

DAN SICKLES' DEFEAT

One-Legged General Heads a Successful Revolt in the House of Representatives.

ARRESTED BY THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

Refusal to Recognize the Warrant or the Speaker Blocks the Business.

AMOS CUMMINGS GIVES ALE ASSISTANCE

Tammany's Members Defy the Forces of the Assembled Cohorts of Democracy.

TOM REED HAS SOME QUOTAMUS

His Interjections Settle Dockery, Who Held the Gavel—How the Members Celebrated the Birthday of Their Country's Father.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Washington's birthday was ushered into the dramatic incidents which possibly culminate with legal proceedings against the sergeant-at-arms for false imprisonment of members of congress. Sergeant-at-Arms Snow, acting by virtue of the general warrant of arrest issued last Monday, has been apprehending members wherever they could be found.

The warrant contains the names of fifty-six congressmen. Mr. Snow began last night to arrest congressmen on the floor of the house on warrants charging them with absenting themselves on Monday. This was in accordance with a colloquy between Speaker Crisp and the sergeant-at-arms during the session yesterday. Mr. Snow asked if he was expected to arrest members on the floor.

Mr. Crisp answered that the sergeant-at-arms was expected to "execute the order." This was accepted as meaning that arrests on the floor should be made, and Mr. Snow at once began to carry this idea into effect.

He arrested seven congressmen as they sat in their seats. Deputies made as many more arrests. In each case the member was tapped on the shoulder and then told that he was released on parole to appear when required.

This morning these arrests began and continued until interrupted by a stirring scene. Representative Cummings of New York came down the aisle of the house just as the session was about to open.

Deputy Hill stepped up to him and notified him that under the warrant he had Mr. Cummings would be placed under arrest and his parole taken. The congressman refused to accept a compromise which would have allowed him to withdraw from the hall by the use of force.

The deputy quickly withdrew, however, as the orders of the sergeant-at-arms were to avoid indignities to congressmen in every possible way. The men who were apprehended threaten to secure suitable redress and talk of legal proceedings for false imprisonment.

Sergeant-at-Arms Snow says: "The greatest care has been taken to avoid giving offense to members. My orders to deputies are to proceed with the utmost caution and deference. We do not arrest members as though they were tramps or common drunks. They are merely notified that they are under arrest. I desire to know if this is correct."

"I give you fair warning," said Mr. Cummings, "that if you touch me you act at your peril."

For a moment it looked as though there would be serious trouble, as Mr. Cummings plainly intimated that he intended to resist the slightest touch of the sergeant-at-arms by the use of force. The deputy quickly withdrew, however, as the orders of the sergeant-at-arms were to avoid indignities to congressmen in every possible way.

The greatest care has been taken to avoid giving offense to members. My orders to deputies are to proceed with the utmost caution and deference. We do not arrest members as though they were tramps or common drunks. They are merely notified that they are under arrest. I desire to know if this is correct."

"I give you fair warning," said Mr. Cummings, "that if you touch me you act at your peril."

For a moment it looked as though there would be serious trouble, as Mr. Cummings plainly intimated that he intended to resist the slightest touch of the sergeant-at-arms by the use of force.

The deputy quickly withdrew, however, as the orders of the sergeant-at-arms were to avoid indignities to congressmen in every possible way.

The greatest care has been taken to avoid giving offense to members. My orders to deputies are to proceed with the utmost caution and deference. We do not arrest members as though they were tramps or common drunks. They are merely notified that they are under arrest. I desire to know if this is correct."

"I give you fair warning," said Mr. Cummings, "that if you touch me you act at your peril."

For a moment it looked as though there would be serious trouble, as Mr. Cummings plainly intimated that he intended to resist the slightest touch of the sergeant-at-arms by the use of force.

The deputy quickly withdrew, however, as the orders of the sergeant-at-arms were to avoid indignities to congressmen in every possible way.

The greatest care has been taken to avoid giving offense to members. My orders to deputies are to proceed with the utmost caution and deference. We do not arrest members as though they were tramps or common drunks. They are merely notified that they are under arrest. I desire to know if this is correct."

"I give you fair warning," said Mr. Cummings, "that if you touch me you act at your peril."

For a moment it looked as though there would be serious trouble, as Mr. Cummings plainly intimated that he intended to resist the slightest touch of the sergeant-at-arms by the use of force.

