SATURNALIA AT ALL HOURS OF THE DAY

Hula-Hula-Dance Uninterrupted for Several Months-Penitentiary Convict Promises Colored Posterity to the Erstwhile Jaller-Sheriff on Ninth Street.

At the continuation of the hearing of the Bennett-Rosewater libel case yesterday afternoon, E. C. Hunt of The Bee was recalled for further cross-examination as to the times when he saw Mosher in the county The state sought to show that the occasion of one visit was when the witness called at the jail to see the Akeson murderers, but the witness testified that that was not the occasion referred to in the direct examination, and that he was not certain whether he saw Mosher at that time

Mark H. May, who is now serving a term in the penitentiary for grand lareeny, was the next witness. He testified that he was taken to the Douglas county jail about the last of August, 1892, and remained there until about the first of October, when he was released on ball and went to Council He was arrested there and was brought back by Sheriff Bennett. He was returned to jail and remained there from the night of October 4, until July 11, 1893, when he was taken to the pentientiary. Dur-ing the greater part of the time that he was in the jail Theodore Bennett was jailer. and Engstedt and Ernest were deputy jailers. The witness testified that women came to see him frequently while he was it jail. One was a woman named Burch, who first came to see him about the last of August, when he was first placed in jail. She remained with him about ten minutes. He did not see her pass out of the jail, but he saw her about 7:30 o'clock the following morning as she came out of the jail office and went to the toilet room. Her tollet was not made at that time, and she was without her bat. Another woman who came to see the witness was Hattle Black, who called in October. It was about 7:30 or 8 o'clock when she came. The witness met her in the jail office, and Theodore Bennett and another woman were there. They all drank wine and whisky, and one of the women sent out to McTague's for supper for the party. It was brought by a messenger, and the party ate it. They remained in the office for about two hours, and the witness was then locked up.

THEODORE AND THE WOMEN. The witness said that the female comhe did not know, called at the jail the fol-lowing afternoon. The Black woman was there after that, about 5:30 in the afternoon. The whisky that was drank by the four on the evening that they were in the jail office together was gotten from the locker in the jail, where it was kept. Another woman who frequently called to see the witness was named Haze. She came there about 8:30 o'clock one evening, and the witness over-heard a conversation between her and the jailer with reference to her seeing the wit-ness. The witness was lying on the bunk in his cell, and Theodore and the woman came there to see him, and Theodore called the witness to the door. The woman said she was sorry that the witness was in there, and he replied that she wasn't any sorrier than he was. She said that she wished he was out that night. Theodore told her that she needn't mind a little thing like that, as he (Theodore) could answer the same purpose, and patted her on the shoulder. The visitor told the witness that it was against the rules to let callers see prisoners at that time of night, but that she had fixed it all callers right with Theodore. Subsequently she went down stairs with the jailer. The witness testified that the women who called to see him came at all hours from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night When they came after dark he took them into the jail office and they remained there from fifteen minutes to an hour. nearly always had something to drink. The witness knew Koen in jail, and sati that on one occasion Koen was mixed up with the prisoners at the instance of the sheriff, who wanted to see if a new deputy jailer named Linn would detect him as the visitors passed out of jail. Linn did not detect Koen, who passed out of the jail, but subsequently returned. Koen frequently went out with the jailers, and so did the witness. Some times they went down town to get a drink. Once he went to the Barker hotel with Deputy Jailer Ernest, and sat around there for some time drinking. Once he went with Theodore Bennett to a store on Sixteenth street to get measured for some shirts. He ordered a half dozen and also ordered a half dozen shirts for Theodore and paid for them out of his own pocket. That was in September, 1892. The witness fur-ther testified that when coming back from Council Bluffs with the sheriff they went into a house on Ninth street and had some KEPT KITCHELL DRUNK. While he was in jail he was in the juvenile cell at the head of the stairs in the hall. He was there about three months. hall. He was there about three months. While there he roomed with Koen a part of the time and also with Kitchell. Kitchell always had liquor in his ceil. It was brought there to him. Sometimes the jailers handed it to him in packages. Kitchell was under the influence of liquor nearly all the time. One night Kitchell got drunker than usual and bogan singing. "Tarrays the time. One night Kitchell got grunker than usual and began singing "Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay" and kicking up a big racket. For that Kitchell was taken to the bound-over cell and kept there three or four days. The witness testified that his cell was never that the cell was never to be a second of the control locked except when Jailer Engstedt was on watch. When Theodore was on watch the witness heard women talking in the office and saw them in the corridor leading to it at all hours of the night. That was not every night, but it was very frequently. On cross-examination the witness testified that this was his first term in the peniten-After being let out on bail he was arrested in the Bluffs and brought back, but he did not know why. It might have been that they were afraid that he was going further away. He was taken by Sheriff Bennett to the Grand hotel in the Bluffs purpose that other men go there. Liquor was ordered and drank and the witness paid The witness said the Burch woman called on him in the county jail but once during the month of August, but was there repeatedly during the succeeding months. The Black woman came in Occober and was there but twice to the knowledge of the witness. The first time was about 8 o'clock at night, and she stayed there about three hours and talked with the witness and Theodore Bennett. They drank champagne and whisky. The woman brought the champagne and the whisky was in the office. They all drank. The witness did not know the name of the other woman who was there. The Black woman lived on Ninth street, and the wit-ness supposed the other woman lived there too. He saw this nameless woman at the jail again the next day, but she stayed there but a short time. That was the last time he saw her. The night the four of them were together in the jail office they ate, drank and had a general good time.

