a dairy a short distance east of Fort Omaha, goes for nothing. In the report which the inspector submitted he stated that the milk came up to the test, but that it was dirty, being kept in a place that was very foul. To this statement the proprietors of the dairy take exceptions, saying that when the inspector visited their place a few days ago, he then and there told them that their milk was good and that it was kept in one of the cleanest places which he had seen. In speaking of the matter yesterday, the milkmen stated that their milk was kept in a large box outside of any building. This box was filled with cool water and freely ventilated, thus allowing the free circulation of fresh air at all times of day and night.

In addition to the above, the proprietors claim that the inspector hit them for a bribe, which he did not receive. They say bribe, which he did not receive. They say that when he took the sample of milk, he said, "If I should find anything wrong with this milk, I could close my eyes." In response to this remark, the milkmen claim they made no reply, and when the report was made their product was listed as being dirty and kept in a foul place.

Van Closter's Case Again. Judge Ambrose yesterday decided the case of Miles & Thompson against Herbert J. Van Closter and the Omaha National bank, giving the bank a show for the money which it had invested and which it had loaned to the defendant, Van Closter.

Some years ago the firm of Miles & Thompson had a business deal with Van Closter, which eventually resulted in him giving the firm a mortgage for $15,000 upon some property which he owned. As time rolled around this note and mortgage became due and an attempt was made to force a col-lection, Van Closter claiming that the whole transaction was tinctured with usury. Later on this resulted in the arrest of Van Clos-ter and a bitter fight, the result of which was that Van Closter commenced a suit against Miles & Thompson, alleging that his reputation had been damaged to the extent of $20,000 by reason of the prosecution.

In the meantime, and while all of the other litigation was pending, the Omaha National bank took a second mortgage upon the property, and the merry fight continued. It was settled, however, out of court, re-ceipts passing between the parties. After ceipts passing between the parties. After this, Miles & Thompson attempted to foreclose, when the bank came in and set up the defense that by reason of the settlement of Miles & Thompson and Van Closter, its mortgage was a first lien upon the premises, In passing upon the case the court held that the bank was ahead of all other creditors.

Taxes for Special Improvements. The courts of Douglas county have sent another of the special tax cases to the supreme court, that a final opinion may be rendered on the question of the power of the city to levy a special tax for the purpose of making public improvements. Last summer the city passed an ordinance providing for the construction of a sewer out in Fairmont addition. The sewer was built and the assessment to pay the cost of construction levied. This assessment was carried to the tax books of the city, after

On one particular lot there was a sewer tax of $28.15. was offered at the public sale held during November and bid off by J. L. Pierce, who paid all of the back taxes. In the course of time he demanded his certificate from the county treasurer, who refused to deliver the decision in the Cunningham case, had de cided that the tax was illegal and void. Pierce went into court, where he asked for writ of mandamus, compelling the treas-rer to issue the certificate. To this a de-nurrer was filed and the case argued las Saturday. Yesterday Judge Ambrose passed upon the issues, holding that the writ should issue and that the demurrer would be overruled.

The echoes of the national convention of he peoples party, held in this city, in the old Coliseum, on July 4, 1892, were wafted about in the county court yesterday, with V. O. Strickler and several other parties being efendants in a law suit brought by Charles P. Beindorff. After it was decided to hold the convention in this city. Beindorf was employed to pre-pare plans for the interior arrangements of the Coliseum, $150 being the price agreed upon as the amount that he was to have for its services. The work was done and nonths after the adjournment of the convenion he asked for his pay. The money was not forthcoming and he brought suit. The case was continued from term until term, until a few days ago, when the defendants

The claim was referred, and then the commis sioners commenced to hunt the records to ascertain by what right the woman asked the county to contribute. George A. Bennett was recalled and testifamily into disrepute.

All the articles printed had been untrue. The witness never went to talk to the defendant about it, but had talked with Bee reporters. The witness ad-mitted that there had been es-capes, and that Theodore Bennett had released a prisoner without an order from the judge. The witness said he considered the judge. The witness said he considered he was liable civilly for the acts of his deputies, but not crimmally, but he would consider Mr. Rosewater liable criminally for the acts of his suburdinates. He told the reason for the release of the prisoner by the jailer on his order, but said he believed that it was technically contrary to law. He could not say that the publication of that story was wrong.

Ex-Deputy Jailer Lind was recalled and testified as to the cleanliness of the jail. He said Moster never had a key of the jail hile witness was there. The key box was kept locked.

GOLDSMITH SALOON EPISODE. Martin Shields was the next witness. He formerly tended bar for Goldsmith. He did not know Mosher, but knew Theodore Bennett, and had seen Bennett there with Horn. His attention was never called to the fact that Mosher was there and the witness would not have known it if Mosher had been there. On cross-examination the witness testified that he saw one of the Goldsmith witnesses at the saloon after the preliminary examina-tion and before the trial. This was Ramsay, and the witness saw him there very frequently. He was apparently alone and was there at all hours up to 9 or 10 o'clock at night. Ramsay didn't come there as often as after the trial.

Larry Casey was next called and testified that he did not know Mosher. He had no business and was at Goldsmith's nearly every night last summer. He drank with so many people that he could not remember whether he ever drank with Mosher or not. On cross-examination he denied that he had said in the presence of Messrs. Glick and Goldsmith that he had called Goldsmith's attention to Mosher's presence in the saloon one evening last sum-Mrs. Smith, colored, a former neighbor of Edna Marshall, testified that Mrs. Marshall

Jaller Miller was called and showed by the jall record that Agnes Donnelly was placed in jall July 2, 1892, and released August 23. Edna Marshall entered the jall September 1J. 1893, and remained until December 15. Deputy Jailer Ernest used to stay in the jail sometimes in the evening while the witness went down town. Ernest was there on these occasions as late as 9:30 or 10 oclock. On cross-examination the witness said that a person in the residence part of the jail would not ordinarily hear the unlocking of the door leading to the women's department unless listening for it. There were two ways of getting down into the woman's department. By going through the laundry it was not necessary to go into the residence part at all. The noise made in pended entirely upon the care used by the person unlocking it. Ex-Deputy Jailer Horn was recalled for further cross-examination by the defense. He testified that he never saw Miss Sayer nor Mrs. Ingalls and never called on two occasions at Mrs. Ingalls' house. Dr. W. H. Lanyon, county physician, testified that the general condition of the jail as opening the door into the residence part de-

to cleanliness was very good. E. A. Koen was recalled by the defense for further cross-examination. He testified that after his release from the fail he called at the house of George Ledge. He denied imputed conversations with Mrs. Ledge. He admitted that he had several bottles of liquor while in the county Jall. Some of it was brought in by Deputy Jaller Ernest and some of it by "Mokey," the newsboy. The witness never saw Miss Sayer.
