David May and His Creditors Before a Lincoln Court.

OUEER PROCEEDINGS OF A MERCHANT

Took His Family for a Brief Visit to New York and Remained Away So Long as to Become Seriously Involved.

LINCOLN, April 3 .- (Special to The Bee.) One of the many sensational cases which seem to haunt the dockets of the district courts in this city was up before Judge Strode today for final argument. It is a case in which a number of creditors of David May, one of the pioneer merchants of this city, sought to attach large blocks of his property to secure claims. May has been engaged in the mercantile business in Lincoln for years, and in the good old days of the real estate boom speculated not a little in real estate. He has always been looked upon as well fixed financially. Last October he packed up his dry goods and stored them in the basement of his store, and taking his family went to New York, announcing his intention of being absent but a few eks. He left his goods and a farm near city in the charge of his colored servant. In the early part of February the Mays had not returned and the colored man got out of He went to May's attorney, who was also one of May's creditors, and borrowed money to live on and then wrote to May and told him that the property was May and told him that the property was going to ruin for lack of funds. No reply was received and the darky spread the report that the family has gone for good. Then the creditors attached the property. After they had executed the papers May suddenly returned. He claimed that he and his family had been detained only to the family. had been detained owing to the fatal ill-ness of Mrs. May's mother and that he never dreamed of leaving the country or of defrauding his creditors. He at once in-stituted legal proceedings to dissolve the attachments. He filed affidavits in which he alleged that while his property holdings were worth $400,000 his debts amounted to but $91,000. He claimed that he could and would pay off every claim against him. LINCOLN IN BRIEF.

Contracts with Storage Companies by Which Responsibility for Fire Ocasioned by Sparks from Locomotives Are Shifted Void.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 3 .- (Special Telegram to The Bee.)-In the case of eleven nsurance companies against the Milwaukee road, wherein defendant company is sued to recover for the loss of a big cold storage house at Monticello, an important ruling was rendered today by Judge Shiras of the federal court. In 1890 a Boston company leased part of the depot grounds at Monticello for a cold storage warehouse. In 1892 this warehouse burned, causing a loss of $27,000, on which there was an insurance of $23,000 in eleven companies, which was paid. The insurance companies then sued the railroad company for recovery of this money on the ground of negligence. Today the attorneys for the road demurred, on the ground that in their contracts with cold stronge companies the railroad was released from all losses occasioned by fires from locomoives or negligence of their employed Judge Shiras in ruling on this said that the upreme court of Iowa had recently decided that such a stipulation was void; that it was peculiarly a question of public policy of a state, and such policy was binding and con-clusive on a federal court, and that such interpretation must be followed, regardless of how United States judges would feel in the premises, as an application had been made for a rehearing of the case recently decided by the supreme court. Judge Shiras contin-ued the case against the Milwaukee until the MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., April 3 .- (Special Telegram to The Bee.)-The second day of the trial of the Bennett murder case was full of interest. A jury was obtained and sworn about 3 o'clock. The motion to suspend the sheriff on account of prejudice during the trial will not be passed on by the court. The defense thus loses an advantage it had hoped to gain by getting possession of a number of exhibits and other matters of evidence in the sheriff's hands. The openthis city, has gone to Lincoln and purchased ing statements made by the attorneys developed nothing of interest outside of what has been detailed in these columns, except that the defense would show beyond a doubt soon move to the capital.
