IN SAN DIEGO'S SUNSHINE

Many Omahans Are Basking in the Beautiful Light of the Lovely Region.

ATTRACTIONS AND DRAWBACKS COMPARED

Glorious Climate Offset by Lack of Population-Great Estates that Now Lie Idle-Hope of Southern Callfornia Yet Unrealized.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 30 .- (Correspondence of The Bee.) -Almost every writer on southern California devotes no small portion of his space to a description of the glorious climate. Atthough I promised before leaving Omaha to confine my attention to other subjects, it would hardly do to depart entirely and abruptly from so well established a custom. A resident of Omaha can very easily understand the climatic conditions prevailing in the winter time in San Diego, as the weather here at the present time is almost an exact reproduction of the early fail weather in Omaha. Early in the morning it is a little too cool, but by 9 o'clock the thermometer will register 60 degrees or above and the overcoat can be dispensed with until evening. In the afternoon there is usually a light breeze blowing in from the scean, which must be very grateful on a warm day and which, the residents claim makes the summer even more agreeable than the winter. People coming here from the east require the zame warm crothing that they wear in Omaha. Straw hats and light suits of clothing should be left at

This is the so-called rainy season, but so far I have seen only one slight sprinkle, which was over in an hour. It is also the season when fogs are to be expected, but they come mostly in the night when with a good ofear conscience are in bed and Day after day the sun shines down asleep. Day after day the sun shines down from the bluest of skies unobstructed by a

This absence of fog and rain so prevalent in some parts of the state is the greatest inducement for selecting San Diego as a win-ter residence. I will say, however, for the benefit of people who are to make their first visit here, or to any other part of California, hat they will do well to pay no heed to the stories of natives who represent that artfi-cial heat is unnecessary. A great many peo-ple have all the pleasure taken out of their stay in California by being persuaded to occupy rooms that cannot be warmed. A fire is an absolute necessity in a sitting room in he evening, and any attempt to do without t is almost sure to be followed by severe

A great many Californians have the nistaken idea that they must represent their country as tropical, and in their en deavor to convey this idea they have tried to keep stoves out of sight, with the result that hundreds of people have been disgusted with the climate, when a very little artifi cial heat in the rooms would have made them content and happy. There are, how-ever, plenty of warm rooms to be found in the hotels and private boarding houses, in risitors will maist upon them.

From what I know of places frequented by tourists I think I can safely say that charges are very reasonable at San Diego. The hotels run free 'busses to the depot, and carriages can be had at 25 cents. The hotel rates are from $2 per day up, or about the same as in Omaha. A very large proportion of the tourists, however, engage rooms in private houses and take their meals out, or in some cases take rooms and board at the same place. Day or table board at the best private boarding houses is 25 cents per meal, while good furnished rooms can be had at from $5 to $10 per month, the price depending upon the size and location. Families intending to remain during the winter frequent; take furnished houses and keep house, while others engage rooms fitted up for light lousekeeping. There are several routes over which travelers can reach southern California, but at this season of the year the most northerly are too cold, besides being liable to snow blocksdes. The Santa Fe is the only through line that reaches San Diego, and is the most fornia from Omaha at this season. The road runs through a country having many points The traveler is taken across the prairies of Kansas and catches a glimpse of some of the most important cities of the state, including the capital. Passing through a corner of Colorado Pike's Peak comes into view, and for a few hours the traveler can enjoy ar enchanting panorams of mountain scenery. Coming into New Mexico the scenery takes on a new aspect which is made doubly interesting by the strange old Mexican towns with their low, flat-roofed adobe houses, around whose doors cluster women and children in fantastically colored gar ments. Then, all of a sudden, the train will emerge from the mountain canons and the great American desert appears, always dreary, but always interesting. At every turn there is something new or novel to en tertain the traveler. Parties coming here from Omaha can take the Sau Diego car on the Santa Fe at Kansas City and come clear through without change. Baggage can be checked at Omaha through to San Diego.

