GARBAGE CONTRACT KILLED

Courts Decide that it Granted a Monopoly and is Therefore Void.

JUDGE FERGUSON RENDERS HIS DECISION

Perpetual Injunction Issued Against the Franchise Granted to A. Macdonald by the City Council-Verdict Against the City-Minor Court Matters ..

Until the decision of Judge Ferguson is reversed or disturbed by the supreme court of the state any individual in the city of Omaha may engage in the business of hauling garbage, so long as he complies with the The celebrated Macdonald contract has rules and regulations of the health officers. been knocked out; the demurrer to the petition has been overruled and a perpetual injunction has been ordered restraining Alexander Macdonald from interfering with persons who may want to go into the garbage business. At the same time the court has impressed upon the minds of the members of the city council that in the future they will be more careful and not grant exclusive franchises and monopolles to parties who may apply.

Last July an ordinance found its way into the city council granting to Alexander Macdonald the exclusive right to remove all of the garbage within the city of Omaha for the period of ten years from the date of a contract, proyided for by the terms of an ordinance. This ordinance was passed and n due time it reached Mayor Bemis, who after looking it over, returned it to the council with his veto, holding that the prices provided for were excessive and that the whole matter was against public policy and was in the interest of monopoly. This veto was rejected and Macdonald's contract was approved, a majority of the members of the city council insisting that the mayor was wrong in his views regarding the sub-After Macdonald had secured his contract t was some weeks before he made any at tempt to engage in the work which he had undertaken, but at last he claimed that he was ready to start. In the meantime, however, George D. Smiley, one of the heavy property owners of the city, went before the courts, bringing suit to restrain Macdonald from holding the exclusive franchise as granted by the city. He alleged that by giving Macdonald a ten-year contract to remove garbage a monopoly had been created; that the action of the council was unconstitu-tional and the whole proceedings were void He called the matter to the attention of Judge Ferguson, who granted a temporary restraining order, after which the case was argued. This was some weeks ago, and after giving the issues careful attention the judge handed down his opinion yes terday, deciding that the temporary injunction should stand. In passing upon the case Judge Ferguson stated that the city council might have a perfect right to locate a dumping place and regulate the handling of garbage, but it had no right to create a monopoly for any person or per-sons. Such a course would have done in England centuries ago, when it was the purpose and object to aid monopoly, but that time had passed, especially in Omaha. The terms of the ordinance and the contract, h leclared, were unconstitutional and against

Mr. McDonald was seen in regard to what effect the decision of Judge Ferguson de-claring his garbage contract illegal would have, and said that he had not been able to see his attorney to talk with him since the decision had been handed down, and, therefore, could not say just what steps he would take in a legal way. One thing was certain, and that was that he did not propose to stop handling garbage, but under just what conditions he was unable to state. Charles Rondalay's Estate.

The estate of Charles Rondalay has been settled and County Judge Baxter has made his order by which the proceeds of the sale has been decided to make the Wednesday of the personal property, amounting $202.73, go to two brothers, Francis and Peter, residing in Belgium. Charles Rondalay was a coachman for R C. Cushing, and three years ago, while the members of the family were sojourning it the western mountains, this coachman took the Cushing dog and locked himself and the beast in a small bed room. The next morning man and dog were found dead, while the gas was filling the room, escaping from a jet that was turned on. It was the opinion that Charles had committed suicide. The man left a small amount of property, over which a pretty controversy arose, the Belgium authorities insisting that it should be converted into money and sent across the ocean at once. George Shields, who was then the county judge, insisted that the estate would have to take the regular estate would have to take the regular course and so notified the foreign officials. His letter was referred to the president of the United States, who in turn referred it to the governor, and for a time there were evidences of a rupture in the friendly relaions existing between the United States and

March he advanced the defendant $1,000, with the understanding that his son William should be provided with a job. Another of the conditions of the loan was that when William was discharged the money should be returned.

The plaintiff charges that during the month of July his son was let out, but that the money has not been returned.

Verdict Against the City. The city of Omaha was saddled with a judgment of $1,000 yesterday in the suit brought by Fannie Bowman, administratrix of the estate of Artie Bawman, deceased,

Two years ago there was a vacant lot up in the vicinity of Davenport and Twentyeighth streets. During the summer months a large pool of water accumulated upon this lot, extending into the street. One day a number of small boys of the neighborhood tore up a section of the sidewalk, out of which they constructed a raft, which was launched upon this inland lake. Young Bowman was among the lads who took passage upon the raft. As the thing glided out from the shore it tipped over, throwing the sailors into six feet of water. Artie Bowman was drowned and his mother brought suit for $5,000 damages, alleging negligence upon the part of the city in not causing the filling of

Friday the jury was instructed to the effect that if the city had caused the location of a lake at that place, one that would attract boys, then and in that event the city would be liable.

Minor Court Matters.

The case of the state against Anna Pontag, the young South Omaha girl who was accused of stealing from the house of Gene Mayfield, was dismissed in criminal court yesterday.