that night for supper, and on reaching this side of the river they stopped on Ninth street at the suggestion of the witness. They went to the Ninth street resort for the same

SHERIFF ON NINTH STREET. The first time the Haze woman called heodore was with her. It was about 8 The first time the fisze woman caused. Theodore was with her. It was about 8 o'clock in the evening. The witness did not know just how long it was after he was arrested, but it was several days. The Burch woman brought him a flask of whisky Burch woman brought him a flask of whisky one afternoon. She brought him liquor on different occasions, and the total number of times was more than ten. Kitchell told the witness the jallers brought liquor to him. The witness saw it brought in with the meals in a basket. Both whisky and beer were brought in that way, and the witness had received it in that manner. Koen's whisky was brought up with Kitchell's, and some of it was brought in by friends Kitchell' had quite a good jag ou all the time. The night ho was singing and raising work and do me this way. I am going to punish you." Kitchell replied, "Oh no, you won't, Theodore." The jailer took Kitchell up stairs to lock him up, and when on the upper landing a bottle of gin dropped out of Kitchell's pocket. After getting out Kitchell didn't have anything to drink for several days. The witness said that when be stopped on Ninth street with the sheriff. several days. The witness said that when he stopped on Ninth street with the sheriff they drank beer. They drank with all hands, and there were half a dozen women present. When kept in the cell on the balcony over the entrance hall, the witness could see women by sneaking out on the balcony and looking to see what was going on the did this repeatedly. He saw two on. He did this repeatedly. He saw two women there with Theodore at 1 o'clock at night. On another occasion he saw Theo-dore and another man with two women there at 2 o'clock, and again he saw the faller and a woman companion at 3 o'clock. They sometimes awakened the witness, and he would get up to see what was going on. He knew the time, because he sometimes looked at the watch in Kitchell's vest to see how late it was before going back to bed. He could not see into the office from the balcony, but could see the hall that led from the office to the outer door of the jail. He saw one man there frequently "rushing the can" for Theodore, and was told that the man worked for Coroner Maul. The witness identified ex-Deputy Jailer Horn as a man he had frequently seen about the jail, but was sure he was not the man who was with the jailer and the women at 2 o'clock in the morning.