The deputy quickly withdrew, however, as the orders of the sergeant-at-arms were to avoid indignities to congressmen in every possible way.

The greatest care has been taken to avoid giving offense to members. My orders to deputies are to proceed with the utmost caution and deference. We do not arrest members as though they were tramps or common drunks. They are merely notified that they are under arrest. I desire to know if this is correct."

McKINLEY ON WASHINGTON

Ohio's Famous Governor Extols the Virtues of the First President.

AMERICAN EDUCATION IS NEEDED NOW

Young Men Must Be Taught of Our Institutions—By an of Nebraska on Patriotism—Other Observations of the Holiday.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—An audience of 6,000 people greeted Governor McKinley of Ohio at the great Auditorium this afternoon, where he delivered an address in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

The exercises were under the auspices of the Union League club. Governor McKinley's address was an eloquent tribute to the memory of the father of his country.

Governor McKinley carefully traced at great length the life of Washington, and he said that in many things the first president was far beyond his age, and especially in his views as to the value and importance of education to popular government.

He perceived that real liberty must be based on the basis of popular education. Washington had the true American spirit of love for his free institutions and for our schools and colleges, and everything he said or did was in the interest of the spirit.

In a letter dated January 24, 1795, he said: "It was always a source of serious reflection and sincere regret to me that the youth of the United States should be sent to foreign countries for the purpose of education.

Although there are doubtless many under these circumstances who escape the dangers of contracting principles unfavorable to our form of government, yet we ought to deprecate the hazard attending the ardent and susceptible mind from being too strongly and too early prepossessed in favor of other political systems before they are capable of applying to their country had been unable to make the roses, and it had been necessary to send them to Europe and to the British dominions, where they would have been corrupted by the members of the society, which stands for all that is patriotic, are wearing roses made in a European country.

Mrs. Clarke said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

CONCLUDED AND CHEERS

Resolutions Denouncing Hoke Smith Close the Grand Army Encampment.

HIS APPOINTMENT AN INSULT TO VETERANS

Sons of Veterans Denied Full Membership in the Parent Organization—Several Important Resolutions Adopted by the Veterans.

LINCOLN, Feb. 22.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—The seven-thirty annual encampment of the Nebraska department of the Grand Army of the Republic closed its session tonight by a public installation of the newly elected department officers. Colonel Russell of Schuyler was unanimously selected as the installing officer. The officers installed tonight were elected today and are as follows: Colonel Russell of Schuyler, commander; John Howe of South Auburn, senior vice commander; C. E. Adams of Superior, junior vice commander; John Barnes of Albion; medical director, William Banwell of Albion; chaplain, Dr. G. W. Matin of Kearney.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

The report of Mrs. A. Howard Clarke, the corresponding secretary-general, contained a list of names of the members of the society who were present at the celebration of Washington's birthday. She said that during the year several hundred of our countrymen were sent to Europe for education, which she thought was a great loss to the country.

TO BURN HER ALIVE

Fiendish Vagabond Tries First to Outrage and Then to Murder Mrs. Rothschild.

FOLLOWED HER REFUSAL TO FEED HIM

Forced Her Into a Closet and Set Her Clothing on Fire.

HAD DRENCHED HER WITH KEROSENE OIL

He Then Made His Escape from the House Unseen by Any One.

IT WAS THE BRUTE'S SECOND VISIT

Woman Runs Into the Yard and Neighbors Hurry to Her Help—She Was Terribly Burned and May Die.

Some Conflicting Opinions.

Mrs. Frela Rothschild says she was made the victim of a most dastardly assault at the hands of a tramp at her home, 448 South Twenty-fourth avenue, yesterday. Arson and attempted murder were added to the man's crime, which was the result of a refusal of Mrs. Rothschild to give her assailant something to eat.

The story, as told by Mrs. Rothschild, is that at 10 o'clock she was working about the kitchen when a tramp, a black-looking fellow, wearing a tattered, ragged, and filthy coat, and carrying a bundle, entered her cellar, and asked her to give him something to eat. She replied that she had nothing for him, and asked him how he came to be in the cellar. The man refused to offer any explanation of his presence, and repeated his demand for food. Mrs. Rothschild, feeling annoyed, refused to give him anything. The man immediately assaulted her, and she fled to her room, where she locked the door. The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.

The man then entered her room, and she fled to the yard, where she was rescued by her neighbors. She was then taken to the hospital, where she is now lying. Her condition is very serious, and she may die.