OMAHA HAS A COLONY THERE. San Diego is so seldom mentioned in Omaha that I had not anticipated meeting more than one or two old acquaintances at the most and was agreeably surprised to find a large Omaha colony. Learning that around to renew acquaintance and fortu-

The location of San Diego could hardly be improved as a site for a city. In front of it is the bay, one of the finest harbors in the world. Across the bay, located on a narrow peninsula, is Coronado, with its mammoth hotel and many other attractions. Back of the city is a wide expanse of rolling mesa, bounded by a semi-circle of lofty mountains. In whatever direction one may look there is a charming view of mountain or sea, or both. Business in San Diego is very dull. The ter-Business in San Diego is very dull. minus of the largest railroad system in the world (the Santa Fe) and with splendid facilities for shipping by water, trade in the city in all lines languishes. Some say wait until the Nicaragua canal is completed and then you will see business boom; others say if the mossbacks would only use some of their money to build factories the problem of dull times would be solved. But canals and factories gannot alone build a city unless there is a country back of it. Ships will not visit a harbor where there are no people to take their cargoes or no producers to furnish new cargoes.

TOWNS AREAD OF THE COUNTRY. The great trouble with business in south-ern California is that people tried to build great cities before the country was settled. Boomers would say, "Here is a fine site for a city," and they would build the city, but these cities, created by main strength and enthusiasm, languish by reason of the absence from the surrounding country of the man with the hoe and plow. Think of transport to the surrounding San Diego county has an area of 14,969 square miles, more than fourteen times the area of Rhode Island, and larger than combined, and yet had a population of only 34,987 in 1890. Almost one-half of the total population is centered in the one city of San Diego. The greater part of this yast total tory was owned by a few men who bought up old Spanish or Mexican grants and held onto their land, neither improving it them-selves, nor allowing any one else to. As a result you can travel for miles without see-ing a sign of a human habitation. The farmers who would have improved the land and have caused cities and towns to spring up on every side were kept out. This was the rule with the older California, but younger generation is coming into possession of these lands and the vast estates are being broken up and sold out in small lots to actua settlers.

in company with S. F. Bennett and F. T. Andrews, I took a drive the other day J. A. Allison, a fair representative of this younger California. Only a few miles out from San Diego we came to his lands, and hour after hour we drove over rolling mesa lands and through beautiful little valleys, and at last when we turned homeward we this one citizen of San Diego. Fortunately for the country, the owner of this property as well as a good many other land has thrown his lands open to settlement We saw hundreds of acres of young lemon orehards that had been planted out during the past year and they present a benutiful sight. The land is graded before the trees are set out and the ground is plowed and cultivated until it is in better condition than any garden in Nebraska. The settlers generally are building a better class of houses than are usually found in a new country, and as the holdings average only ten to twenty acres, the homes are close to-gether and farm life is not so lonesome as it is in the Missouri valley where the farms run from a quarter to a half section each. Land values in San Diego county look high to an eastern man, though it is cheaper in this county than in most other sections of southern California. Good lands, five to seven miles from the city of San Diego, such as I mentioned driving over, can be had at $100 per acre, including the water right but, as the farms are so much smaller, the total cost of a farm is no greater than in Nebraska. The farmers here have the the year round, so that they get more use of the soil than do farmers in colder climates. Actual settlers are not required to make any payment on the lands before will make improvements at once. If all the great land owners would follow this example of cutting up their hold-ings into small farms the country in southern California would, in a few years, become densely populated and cities would grow without booming and business would increase in volume and activity.

BRILLIANT AND GORGEOUS. Today's Procession at New Orleans More

Beauti of than Usual.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.-The carnival procession today was unusually beautiful and notably free from accidents and violence. It was II o'clock when Rex appeared this forenoon. He came out from his den on Calliope street with his long train of beautiful cars and with gay courtiers and a royal retinue and a host of bands making martial music. The king was greeted with the utmost enthususm on all sides. EFFECT OF THE CARPENTERS' ACTION

None but Union Knights of the Saw and Hammer Will Get Work in Omaha This Year Among the Labor Unions.

The joint committee of the Carpenters and Joiners' union of Omalia held a special meeting Monday night in the ante-room of the Knights of Labor hall and issued a call for all carpenters and joiners in Omaha to meewith them next Thursday evening in Knights of Labor hall on third floor 110-112 South Fourtsenth street.