The defense then called William Coburn and Frank J. Kaspar, but the court officer announced that Mr. Coburn had been in Chicago for the past eight days and had not returned, and that Mr. Kaspar was attend-ing the dedicatory exercises at the Hartman

SAYS THEODORE IS THE FATHER. A request was then made by the defense that the case be continued for ten days, in order to secure the attendance of Edna Marshall, a colored convict at the peniten-Marshall, a colored convict at the permetitary, who is now dangerously sick and unable to be brought here. This was accompanied by the defendant's affidavit setting forth the situation, and with it was the affidavit of the Marshall woman made yesterday morning at the penitentiary. It was to the effect that she was arrested and placed in the Douglas county jail about the middle of September, 1893, and remained there until some time in December; that while an in-mate of the jail Theodore Bennett, the jailer, repeatedly had sexual intercourse with her; that she was kept in a cell alone until about Thanksgiving, and that her intimacy with the jailer continued until the night before Thanksgiving, up to the time that another prisoner was placed in the cell with her; that the affiant did not have sexual intercourse with any other man except said Ben-nett after the time of her arrest and up to the present time; that as the result of said intercourse with said Theodore Bennett the affiant is now pregnant with a bastard child, of which said Theodore Bennett is the father; that affiant has been sick for the past thirty days, and that such sickness is due to said

The affidavit of the defendant set forth that this witness would testify to these facts, and that it would be necessary to secure a continuance in order to have the witness produced in court.

Attorney Estelle informed the court that he visited the pentientiary two weeks ago to see this witness, and the warden informed him of her condition; that it had been the purpose of the defense to bring the witness here, and it had been expected that her condition would be suffciently improved as the close of the trial was reached to have her here, but the prison physician stated that it would be extremely dangerous to attempt to move her; that the warden of the peni-tentlary was here several days ago in personal response to the subpoona that had been sent him directing him to bring the witness, and that the defense had lone all it could to secure her presence; that as the court well knew, the defense had requested the state to take the deposition of the witness, but the state had refused.

The state's attorney protested against a continuance of the case, and claimed that the defense was seeking to take an undue advantage by not serving notice to take depo-sitions before the beginning of the trial. DEPOSITION WILL BE HAD.

The court reminded the attorney that the defense had asked the state to take the deposition and that the state had refused.

The counsel for the defense further stated that at the time the trial was begun the de-fense had believed that the illnes; was of a nature that would not be of sufficient duraion to prevent the bringing of the witness The defense did not seek to needlessly delay the case, and would be willing to rest now it this witness' testimony was before the court If the state's attorney would consent to take the deposition, the deposition would be taken immediately, as soon as a train could take them to Lincoln, or at any time to suit the state, and a speedy termination of the trial

The state's attorney demurred against it and would not consent until the court had said that if it was not done a continuance for several days would have to be granted in order to secure the presence of the witness It was then agreed to take the deposition leave for Lincoln on the early morning train The court then continued the further hear-ing of the case until 2 o'clock Tuesday after-

Manufacturers and Consumers Association Preparing Another State Fair Exhibit. The Manufacturers and Consumers association, ever since its organization, has done a good work in furthering the interests of the manufacturing interests of the state Not least among the works of the association was the exhibit made at the state fair last fall, which opened the eyes of many of the people of the state as to the extent of the manufacturing interests, and demonstrated to them that many of the articles they had been in the habit of buying from other countries and other states could be obtained just as well at home, of equally good quality and equally as cheap. So successful was the exhibit that the managers of the fair requested that another exhibit be made this coming fall, and to assist in making it a suc-cess tendered to the association the exclus-ive use of the mercantile hall on the state fair grounds, and proposes to fit it up, with power, shafting, etc., to enable the association to make the association to make its exhibit complete and to show to the best possible ad-vantage, George W. Tibbs, W. E. Clark and O. C. Holmes, on behalf of the associa-tion, went to Lincoln one day recently and completed the arrangements for the fitting up of the building for the purpose. The association proposes to make a display this coming fall in comparison with which last year's showing will be a small affair. The management of the fair has shown com-mendable judgment in aiding in every way possible the efforts of the association to bring Nebraska products to the at-tention of the people of the state and induce them to buy home-made goods, that the industries that are here might prosper, and others be induced to engage in manufacturing enter-prises. Nebraska is not only in the front rank agriculturally, but it has a front seat in the horse world, and these two industries have always been fostered and made prominent by the fair management. Without abating in the least the efforts to encourage these two important industries, the fai management now proposes to see what can do to aid the Manufacturers and Cor sumers association in helping the manufacturing industries of the state.

OMAHA'S "BLUE BOOK."

