Disappearance of Mrs. Walsh with Promise that She Would Suicide.

WAS VISITING HER MOTHER IN CHIO

No Trace of Her Since Wednesday-Husband

Declares She Most He Insane-New City Officers Sworn in - Other Magle City News.

Two months ago Mrs. Walsh, wife of Patrick J. Walsh, a butcher on Q street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, went to Columbus, O., to visit her mother, Mrs. N. J. Davis. Until the last few days Mr. Walsh received frequent and affectionate letters from his wife.

Last Friday Mr. Walsh received a letter from her notifying him that she intended to commit saicide. He at once communicated with friends in Columbus and Saturday received a telegram and yesterday received a letter informing him that his wife had packed her trunk Wednesday last and had taken it to the depot, intending to start home Thursday morning. Wednesday evening she went out to get her husband some good maple sugar and has not been heard of since. She left a letter for her mother under her mother's pillow, but Mr. Walsh has not been informed of its contents. Mr. Walsh says his wife was a good, religious woman and there can be only one cause, mental derangement, for her strange actions. There was no trouble between them.

Mr. Walsh has communicated with the Columbus police, who are doing everything possible to ascertain her whereabouts.

Mrs. Davis writes her son-in-law that she will come to South Omaha and care for her grand children.

AMUSEMENTS. The second of the series of pecitals by the Albert Philharmonic society, given last evening at Boyd's, was in every sense a more artistic performance than the inaugural concert. It was worthy in every sense, and the music lovers who assisted by their and the music lovers who assisted by their applause and encouragement were repail for their presence at the very best concert given by local talent in this city. Two numbers on the program stood out most prominently, and are worthy of the highest praise. Mrs. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who made her first public appearance as a solo pianist, although she has given her friends glimpses of her art in the past, won a most pronounced ovation for her brilliant playing of Liszt's first concerto in G minor. The concerto, while well known to piano students, is technically one of the most difficult compositions of the great master, but Mrs. Hitchcock gave a wonderfully elever interpretation of the governing thought of the great tonal poet. She has exquisite technique and a wealth of expression, which rounded her work splendidly, Easy in manner and entirely mistress of herself and her theme, the concerto was one of the triumphs of the season and greatly emphasized the completeness of herself and her theme, the concert was one of the triumphs of the season and greatly emphasized the completeness of herself and her theme, the concert was thoughly well deserved, notwithing the principal of the principal distribution of the great accord with the pianist, and the applause which the performer called forth was thoroughly well deserved, notwithing that many of Mrs. Hitchcock's society and home friends were in front. The second triumph of the evening was won by Hans Albert, who showed a masterful domination over the violin by playing Bruch's concerto in G minor, with orches tral accompaniment. Classic in form, with standing that many of Mrs. Hitchcock's society and home friends were in front. Next to these two numbers the orchestra scored a hasting success in Massenet's "Scenes Pittoresques," which embarces a march, bailet, the "Angelus," and "Fete Boheme," sufficient musical variety to suit the most exacting taste of the modern classicist. Massenet is one of the biggest of the modern composers, although a Frenchman, and his composition is particularly strong, not only in its finely conceived originality, but in its elaborateness of scoring.

f scoring. The orchestra was heard to exceptional The orchestra was heard to exceptional advantage in this number, the wood winds, fortified by a bassoon, which is a new feature to a local orchestra, playing with ability, the tempos, which are puzzling even to professionals playing the acore constantly, being well taken in conjunction with the stribes and brass. In the "Ballet" the 'cellos were just a trifle off the key, but redcemed themselves in the "Angelus," which is a musical gem. The overtures were well done, although they lacked somewhat the light and shade necessary to successful performances. Miss Ina Kennedy assisted in the success of the concert by singing "To Sevilla," and, taking an encore, gave "She Stoops to Conquer." The young lady has a light soprano, which shows training, and she gives promise of making much more than the average singer. For Mr. Albert, as conductor, too much cannot be said in praise. He demonstrated his ability in no uncertain manner, and deserves all the good things that may be his ability in no uncertain manner, and deserves all the good things that may be

ATTORNEY CHURCHILL PROSECUTING

Complainant Gentry Sorry Other Buildings Were Not Burned in the Boston Store Fire-Liquor Taken by Prescription -Fire and Police Matters.

At the meeting of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners last night Officer Foley was tried on several charges of conduct unbecoming an efficer on the night of March 24. These charges were preferred by W. A. Gentry and when the board took up the case Attorney A. S. Churchill announced that he was present to represent the complainant.

It will be remembered that two weeks ago Officer Foley was charged with being under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and as he produced a prescription directing him to take a done of medicine composed mainly of liquor, he was dismissed. On looking up the officer's record the commissioners found that Mr. Feley was not a drinking man, so the matter was dropped, but at the next meeting of the commissioners Gentry preferred additional charges covering alleged acts of the officer on the night on which he was accused of drunken-Gentry was put on the stand and said that on the evening of March 24 the Ele-vator Conductors union gave a ball in the Grand Army of the Republic hall and that Grand Army of the Republic hall and that the officer came up there about midnight smoking a cigar and under the influence of liquor. W. H. Boyles, one of the floor managers at the ball, said that he went up and spoke to Foley, who was standing behind the stove. Foley had a cigar in his mouth and apolegized for smoking. He went out shortly after and valked days went out shortly after and walked down stairs unattended.

Roy Sellers, a young man who said he lived at 1529 Davenport, stated that about 1.30 o'clock that night he saw an officer come upstairs at this number and rap at the door of a woman who lives there. The woman did not come out and the officer went away. Sellers told a peculiar story and became confused when questioned by Commissioner Smith. Officer Foley said he knew nothing of any such transaction and Sellers' testimony was not corroborated. Officers Bloom and Curry testified that Foley was under the influence of liquor that night and C. L. Hart, who runs one of the city hall elevators, stated that he saw Foley and the latter was so drunk that he fell over a stand of flags on the floor. Officer Cummings was called in behalf of the defendant and stated that he met Gentry on the night of the Boston store fire and that Gentry said to him that he was sorry that the Boston store burned, but was glad that the Catholic church and school in the rear of this store were burned. Officer Cummings also testified that Gentry sald he was sorry that the Young Men's Christian asso ciation building was not destroyed at the Officer Foley testified in his own behalf substantially as was published after the former trial and said that the fluor he took as medicine made him intoxicated, as he was unused to intoxicants. In executive session the board continued the case to more thoroughly discuss the evidence The next case was that of Milk Inspectar Bruner, whom C. C. Littlefield, a milk dealer, charged with attempting to take a small quantity of milk without the legal right and afterward causing his arrest. Bruner stated that when he asked Littlefield for a small sample the latter replied that he had none to spare. Bruner reported the matter to the Board of Health and was advised to test the city ordinance governing the inspection of milk by causing Littlefield's ar-
