

GATHERING EARTH'S WEALTH

Wyoming's Rich Oil Fields Find a Practical Outlet to the East.

PIPE LINE UNION WITH A WATER ROUTE

Gold Fields in Colorado and Utah—A Big Strike in New Mexico—Montana's Coal Mines—General Western News.

A company, composed mostly of St. Louis capitalists, has been organized and will file articles of incorporation in a few days, to lay a pipe line to run oil from the Salt Creek oil fields through Orin Junction to Fort Laramie, says the Wyoming Derrick.

It was first intended to pipe the oil to Casper and from Casper by water, but it was found upon investigation that the rapids down the river at Fort Laramie were an insurmountable obstacle.

It is certainly the most feasible and practicable plan yet suggested to get oil out to the west, and will be a great benefit to the development of central Wyoming's vast oil fields.

GILT-EDGED MONTEZUMA

Montezuma county, which is in the south-western corner of Colorado, is one of the best, if not the very best, agricultural, mineral and stock raising counties in the state.

Here the winter is over and spring is here. Planting and the putting in of crops by the farmers has commenced. Grass is springing up; the stock has wintered well with but little loss and is in good condition.

There are also the most inexhaustible placer fields of the San Juan river, from the mouth of the Mancos river to the Colorado river, where shipments of placer gold are now being made daily, notwithstanding the primitive methods by which the gold is being recovered.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERIES

Two discoveries, which have just become public, are of great importance to the Colorado, as they not only extend the region far north of its previous supposed limits, but, being widely separated, prove that the mineral bearing is as widely as in this locality as further south.

Some very substantial and gratifying news comes from Camp Floyd, Utah, where a new field, Messrs. Sherman and Jacobs have struck a body of ore, one and one-half miles southeast of the Glencoe property and about five miles southeast of the famous Mercur, which enlarges this rich district wonderfully, and verifies hopes and predictions of men experienced in mining.

CAMP FLOYD PROSPECTS

The Carr mine, Gilpin county, shipped seventeen cars of gold-ore to the smelter last week, which netted $100 per ton. A party of Denver men, among whom is Judge Yeaman, will develop the Phenix mine, Boulder county. Stamps will be used.

Gulf railway officials will assist the Cheyenne county commissioner to construct a good wagon bridge across the Platte at Wendover.

BLACK DIAMONDS OF MONTANA

Next to the gold mines of Montana the coal deposits are today attracting the most intense interest. It is believed that Montana has extensive deposits of excellent quality, but it has only one of the last five years that capital has been interested in the coal fields, and a number of others are using coal and the consumption of this fuel by the mining companies will increase very rapidly from year to year.

Next to the gold mines of Montana the coal deposits are today attracting the most intense interest. It is believed that Montana has extensive deposits of excellent quality, but it has only one of the last five years that capital has been interested in the coal fields, and a number of others are using coal and the consumption of this fuel by the mining companies will increase very rapidly from year to year.

Next to the gold mines of Montana the coal deposits are today attracting the most intense interest. It is believed that Montana has extensive deposits of excellent quality, but it has only one of the last five years that capital has been interested in the coal fields, and a number of others are using coal and the consumption of this fuel by the mining companies will increase very rapidly from year to year.

Next to the gold mines of Montana the coal deposits are today attracting the most intense interest. It is believed that Montana has extensive deposits of excellent quality, but it has only one of the last five years that capital has been interested in the coal fields, and a number of others are using coal and the consumption of this fuel by the mining companies will increase very rapidly from year to year.

Next to the gold mines of Montana the coal deposits are today attracting the most intense interest. It is believed that Montana has extensive deposits of excellent quality, but it has only one of the last five years that capital has been interested in the coal fields, and a number of others are using coal and the consumption of this fuel by the mining companies will increase very rapidly from year to year.

in equal both in heating and cooking capacity to the best produced both in Wyoming and Colorado. Montana imports thousands of tons of coal every year, but this is not long continue, and in a few years the power of the state will come out of Montana mines. The larger the railroad mileage in the state the more valuable the coal fields become, and the more anxious are capitalists to invest.

GOLD MINES AT CREVASSE

Lawrence Link of Cinnabar, who is interested in gold properties at Crevasse, Mont., believes that he will be the richest man in the state during the coming season. He says that the Montana Mining and Milling company are only running from five to ten strips of their mill at present owing to a scarcity of water, but they contemplate the construction of a water ditch this summer which will furnish all the water necessary to run the mill at full capacity—twenty stamps. This ditch will cut Knowles' creek, which will be about four miles in length and will cost about $25,000.

Mr. Link also says that the Campbell claim has been bonded to a syndicate who will erect a mill on this season, and that the syndicate has a valuable claim for $7,000 to another syndicate who will also erect a mill this season. He believes that a custom mill at Crevasse would be a good investment, as the Crevasse company does not custom work, and there is a large quantity of ore in small quantities awaiting treatment.

