MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., April 18--(Special Telegram to The Bee)--The argument by Attorney Caswell for the defendant in the Bennett murder case was masterly effort. He covered the ground exhaustively and every opening made in the state's strong chain of circumstantial evidence seemed to lead to a flood of light upon his client, and she sat more natural and confident than any day of the trial.

J. M. EGAN RESIGNS. Railway Closes Surprised by the General Manager of the Maple Leaf.

ST. PAUL, April 18--J. M. Egan, who has been so long actively connected with the Chicago Great Western railroad, has tendered his resignation as president and general manager, and it has been accepted. Mr. Egan's place has been filled by the election of A. B. Stickney, who was formerly president, but of late has been chairman of the board of directors.

Stickney, son of President Stickney, succeeded Mr. Egan. Nothing can be definitely learned as to the reason for Mr. Egan's resignation. Mr. Egan was at work as usual yesterday. Mr. Egan had a conference with Mr. Stickney and it is believed a difference of opinion arose over the management of the road, for Mr. Egan's resignation was promptly submitted and as promptly accepted, no reason being assigned. The evening had been no previous talk of any such action and it was a stunning surprise in railroad circles.

AFRAID OF THE ANARCHISTS

Pleasure of a Swell Wedding Somewhat Tainted with Fear.

ROYALTIES AT COBURG ARE WELL GUARDED

Extraordinary Precautions Against Assassins--Hotels Under Strict Supervision--Bodyguards of Trained Detectives for Every Important Personage.

COBURG, April 18--The weather is splendid, the streets are thronged with people in holiday attire and all the accommodation at the hotels, cafes, boarding houses and private houses thrown open for the occasion have been secured by the thousands of visitors anxious to be present at the royal wedding.

The royal standard of Great Britain is floating over the ducal palace and on all sides are to be seen flags, masts, bunting, triumphal arches, Venetian flowers and pictures of the bride and bridegroom--the grand duke of Hesse and Princess Victoria of Coburg.

During the morning the band of the First Dragon regiment played under the windows of the apartment which Queen Victoria occupies in the palace and many thousands of people gathered upon the square in front of the palace in order to hear the music and cheer the distinguished personages who were recognized coming from the ducal Schloss.

The morning was mainly devoted to a continuous exchange of the visits between the many royal personages assembled in this city. Queen Victoria and the emperor, accompanied by Princesses Alexandra and Beatrice of Coburg, drove through the town and viewed the decorations.

In view of the great number of people who are flocking into Coburg the greatest precautions have been taken to prevent a possible attempt upon the life of some member of one of the royal families. Consequently the town is full of detectives of all nations, and every person falling under suspicion is carefully watched and is kept under surveillance until all danger of an attempt at assassination is past.

All hotel keepers and visitors are required to furnish the names and description of their guests to the local authorities. In addition the police are making regular rounds of all such places in order to satisfy themselves that the town is free from anarchists. Especial attention is being paid to the safety of the czarowitz, which is considered to be more dangerous than any other important personage now present at Coburg. In addition to his body guard of Russian police, the czarowitz has attached to his person some of the most experienced police agents in Germany.

The queen of England, in addition to the special English policemen who have been guarded her during her sojourn at Florence, Italy, has also been given a guard of German detectives, although her majesty expressed herself as being perfectly satisfied with the police escort to which she has been accustomed.

NEW YORK, April 18--The ducal Schloss and all the other buildings in which the members of the royal or imperial families are quartered are guarded night and day by uniformed police, the troops and detectives, making it almost impossible for an anarchist to approach dangerously near the temporary habitations of the distinguished visitors.

Particular attention is also being paid to the safety of Emperor William of Germany. The bodyguard of detectives which accompanied him to Abbazia, Venice, etc., will follow him to this city and keep constant guard over his imperial majesty.

The prince of Wales has two British detectives attached to his train and he claims that this protection is unnecessary. But in spite of the prince's unceremonious detail of German police, the czarowitz has attached to his person some of the most experienced police agents in Germany.

At 1:10 p. m. ex-Empress Frederick of Germany, accompanied by Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia and the Princess of Saxe-Meiningen, arrived from Meining and were welcomed at the station by the duke and duchess of Coburg. Immense crowds of people surrounded the depot and cheered the imperial visitors.

The emperor and empress arrived here today at 5:55 p. m., and was welcomed by a grand military display. After the military display, Emperor William was presented with the ducal Schloss, which he visited and then he proceeded to the Ducal Schloss. Queen Victoria drove out a second time today, and was greeted with "Hoche" by the people who crowded the streets. During her majesty's second outing, she visited the statue erected to the memory of the late prince and princess. The evening there was a family dinner in the throne room of the Ducal palace.

The Schlossplatz was packed with hundreds of people on exhibition yesterday given in honor of the betrothed couple. The celebration ended with a fine display of fireworks. At 10 o'clock a gala theater performance was given in the Reichstheater, the royal personages in Coburg were present.