It is evident that all the carpenters who get work in Omaha the coming season must be members of the Carpenters' and Joiners union, and the committee therefore invites all non-union carpenters who wish to join one of the unions to come to the meeting Thursday evening at 8 p. m., where their applications will be received. Nearly all the building contractors in Omaha have been visited by the committee to ascertain how they stood on the proposition to work eight hours per day at 20 cents per hour and hardly any opposition has been met. The agreement also requires the contractors to employ none but union men which is a recognition always desired by every labor organization. The time of the agreement is to extend to May 1, 1895, therefore every contractor will know just what labor will cost for the coming season and will figure accordingly. Many of the contractors say they are glad that the Omaha carpenters have been able to get themselves together in a strong organization, as here wages was many times underbid by a cor tractor who would grind his men down to enable him to make a low bid. It is claimed that this practice will be entirely done away with under the new arrangement made, as none of the contractors will be able to get men to work for less than 30 cents per h fact, from the sentiment now expressed by the leading contractors of the city, it is generally believed that none of them would ask a man to work for less than the amount

It will be remembered that the journeymen first asked 35 cents per hour, but after they had met with the contractors and talked the matter over they decided to come down to 30 cents if the contractors would agree to employ none but union men and work only eight hours per day. About one half of the contractors have signed the agreement, and the visiting committee was instructed to go on until all had been seen and the agreement explained to them.

CHARGES AGAINST A DOCTOR.

County Physician Asked to Answer Complaints Made on Behalf of the Poor. An investigation of the charges preferred against County Physician Lahyon by the Central Labor union was commenced by the county commissioners yesterday, the members of the committee on charity listening to the testimony. F. S. Horton, the recording secretary of the organization, had filed a communication in which he stated that it had been the cusom of the doctor to entrust the business of ooking after the county poor to an understudy, and cited the sickness in the Seaton family, at 1008 Arbor street, as an example of what had happened. Mrs. Lettie Seaton was the first witness called, and in her testimony stated that on January 2 her two children were taken sick. whereupon she telephoned the county doctor. That night he sent out a Mr. Johnson, who prescribed for the children and returned to the city. The next day Johnson visited the children again and decided that they had ever, he had changed his mind and pronounced the trouble scarlet fever. This treatment continued for several days and until Dr. Lanyon called. Upon seeing the children be pronounced the disease diphtheria. After that the doctor visited the house each day until the little girl died, which was on January 15. Dr. Lanyon interrupted the witness to state that the party who had been sent out to look after the children was not Dr. Johnson, but was a student by the name of Berghal, who had been discharged since that time for drunkeness. Dr. Teeters of the Omaha medical college testified that Johnson was a student, and that it was not the custom with physicians to send such young fellows out to look after cases. He knew that Johnson had frequenty attended to calls for Dr. Lanyon, and had signed his name to prescriptions, especially among the county charges. This was true in the Weston case down on Pacific street, which was treated last summer Dr. Lanyon admitted sending Johnson, but claimed that it was only in simple cases, and when he was to busy to go out.

Victor Rosewater testified to having written the facts concerning the Weston case and that he had reported it for The Bee last June. At that time he had a conversation with Dr. Lanyon, in which the doctor had told him that he allowed Johnson to prescribe in some of the simple

J. B., Schupp, president of Central Labor union testified that the complaint was not filed on account of any ill-will that he bore Dr. Lanyon, but because he felt that after the charges were filed an investigation was demanded, in order that the public might know whether or not the county doctor was eglecting his duty.

In his own behalf Dr. Lanyon explained that he was with the county poor from early in the morning until late at night, frein the morning until late at night, frequently making twenty or thirty visits per day and prescribing for as many more cases from the office. He had never refused to respond to a case and did all that he could to relieve the suffering of the sick. His county patients called him to all parts of the city and also to the county jail. In speaking of the work he said that two years are there was a county physician and two ago there was a county physician and two assistants, but now he was compelled to do all of the work alone, as the county had failed to provide him with an assistant The commissioners admitted the truth of the statement, and the further hearing of

The executive board of the Builders and Traders exchange held a regular meeting yesterday in its rooms on the second floor of the New York Life building for the porpose of transacting routine business. Mr. Richard Smith announced that he had decided not to go to the Boston meeting February 13. as the finances of the exchange are rather low and he did not consider it advisable to spend the money that might be used to better advantage in some other way. The Omaha exchange will therefore be represented by Mr. A. J. Vierling alone, who will start for Boston next Saturday.

Mr. George C. Bassett was seen at the Exchange rooms and was asked by a re-porter of the Bee to give his opinion of the agreement now being signed by the organ-ized carpenters and building contractors. Mr. Bassett gave his opinion as follows:

"I am perfectly satisfied with the agree-ment provided the journeymen will all get together and stick together so that we may depend upon them living up to their part of the contract. I do not think, however, that the contract. I do not think, however, that the proposed agreement should apply to all work, that is, to work now contracted for and under way of completion. Another thing that the journeymen should do is to keep their members from going out and taking contracts at a figure less than can be done by paying 30 cents per hour, or, in other words no member of the union should do contracting, and whenever any of the union men do start in to contracting they one word describes it. "perfection," We refer to De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve, cures piles.