RIO GRANDE PLACERS

E. H. Durgin of this place returned from the Rio Grande river, where he has been prospecting for several miles east of Tres Piedras, bringing with him at least $100 worth of gold. The result of panning seven shovels full of gravel. It is all coarse gold, says a special correspondent from Denver. Among the local miners who are prospecting the Rio Grande is found in a bed of gravel on either side of the Rio Grande. It underlies the malpais and the rocks, and its extent up and down the river is yet unknown. It is beyond question a rich placer district and unlimited water privileges to work it. There are already twenty miners on the ground, and the hold meeting and passing laws and named the district Meigs camp, in honor of R. S. Meigs, the discoverer of the gravel.

Creede miners, acted as chairman and secretary of the meeting, which passed resolutions that no strike should hold a claim more than 100 acres, and that no claim should be made on the ground; also, that no claim should cross the Rio Grande, making the center of the stream the dividing line between the claims of the miners.

THE DAKOTAS

The ice freeze in the Missouri valley Chamberlain has broken. The river is completely filled with running ice, and is slowly rising. The water is very muddy, and the current is very strong. The ice is breaking up, and the water is running very fast. The current is very strong, and the water is very muddy. The ice is breaking up, and the water is running very fast. The current is very strong, and the water is very muddy.

Four gentlemen, forerunners of a large Danish colony on Wisconsin, have been looking over Roberts county lands with a view to settling. They express themselves as being very much pleased with the country, and they will be here in the early spring and buy desired lands.

The Missouri river bridge engineers are at work on the bridge at Yankton for bridge builders. There are twelve men in the gang and they will be employed at this work until April 15. Recent developments in anticipation of the World Veterans' association, held at Sioux Falls, it was decided to hold the annual district encampment of this organization in Sioux Falls, June 15-17.

Insurance Commissioner Cudde has issued an advance statement of the insurance business in the state during the past year. This statement shows that the losses incurred in the state during that time have amounted to $1,219,820. The total losses paid during the past year amounted to $1,179,660.85.

The artificial rain committee of Brown, Marshall and Spink counties met at Aberdeen and offered a combination of interests. Each delegation guaranteed that ample funds could and would be raised for the proposed test. A committee was appointed from each county to Goodland, Kan., and treat with Jewell and other alleged rain makers.

A Montana miner named Nelson has discovered a rich deposit of silver in the Lake, N. D., over the discovery of what he calls rubies. The gems found are very pretty and are claimed to be genuine rubies. They are of various colors, and are of fine quality. The discovery was made while prospecting in the vicinity of the lake. Mr. Nelson, not content with prospecting on the north side, crossed over to the reservation, and discovered a rich deposit of silver.

Governor Sherman has issued a proclamation quarantining southern cattle from export into South Dakota. The boundaries of the quarantined area are the same as adopted by the department of agriculture and the restrictions about shipment of cattle from infected districts is the same. The quarantine holds from the first of December 1 of this year. The state Board of Health and the state veterinarian and his deputies are charged with the execution of the proclamation.

COLORADO

Three new strikes of gold ore are reported in the Bear creek district, Idaho Springs. The city waterworks at Greeley are being improved by the addition of a new pump with a capacity of 1,500,000 gallons daily.

The Carr mine, Gilpin county, shipped seventeen cars of gold-ore to the smelter last week, which netted $100 per ton. A party of Denver men, among whom is Judge Yeaman, will develop the Phenix mine, Boulder county. Stamps will be used.

Gulf railway officials will assist the Cheyenne county commissioner to construct a good wagon bridge across the Platte at Wendover.

The question of issuing $25,000 in bonds to construct a sewer system will be submitted to the voters of Grand Junction at the municipal election in April.

The Cameron reservoir system near Crow Creek is nearing completion. It is expected that work will be done in about thirty days. The system's capacity is about 800,000 cubic feet.

Work is beginning to realize that the Plateau valley in Mesa county is no place for them, and are fast withdrawing their stocks, while the settlers are remaining in the country. The Plateau valley is a very fertile and rich soil, and is well adapted for agriculture.

Durango, says the Herald, is fast filling up with strangers, and by the time snow disappears in the La Platas there will probably be a large population ready for the spring campaign among the lands of southwestern Colorado.

The excitement over the gold fields at Canon City is still at fever heat, and several strikes are coming in from other sections. Two town sites have been laid out. It is claimed that one claim which is down ten feet shows wire gold. Prospectors are coming in from other sections, and from present indications Cripple Creek has got another rival.