Mary E. Needham, administratrix of the estate of Charles P. Needham, deceased, was in probate court yesterday to show cause why she should not be fined for a failure to flie the proof of notice to the creditors of the estate. The hearing of the matter was continued until next Friday. C. B. Horton has sued the city of Omaha, claiming $1,000 damages by reason of the change of grade of Charles street. He avers that he owned a lot in the vicinity of the change of grade; that before the street was graded his lot was on high ground, but that afterwards it was in a deep hole, which filled with water.

THE THEATERS.

"A strong play presented by a strong comany." Such is the report that comes from cities in which Effic Elister has apeared in her new play, "Doris." At Boyd's theater the first two nights and Wednesday matines of her engagement, commencing Monday, March 5, local play patrons will again have an opportunity of seeing this talented actress in Robert Drouet's successful play. As the heroine, Doris, Miss Ellsler has a part in which her talent is given full sway. By many it is judged to be a stronger character than Hazel Kirke, in that there are opportunities for the display of other emotions than grief and anger. As an eminent critic observed, "There is emotion in 'Doris,' but there is also fire and strength. She demonstates that her strength lies not alone in tears, but in wrath as well." The public is fully acquainted with Miss Ellsler's standing as an actress, and the artistic value of her performance has ever been recognized. There is an indescribable charm about her manner, her simple, home-like ways, her absorbing love, that compels the admiration of her auditors. As the centerpiece of an ideal domestic picture Miss Ellsier is worthy of all praise. "Deris" is called a strong play and a good one. The plot is carefully worked out and developed in a masterful manner. The play is intended to combat a prejudice existing among some people against the marriage of divorced couples. The ex-cellence of Miss Eilsler's support has much to do with the good quality of the performance. Frank Weston, Robert Drouet and C. W. Couldock cannot be excelled in their respective lines, and of the other members of the company report speaks in the highest terms.

For the final perfomance Wednesday evening "Hazel Kirke" will be presented, with the usual great cast of this company. It tion in Miss Elisier's engagement that our

The original and best of all the railroad plays will be presented at the Fifteenth Street theater for four nights and Wedneslay matinee, commencing with matinee today, "The Danger Signal" was written today. "The Danger Signal" was written by Mr. Henry C. DeMille, who is also the author of "The Lost Paradise" and "The Wife," "The Charity Ball," "Men and Women" and others. The play is written in the style so associated with all of Mr. DeMille's successes, in that it treats of people and incidents in a simple manner. and in a way calculated to touch the hearts of all. In "The Danger Signal," which is termed a realistic comedy drama and written to please the masses, the play deals with neidents thrilling and sensational, which are produced with effects seldom seen upon the stage. The Cannon Ball express, consisting of a locomotive (made of steel and iron), a tender, two coaches (fifty feet long, twelve and one-half feet high), crossing the stage at the rate of fifty miles an hour. a cyclone rotary snow plow (such as is used in the far west during a snow blockade), a freight train and many other effects at once thrilling and realistic. The switches, switch lights, signal lights and lanterns are the same as those now in use upon all railways, and the telegraph instrument which clicks upon the stage sends a message quite as well as those either in the Western Union or Postal offices. The play has been a great success from the start, originally produced at the Lyceum theater, New York City, for an extended run it has since achieved a success on tour, at once remarkable for the great monetary and artistic re-sults attained. The company has been chosen with great care and is an evenly balanced one. management of Boyd's and Effic Ellaler have made a popular move in giving a "special price" Wednesday matinee, reserving the best seats at 50 cents and 25 cents. "Doris," Miss Ellaler's very successful play, will be presented with the same cast and attention that mark the full price. cast and attention that mark the full price evening performance.

One of the cleverest comedies seen here in a long time will be "Innocent as a Lamb," One of the cleverest comedies seen here in a long time will be "Innocent assa Lamb," presented by Mr. Roland Reed and his clever company. The piece is an eccentric comedy, in three acts, and gives Mr. Reed splendid opportunities. An exchange says: "The character, as played by Mr. Reed, is probably one of the most artistic efforts of genutine comedy yet undertaken by him, as his impersonation in no way depends upon horse play, grotesque grimaces or vulgar bids for popular applause, but sololy upon subtle and delicate play of features which indicates the manner the mind of the supposed character is affected by the ludicrous situation. This is art of no mean order, which is divided by a bairbreadth only from pathos, as was plainly observable at many points. The impersonation recalled the peculiar style of the celebrated Frederick Robson, who used to play in a laughable farce the business of weeping over a willful daughter and drying his eyes with a cabbage loaf. This used to set the audience in a roar. One night, however, the fancy struck Robson to test the sympathies of the house by treating the cabbage leaf business with pathos. He was rewarded by seeing everybody in tears in the midst of a roaring farce."

Mr. Reed will open his engagement at the Boyd on Thursday evening next in "Innocent as a Lamb." and on Friday and Saturday evenings his latest American comedy "Da-kota." At the Saturday matinee "The Woman Hater" will be the bill. The attractions for the present month at the Boyd, following the engagement of Roland Reed, are Hallen and Hart in "The Idea;" Primrose and West's minstrel's, Mabel Eaton, the Conried-Ferenczy German Opera ompany. Remenyl Concert company, Prof.
