When bankrupt stocks of shoes or any other line of goods sell at a premium it begins to look as if there is more money in handling a bankrupt stock, both for profit and advertising purposes, than straight, legitimate goods. Now we are not in the bankrupt business, nor do we intend to begin now. But we will convince the people Monday that as far as prices are concerned we will sell shoes as cheap, if not cheaper than at any bankrupt shoe sale in Omaha. We make these prices on our new. fresh goods, bought from the factory last fall and this winter. We've only been in business three months and our shoes must be new and good. Now look at these prices and let bankrupt shopworn stuff alone.

West Virginia Miners Burn a Costly Railroad Building.

THEY ARE STILL READY FOR A SKIRMISH

Troops in the Troubled District Will Be Reinforced-Telegraph Lines Cut-The Governor Determined to Suppress Disorder at Any Hazard.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 3 .- A telegam received by Governor McCorkle from Division Superintendent J. M. Gill, now at Coalburg, twelve miles above here, on the Chesapeake & Ohio, states that the strikers from the mines near there are congregating in large numbers swearing they will burn the Chesapeake & Ohio bridge on the branch road that runs from Coalburg to the Acine mines. The object in burning the bridge is to prevent coal being shipped from the Acme mines and thus stopping the miners from working. Immediately upon receipt of the telegram Governor McCorkle ordered out three more companies of military with orders to proceed at once to Cabin Creek. Sheriff Silman summoned a posse of men and procceded on a freight train to the scene of the trouble, where he arrived at 1:25. The new $30,000 bridge on the division between calburg and Acme had been fired and was totally destroyed.

About thirty men were in the park, all masked and armed. On the sheriff's arrival he found everything quiet, the mob having dispersed. It was feared that they had gone to Acme, but a telephone message stated that they were not they that they were not there. The inquest on the body of Adkinson commenced this morning. Colonel Wynat and the prosecuting attorney of Fayette county are at Fayetteville issuing papers for the errors of the rioters.

Since the burning of the Cabin Creek bridge the telegraph wires have been cut at points, so that the governor cannot commu-nicate with the militia at Eagle or Powell-town. The ratiroad officials are co-operating with the governor and carrying messengers by rail as far as Cabin Creek, from which point they go on horseback and will report the situation of the governor as soon as pos-While the strikers are moving around Powelltown, it is expected that work will be suspended there till Monday, but no temporary movement can prevent violence at Eagle, where the worst is feared. The latest official telegram received from Cabin Creck says everything is quiet in all quarters. It is true that the telephone wires have been cut on the line extending from the Chesapeake & Ohio at the mouth of Armstrong creek to Powellton, but it is not thought there is any trouble there. Still, conditions are in no wise changed and there is no reason to believe that the strikers are willing to give up the fight. The governor has received a telegram from a staff officer at Montgomery that the miners are at work at Forest Hill and Diamond, both near Eagle. The governor insisted upon work being reed, desiring to bring matters to a crisis the troops were on the ground. said today: "Any man who wants to work shall have full and absolute protection, no matter what were the original causes of this trouble. The peace of the state has been invaded and an armed force is endeavoring to violate the laws. It has ceased to be iestion between the operators and miners, is the strikers on one side and the lawloving people on the other. I have told the operators they should take the responsibility on their own hands. The state does not propose to keep troops there indefinitely. We only desire to lend military aid in enng the law. A telegram received by the governor at 10:30 o'clock states that several rioters have been arrested without bloodshed. The dis-patch does not state whether the militia has used.

INQUEST OVER ONE VICTIM. CINCINNATI, March 3.—The Times-Star special from Eagle says Coroners Adkins and

Previous to the arrival, Coroner Adkins impanneled a jury that accompanied him to view the body, then proceeded in secret session to take evidence. Dr. Lard examined the body in the presence of Coro-ner Adkins and the jury and a record of the evidence was taken. The bullet had not been extracted and the technical cause of death vas not reported. The second witness was Benjamin Bone, who was also shot in the back, but not seriously wounded. He was standing behind Adkins when he fell. He saw him drop, but his evidence could not be learned.

Prosecuting Attorney Dillon is co-operating with Coroner Lawrence, impanneling a jury that will sit with open doors for the re porters of newspapers at least. The two juries will be about a mile apart. There is considerable excitement over the collision of the coroners, as it is conceded that it will at least a week to take all the testimony that is wanted, with a view to arresting over eighty men who were identified by the detec-ANNOUNCEMENTS.

"Twelfth Night," that wondrously fine bit of Shakespeare's imagining, was the bill last night at Boyd's. Miss Marlowe appearing as Viola, one of the bard's most complex characters. Nothing could be more artistic nor more rounded withal than the glimpse one gets of Viola through Miss Marlowe's interpretation. In point of fact it is this charming woman's piece de resistance and is worthy of a place alongside the Isabel of Adelaide Neilson, the Portia of Ellen Terry and the Rosalind of Modjeska. Rare it is in these latter century days that one is called upon to readjust the impression formed of some of Shakespeare's models, but Miss Marlowe has, by the consummate art of which she is mistress, accentuated the old tradition of the part and has given to the world of theatergoers a perfect interpretation of this idyl of "Sweet Will." Her conception of the character, although following the accepted traditions, was so full of kee opreciation of the role and so finely wrough ut that it left nothing to the imagination the was the poet's ideal Viola, and when the history of the stage of today comes to be written Miss Marlowe's Viola will stand star emmed among the beautiful, the loved mem-ries of the theater.