Relief Committee Consults it to Decide Whom to "Call" On. Messrs. Alfred Millard and C. C. Turner net with Mayor Bemis yesterday, as the special committee appointed by the itizens relief association at the meeting at the Commercial club Thursday to prepare a list of names of parties who ought to be called upon for various sums to relieve destitution and suffering in the city. The "blue book" was called into requisition, and the commit-tee went through the A's. B's and C's be-fore adjourning, selecting therefrom fifty-two names that represent a vast amount of Omaha's wealth. This course was adopted as the result of a talk made by the mayor, who insisted that up to the present time the greater part of the relief work that has been done in the city was the work of the middle class, and that the $3,500 given by the wealthier class was a mere bagatelle as compared with the total amount that had been contributed.

The talk stirred up the meeting to a per-ceptible degree, and some of the members were disposed to take exception to it, but the executive insisted that he knew what he was talking about, and declared that it was time for Omaha to have a Childs or a Pea-body or a Stanford. He said the development of such a man would advertise the city as nothing else would at this time, and he stated further that there were men here who were abundantly able to figure in that way.

The mayor's "shaking up" had its effect or although some of the gentlemen presen professed to believe that the raising of $100,-000 for the relief of the poor would be a questionable advertisement to go abroad, the majority agreed with the mayor that it would be far better than for the statement to go out that any one was allowed to suffer here for the necessaries of life. That is how it happens that the owners of 'blue book' names will be invited to do as much for their suffering fellow men as many of their less abundantly bleased neighborn have already done.

It seems that the system of bookkeeping there in vogue has been such that when prisoners were sent to the county jail, no matter whether as city pris-oners convicted of misdemeaners or prisoners held to the district court in prisoners held to the district court in state cases, they have gone as the prisoners of the city, and the city has paid the bill for their feeding while there. In all cases where the prisoners were convicted of city offenses the city was properly charged with the meals served, but it is stated that the city should not have been charged for a meal that was served in the county jail to a prisoner who was convicted under a state charge, or who was being held there for trial in the dis-trict court. An attempt will be made to recover from the county the amount that has been thus wrongfully paid.

Speaking of the ruling of the federal court exempting the railroad property outside the right of way from municipal taxation, City Attorney Connell said yesterday that he would take the case to the circuit court of appeals as soon as the record could be pre-pared, and he looked for a speedy hearing of the case as the business of that court was not very far behind. He said he did not think that this decision would affect the issue of sewer bonds in the sum of $40,000, as ordered by the council some time ago.

The effect most decired in a Folding Bed is that it shall be anything but a bed by day and nothing but a bed by night.

Step by step we have improved it at both these points, and the Folding Bed as now perfected is a triumph of ingenuity.

By night it is a full-fashioned, inxurious bed with not the slightest suggestion of the "cabined, cribbed, confined" berth about it. The sides are open their entire length, and the bed could not be detected from a regular bedstead. Furthermore, in this bed there is a perfect system of ventiliation throughout the day, and this removes the last possible objection to a Folding Bed.

In the day time, when this bed is "made up," Folding Bed.
In the day time, when this bed is "made up," Its owner would not be able to recognize it. It is a bureau or a desk, a piano or a cabinet; or it can take no space whatever, and give you a long French mirror against the wall.
Buy no folding bed of any make until you have personally examined our beds.

COMMERCIAL

Whether detrimental or successsful, wise or otherwise, we ventured a new move on the commercial chessboard. We ignored the prophesy of hard times howlers, disregarded the opinion of merchantile agencies, dismissed the theories of the financier, and stocked up with a stupendous magazine of spring goods, unequaled for grandeur and double in size even to Omaha's booming year of '87. "The Nebraska" knows no defeat-The past sea n with its deplorable condition of the times passes into history as one of the most prosperous seasons on our record. We've clothed more men-even if our receipts were none the larger. Our aim is to be popular-To gain popularity is to do better than the next fellowman. We sell you a better value and take pride in charging as little as pos-

And with such golden principles we march onward, and grow like a tapeworm in a well fed man. We have earned glory as public benefactors and gained the respect of the manufacturers of the world. Our eash system of b: ying makes choice clothing bow to us, and our system of cash selling for this reason, is a blessing to those who are willing to pay for what they get-and not elscone's

The announcement of spring will be published in these columns in a few days-it'll interest you-to be sure.
