PRATTLE OF THE YOUNGSTERS.

The mission worker had a lot of boys from the street before him, trying to see what their capacities were for other work than wandering. He had called up several and questioned them, and came next to a red-headed urchin of about 12. As the boy rose to be put through the course, one of other boys prodded him with a pin. Jumped, of course, but being on his good behavior, he managed to suppress his feel-ings, though it could be plainly seen that was almost at the limit "You want to work, too, do you?" asked the missionary, kindly.

The boy merely nodded. "What can you do?" inquired the missionary.

The boy could hold in no longer.
"I kin lick de stuffin' out of de kid wot sticked me wid a pin, and I'm goin' to do it," he burst forth, and a few minutes later the job had been done thoroughly.

most remarkable talent thus far developed is for lying, told a whopper the other day, and was put to bed very early as a punishment, Mrs. H. thought it high time to give the boy a most impressive talking to, and scare him as much as possible. She told him that hell fire, and asked him if he wanted to go to that dreadful, hot place, where all wicked boys are sent, with murderers and criminals of all sorts, "Well," said the boy coolly,

"Did you ever wonder what these little devils think about, Dawson?"

"Now, I dare say that that child therepoor little soul—is dreaming of a fine dinner, with apple sauce and cake and ple and tur-key. Hold on a minute and I'll ask him, Ah, boy, what are you thinking about?" "I was wishin', sir."
"See that, Dawson. He is wishing. And what were you wishing?" 'Dat dis rain was snow, so's I could plug dat tile o' yours wid a snowball." Toddles-Papa, I've found another word that's all wrong.

Papa—Well, Toddles, what is it?

Tod lies-Why, it's buttermilk. The idea of taking all the butter out of the milk and then calling it buttermilk! When it comes from the cew it's buttermilk, seems to me. Papa-Well, and what will you call it afterward? Toddles-Butterless milk, of course. Auntie-Does your new doll close its eyes? Little Ethel-Yes'm, but she is the most wakeful child I ever saw. She doesn't shut her eyes when I lay her down, as she ought to. The only way to make her go to sleep is to stand her on her head and shake her. "I shall be glad when I get big enough to wash my own face," muttered little Johnnie after his mamma had got through with him, "then I won't wash it."

"Where do we get cream of tartar?" asked the pretty schoolma'am.
"From Russian cows," was Johnny Snagg's

In arguing a point before a judge of the superior court, Colonel Folk of the mountain circuit in North Carolina laid down a very doubtful proposition of law. The judge eyed him a moment and queried: "Colonel Folk, do you think that is law?" The colonel gracefully bowed and replied: "Candor compels me to say that I do not, but I did not know how it would strike your honor." The