Associated with Julia Marlowe, who is th hope of the Shakespearean drams, are a number of exceedingly capable people. Eu genta Woodward coming first by reason o sterling worth as an actress "who has played many parts." As Lady Olivia this most conscientious player was particularly well east, portraying the character with Hale was in his element as the Duke Or sino, while the veteran H. A. Weaver, sr. gave life, color and intelligence to the unc mous Sir Toby Belch. Malvollo, however, not in Henry Jewett's line. The exaggerate nanner of the man, his pompous and even arrogant assumption of authority and his profound egotism make the character one of the most difficult to portray. It needs to man full of eccentricities, to play the wart and Mr. Jewett is too manly a man play the major domo of Olivia's house Jewett is essentially a romantic lover and Malvollo could hardly be catalogued in that way. Edwin Howard was a colorless Sebastian, not even looking like the gentle young player whom he was supposed to closely resemble, and which like the "Com-edy of Errors," hinges entirely upon the mistaken identity of the characters. mistaken identity of the characters.

The play was right fairly staged, although now and then it could be seen that the stage manager was at his wit's ends to know not what to do with his scenes, notably the setting of the cellar in Olivia's house, wherein Sir Toby, Aquecheek, the clown, and Mary have their innings over the well brewed punch. WAGE SCHEDULE CONFERENCE. American Railway Union Selects Its Repre sentatives-Other Features.

Interest in the coming conference between President S. H. H. Clark and the employes of the Union Pacific regarding the wage schedules is increasing as the time grows nearer for the conference to convene. Aleady the different trades are casting about for available men to represent the employes in the conference, which is recognized by them as promising results far reaching in their character. The American Railway union at its recent meeting at Cheyenne appointed as a conference committee to rep-resent the wishes of 4,000 men, consisting of one representative for each division of the Union Pacific system, the following: Ne-braska, George Miller, Omaha; Wyoming, W. F. Downey, Evanston; Idaho and Utah, E. L. Briggs, Glen's Ferry; Colorado, L. E. Heberling, Denver; Pacific division, James Miraugh, Portland, Ore. In addition to these men President Eugene Debs of the American Railway and Vice President Howard will attend the conference and give the benefit of their large experience to the men who have been chosen to represent the union in the conference. The other trades will probably be represented by their executive com-mittees and the federated trades by their officers. There will be in addition to a great number of employes called into Omaha y the conference a number of attorneys who have made the labor situation a profound study, and any legal questions that may arise will be referred to these men for arbi-tration insofar as the labor situation goes. While no program of the conference has seen promulgated, it is understood that each branch of labor will have its day in court, so to speak, and the prospects for a love feast are very bright, although there is a belief prevalent that an amended schedule will be put in. In the event an agreement cannot be reached it is thought the circuit court, presided over by Judges Caldwell and Sanborn, will assist the receivers out of their dilemma by ordering the employes to conform to a reduced schedule or peaceably eave the service of the company. President Clark, who is still in New York, will, it is thought, have the assistance of

General Manager Dickinson and possibly Re-ceivers Anderson and Coudert will come on to assist Mr. Clark in dealing with the men. Wheel Club Entertainment. The members of the Omaha Wheel club enjoyed one of the occasional entertainnents last evening, which have become one of the most pleasant features of the club. Standing room was at a premium in the club house and each number of the program was enthusiastically received. After the enter-tainment the remainder of the evening was passed as a rocial session, which lasted until after midnight. WEATHER FORECASTS.

Opposing Political Interests Making Ready for the Spring Campaign-P. E. O. Chapter Meeting Discusses Whittier -Other Magic City News.

The campaign for the coming spring election is getting pretty well shaped, and it is now almost certain that two candidates for mayor will be Ed Johnston on the democratic ticket and John Schultz on the citizens ticket. If there is a third candidate in the field it will be Mayor Walker. That gentleman has not given it out, however, that he will run, but he has friends who are insisting that he make the race.

During the last two weeks citizens clubs have been organized in every ward in South Omaha. From these clubs will be selected the delegates to a mass convention, which will be held about the 15th, when a full ticket will be placed in the field.

The democrats have not paid much attention to the organization of ward clubs. They have one general club, which meets once a week, and its membership has been largely increased within the last ten days. At each meeting of the club stirring speeches are made by whoever is invited. This club is what might be called an administration club, for none are invited to join unless they are known to be directly in line and endorse the acts of the present powers.
Although it is generally conceded that Mr. Johnston will be the nomince, there are democrats in the ranks who will oppose his candidacy with much vigor. When J. A Walters was a candidate for mayor it is claimed that Mr. Johnston opposed him. Mr. Walters now has his knife out for Mr. Johnston and is willing to wager that the gentleman will not be nominated. On the other hand, there are democrats who say that no other name will come before the convention. Next to Mr. Johnskin in strength perhaps, Mr. James A. Bulla is the strongest democrat. His friends have not given up the idea of placing "Jim" in the field. The city clerk's office has a salary of $100 a year attached to it, and, while the salary is not much of a drawing card, there are sev-bral gentlemen who are laying their pipes for the position. In the demographe ranks are Ed Kane, Andy Gallagher, Charles Herdlicka, Harry Christie and J. Maley, Burton Rice, Dei Pierce and E. H. Roberts will struggle for the nomination on the guizens ticket. For treasurer the democrats will nominate Thomas Hector, the present incumbent, and the other nominee will be chosen from a list of six or seven. It promptees to be a lively