The Florissant Beacon states that last week the Florissant Beacon discovered some very fine Jasper float. They traced it to a lead which showed a vein running from five to twenty feet in length, and showing a quarter of a mile. Miss Mae located the claim and has named it the Sadie D., and it immediately began developing it.

A party of seventy Swedes has arrived at Las Animas to examine the agricultural lands of the Arkansas valley. They were taken in charge by manager George of the Colorado Fruit and Cattle company, who provided carriages and drove through the farms of the north side. They are very much interested in the lands, and quite a number of them have already expressed their intention to invest and make their homes in the valley.

WYOMING

Arrangements are being perfected for the construction of a creamery at Laramie, Wyo. The Seventeenth infantry, which has for years been stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, near Cheyenne, is now expediting orders to be transferred.

Ranchmen about Saratoga have been doing a thriving business this winter selling coyote skins from the state. A number of others are using coal and the consumption of this fuel by the mining companies will increase very rapidly from year to year.

each way every day. The distance is thirty miles. Four Crow Indians passed through the town of Otis last week, going to the Arapahoe mission on a visit. They came over the Bald mountain route, and claim to have been forty-one days on the road. They had lost forty ponies, and one squaw froze to death. They said that they had nothing to eat for ten days.

RECOLLECTIONS OF A NEBRASKA PIONEER

The stirring times of the early Sixties—Indian Raids Treated with Blood—Hospitality and Its Reward.

It is generally admitted that Hon. D. P. Rolfe of Nebraska City has the best command of stories of any of the pioneer settlers of Otis county. As he relates them they preserve a crisp freshness that is delightful to read, and so the writer will not attempt it, but many of the stories are so valuable from a historical point of view that it would be a loss to the community if they were not preserved, imperfect as the attempt must necessarily be.

One of these stories of early days was related to a Nebraska City Press reporter recently. It is as follows: The late John and Jed Gilman kept a ranch at Cottonwood Springs on the Platte river. Both were known far and throughout this country, and John died only a few years ago. Jed is the jovial farmer who lives just west of the city and has even more friends than he has acquaintances.

One night in the early '60s, during a severe and driving storm, an Indian came to the ranch and asked for lodging. He was a half-breed, named Two-Face, and he was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

THE SAD STORY OF TWO-FACE

A Faithful Friend of the Whites, He Dies by the Halter.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

Two-Face recovered toward spring from his sickness, but he did not leave the Gilman ranch until the coming of the fall. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians. He was a white man who had been with the Indians.

to be taxed as a part of the cost. In the case, as provided by section 11, chapter 20 of the statutes of Nebraska, entitled, "Revenue."

Garrett, Jr., against Moore, auditor of public lands, et al. Error from Lancaster county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

On appeal to the district court from the disallowance of a claim by the state auditor, upon the same proofs as were submitted in support thereof when the claim was first presented to the auditor.

When, by reason of the insufficiency of the proof originally made before the auditor the claim was disallowed, the action of the auditor was justifiable in disallowing the claim presented, and the rights of the claimant are not thereby affected. Error from Lancaster county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

The discretion of the district court in permitting the introduction of new proofs by the defendant was not exercised, and the manner in which the introduction has been exercised.

Improper taxation of costs cannot be presented in this court where no motion to retax the same has been made in the district court. Error from Lancaster county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

When a contract is to be construed by its terms, and the facts are not in dispute, it is the duty of the court to interpret the contract according to its plain meaning.

Where parties agreed to vouch for another in the purchase of goods to the extent of the purchase price, and each executed to him an accommodation note to the amount named, which notes were further secured by a mortgage on the goods, the parties thus having loaned their credit were subsequently in no way further bound by the notes.

Richardson against Barowsky. Error from Dakota county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

On appeal from the district court, the trial court gave an instruction embodying only the same propositions of law given in the original trial. Error from Dakota county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

To a review of the taxation of costs in the trial court, a ruling on a motion to retax the same, together with an exception to such ruling, may be shown by the party aggrieved. Error from Lancaster county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Shrimpton & Son against King. Error from Saline county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

This court will not review upon petition in error alleged errors occurring during the trial of a cause in the district court, when a motion for a new trial was made in the trial court, and a ruling obtained thereon. Error from Saline county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Omaha Southern Railway company against Todd. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

When it shall be made to appear to a district court that a fair and impartial trial of a cause cannot be had in the county where brought, then such court has jurisdiction to transfer the cause to and the cause to some adjoining county for trial.

The decision of a district court, made on conflicting evidence, that a fair and impartial trial of a cause cannot be had in the county where brought, is not subject to review by the supreme court. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error from Cass county. Affirmed. Opinion by Commissioner Ryan.

Where a number of tracts of land, as described by the contents of the plat or map, are owned by one person, and the plat or map is not correct, the injury to the whole farm or body of land should be considered. Error