Union men de start in to contracting they should be required to leave the union and come on the same basis with other contractor. These points are very important to us and they should be observed by the journeymen if they desire the building contractors to cooperate with them in upholding a fair scale of wages. I am satisfied that the wages they ask are not too much, and I have always paid the very best wages and will coatinue to pay as good wages as any one, for I always want good men. I expect them to do good work and therefore I am in favor of paying good wages, but before entering into paying good wages, but before entering into any agreement I want to know that the union will be able to uphold their part of the Discussed National Affairs. At a meeting held Monday night in Knights of Labor hall by Cooks assembly No. 443 considerable oratory was indulged in by the members and visitors. "The course of General Master Workman Sovereign in bringing njunction proceedings against Secretary Car-injunction proceedings against Secretary Car-liste to restrain him from Issuing more United States bonds was pretty thoroughly discussed and his action approved.

The members also discussed the proposi-tion to establish postal savings banks in con-nection with the postal department of the government, and reference was made to an editorial comment in The Sunday Bee advo-cating the establishment of cating the establishment of postal banks on the same lines as advocated by the Knight of Labor.

It was urged that if this country had had no operation a perfect system of postal savings banks during the past year the paste would not have been one-half so severe and far-reaching as it was, for the depositors would not have withdrawn their money from circulation and hid it away, as was done by circulation and hid it away, as was done by thousands of working people. It was the opinion of those present that auch a system would go a long way toward preventing a recurrence of the times we are now passing through, and that the working people cared more for their savings being in safe places than for drawing a large rate of interest. After initiating one new member, who came late in the evening the meeting addistruction

New Car Coupler.

Mr. Elias Carey of this city has invented and secured a patent on a car coupler that is claimed by members of the local Switchmen's union to be just what railroad men have been wanting for years. The Switchmen's union has gone so far as to indorse the invention of Mr. Carey as being the best yet invented and the delegate from the ocal union will take a model of Mr. Carey's patent to the national meeting of the St. Louis, Mo., next May, and ask the indorsement of that body for the "Carey coupler." The inventor says that several railroad superintendents have examined his invention and say that it is perfect, and that if it is used on all cars there will be no more danger in switching than any other railroad work. It is so arranged that cars are uncoupled without the switchman going between the cars, and the coupling is made by the action of the machinery

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Business Transacted at the Weekly A cetling of the Executive Committee. The executive committee of the Commercial club held its weekly sociable yesterday. There was a full attendance. Secretary Drexel read a number of communications including an appeal from the New York Chamber of Commerce to oppose the income tax bill. The appeal was promptly smochcred and placed on file. A communication from Cartiss C. Turner suggesting a general meeting of the club to discuss county road improvement was read. It was decided to make the subject the special order of business to be considered at the next general meeting of the club to be held next Tuesday sore throats and treated them accordingly, evening. Mr. Turner was invited to deliver that time. R. F. Hodgin of the commercial exhibit profested against the manner in which the club has embarked in the news paper business by publishing a trade journal called the Index, and ignoring former ar-rangements made between Mr. Holgin and the organization. The matter was referred to the committee on printing, upon motion Commissioner Utt reported progress on se-curing a sugar refinery for Omaha. It was lecided to send a committee to Chicago to offer inducements for the location of the plant at this point. After the transaction f business of a routine nature, the committee took up the special order of business, namely, the Platte canal project. In addressing the committee today Dr. George L. Miller detailed the advantage of the enterprise and expressed the hope that public interest in the project would be re-vived and result in its consummation. He dwelt upon the tremendous water power of the Platte within easy reach, which could be utilized to develop the industrial and a mimercial interests of Omnha. Engineers hid investigated that water power and were curaptured. The doctor lamonted the fact that Omaha besitated. The time was ripe for industrial activity, or else the town might as well hy down and ale of industrial paralysis. The project, he opined, was the great agency of development and he hoped the people would realize it and act accordingly.

At the conclusion of the speaker's remarks ex-Governor Stunders wanted to know if matters would not be expedited if the club took definite action to encourage the project. Chairman Weller said that the committee would merely hear a discussion of the subject and that no action was contem-plated at present. They simply "wanted to
