

SAY THE CANAL IS COMING

Omaha Business Men Now Confident the Plan Will Be Executed.

ADDITIONAL SUBSCRIPTIONS TO STOCK

Last Night's Mass Meeting Again Bright and Much Earnest Expression in Favor of the Project—Prospect Brightening Daily.

The mass meeting held at the rooms of the Commercial club last night was largely attended and when it adjourned the Platte river scheme had been given a big boost.

President Gibson of the Commercial club presided. He said that the conditions contemplated by the promoters of the canal was to secure the subscription of stock to the amount of $250,000, after which it was proposed to ask subscribers from the county of Douglas to the sum of $1,000,000.

C. F. Weller was satisfied that the success of Omaha depended largely upon the building of the Platte river canal. The business men of the city, he said, should take hold of the matter and subscribe to the stock.

H. F. Cady was heartily in favor of the canal, so much so that he said that he had subscribed for $5,000 of stock.

Frank J. Kaspar was of the opinion that the canal meant millions for Omaha. With the canal and the projected population of 600,000 population for Omaha within five years.

Z. T. Lindsey said that in Minneapolis it cost seven million dollars to build a canal. With the canal, four could be manufactured as cheaply here as there.

N. B. Falconer remarked that he favored the canal and stood ready to take $1,000 of the stock.

Erastus Benson explained that all subscriptions would be upon the same basis. Competent engineers had examined the route of the canal and it was apparent that the water could be brought from the Platte and utilized.

D. Clem Deaver said that the working people of the city wanted to see the canal a people's canal. A general meeting of the laboring men, he thought, should be held and the matter referred to a public meeting.

John Powers had watched the canal scheme and thought that it was the best thing that had ever been proposed for the city.

Vanada of the West.

One of the most astonishing things of this year is the demoniac pertinacity displayed by many unknown scoundrels in trying to destroy the palaces of the World's Columbian fair.

At first this destruction was attributed to traps, but the evident system showed and the continuing pertinacity of the attack clearly pointed to a deep purpose of annihilation planned out and carried forward with a definite purpose.

It is, therefore, supposed by many that the confederation of the lowest junk dealers of Chicago has been formed, with the design of reducing the exposition buildings to heaps of ruins.

The men who have been detected in their nefarious work have been treated far too tenderly by the Columbian guards.

The burning of these buildings is not simply a rabid destruction of priceless property; in many minds it appears hardly short of sacrilege.

The Court of Honor should have been preserved for years, because it was, even in its desolation, one of the most instructive objects in the world.

It is, therefore, a consoling thought that the crowning glories of the scene in its prime are preserved in the magnificent "Book of the Builders," which is now being prepared by the Columbian Memorial Publication Society of Chicago.

It is a feature unique and unparallel in the history of the world. In this great work nothing is left to chance and no detail has been abandoned to inexperienced hands.

It is also unique in its self-written story. The price of the "Book of the Builders," is ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS A COPY.

But the Omaha Bee, watching with admiration the advance of this supreme book of the century, has been able to effect an arrangement with the Columbian Memorial Publication Society by which a sumptuous popular edition of the work is offered.
