luis E. Torres, which, it is hoped, will be effectual in completely breaking the power of this troublesome tribe. Aside from the targe force of regular troops, including the famous mounted rurales, themselves made up largely of exoutlaws, the field forces will comprise many volunteers from the large haciendas of the state.

A campaign to the death will be inaugurated, and it is intended it shall not come to the close until the Yaquis are exterminated, if that is the only way in which they can be subdued. If an escape is attempted across the border into the United States to form a union of war with their cousins, the Apaches, General McCook of Denver, who is a close friend of General Torres, operate with his troops in Arizona and New Mexico in bringing the Indians to surrender The Yaquis, like the now almost extermi nated Tomachians, have given the Mexican government no end of trouble. In their nountain strongholds they have boldly met the forces sent against them, sometimes repulsing the troops with great slaughter. The presence of the Yaquis in the Slerra Madres has always been a great drawback to the prospecting and working of the rich mineral veins known to exist in the ranges of northern Mexico. The pending campaign will be a hard one, and the last stand of the Yaquis will be watched with close interest from many directions.

Individualism stands today a con-fessed failure, and Mammon, bankrupt, will oon have to put up the shutters."

An Enormous Pearl.

The steamship St. Paul on her last voyage up stopped as usual at La Pas, on the southern coast of Lower California, the headquarters and outfilling point of the pearl fishing industry, says the San Francisco Call. Engineer Thomas Houston reports intense excitement at the little port on account of the finding of a magnificent pearl by one of the divers lately, one almost rivating the famous "Cheopatra," the largest ever taken from the Lower California fisheries and which was valued at $10,000. The Cleopatra is perfect in shape and color and is nearly circular, it is about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and now graces a brooch of the empress of Germany.

The pearl just discovered is described by Mr. Houston as being as large as a marble and quite as perfect in form and color as the Cleopatra. Its called is placed at $1,000.

The fortune diver is named Ygnacio Perez, the found the pearl on December 29 lastin an oyster which he secured on the coast about sixty miles north of the lowest point of the east coast of the pearled on the coast about sixty miles north of the lowest point of the east coast of the pearled on the procession for his discovery, and with the characteristic generosity of his race, he was spending among his friends the proceedis, "Mescal flowed like water," says Mr. Houston, "and everybody was full," When the St. Paul left the feasing was at its height and the rejoieting continued.
