NOW SHE'S A GRAND DUCHESS

Coburg Treated to an Unprecedented Display of Royalty.

She is Married to the Grand Duke of Hesse in the Presence of a Vast Army of Royalties - Coburg's Gala Day.

COBURG, April 19 .- Real royal weather attended the royal wedding. The whole city was enfete in honor of the grand duke of Hesse and his bride, Princess Victoria, the daughter of the duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha and Edinburgh. Additional interest was, of course, lent to the occasion by the almost unprecedented array of royal and imperial luminaries that had gathered here to attend the ceremony The city was literally packed with royal and imperial guests, foreign visitors and German sightseers.

Every building was decorated in some manner. Even the modest cottages have some display of bunting, while the important thoroughfares and prominent buildings are buried beneath decorations of every description and color. Early in the morning the sky was overcast, but the sky soon cleared to a beautiful blue and the sun beamed gloriously upon this temporary headquarters of representatives of nearly all headquarters of representatives of hearly all the imperial and royal families of Europe. The First dragoon regiment band filled the air at short intervals with delightful music, playing in front of the Edinburgh palace. The schloss platz and the terraces overlooking the park were so thronged at 10 o'clock that the police were compelled to drive persons away in order to prevent dangerous crushes, According to the "ceremonial" decided upon by Queen Victoria (all arrangements having been submitted to her in Florence) the marriage was to take place at noon pre-cisely in the private chapel of the ducal schloss with full state in the Lutherau style. Following German procedents there were no bridesmaids, but the bride was sup-ported by her younger sister. The private chapel at schloss was thoroughly redecorated chapel at schloss was thoroughly redecorated for the occasion, and as the wedding took place on Primrose day, primrose entered largely into the interior decorations, these flowers having been sent from England for Queen Victoria was accom panied to the chapel by the duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha (the duke of Edinburgh), father of the bride, and was escorted to an arm chair in the front row of the distinguished guests and next to Emperor Will-lam of Germany, by whose side was the duchess of Saxe-Coburg Gotha (the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, sister to the czar). There were some delays in the proceedings and consequently it was 12:30 p. m. before the ceremony commenced, but it was a most brilliant and impressive function. In the wedding procession Emperor William accompanied the duchess of Coburg and ex-Empress Frederick followed alone. The prince of Wales and the czarewitch came next, walking together. The bridegroom entered with his supporters, his uncle, Prince Henry of Hesse and his brother-in-law, Prince Henry of Prussia. The bride came in last supported by her father and brother and ac-companied by her sisters. The prince of Wales sat beside ex-Empress Frederick of Germany (eldest daughter of Queen Victoria), and next came the czare witch. These distinguished guests occupied front seats on either side of the aisle corresponding with those of Queen Victoria, Emperor William and the duchess of Coburg. Other important personages filled three rows behind each other and other imperial notabilities already mentioned, but the suites, court officials and ministers in attendance remained standing throughout the ceremony. Among other distinguished personages present were the duke and duchess of Connaught, Prince and Princess Lenry of Prus-sia, Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Vladipair of Russia, Grand Duke Sergius of Russia and his wife, formerly the Princess Elizabeth of Hesse-Darmstadt, the Princess Alix of Hesse, the crown prince and princess of Roumania, the hereditary prince and princess of Saxe-Meiningen, Prince and Princess Philip of Coburg, Prince George of Greece, Prince Aribert of Anhalt and Princes Henry and Louis of Battenburg.

The sun shining through the chapel windows upon the distinguished a semblage, ladies in court tollets, sparkling with jewels, their bright dresses contrasting beautifully with the gorgeous uniforms of the male por-tion of the guests, the elaborate floral decorations, the grandeur of the old chapel and the natural solemnity of the surroundings, formed a magnificent tout ensemble which has not often been equaled of recent years in any country in the world.

Queen Victoria wore the broad blue rib-bon of the Order of the Garter and upon her head sparkled a magnificent crown of dia-monds. Her majesty remained seated throughout, as her age and infirmities prevented her standing when all the other wed-ding guests arose during certain portions of the marriage service. The general superin-tendent of the Lutheran church, Pastor Mueller officiated and was assisted by the court chaplain of the grand duchy of Hesse and five local clergymen.

After the address had been delivered the bride and bridegroom plighted their troths and the wedding rings were exchanged. Then came the benediction, after which Mendelssohn's Wedding March was grandly played and the ceremony was at an end. The newly married couple afterwards kissed their relatives in turn and the procession was reformed and left the chapel at 1 o'clock amid the booming of cannon.

WALKER'S FIGHT FOR LIFE

Sentence of George Stevens' Slayer Suspended by the Supreme Court.

ANXIOUS TO SECURE A NEW TRIAL

Lincoln's City Council Making an Effort to Clear Up the Law Governing the Division of the Road Fund.

LINCOLN, April 19 .- (Special to The Bee.) -John B. Walker, who was tried in Dawson county for the murder of George P. Stevens and convicted and sentenced to be hanged May 11, has applied to the supreme court for a rehearing, and his sentence has therefore been suspended until further notice. The crime for which Walker was convicted was committed in the little town of Farnam, Dawson county, May 11, 1893. Both men were farmers, and some misunderstanding existed between them. On the day of the murder Walker rode into town, tied his horse at a street corner, walked down the street until he saw Stevens standing in a group of men. Walker commenced firing at Stevens, He fired five shots, wounding Stevens and a man named Wycoff. Stevens died, and Walker was arraigned for murder, His plea of insanity had no weight with the jury, and he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged May 11, 1894, just a year to a day after the shooting. His attorneys ask a rehearing on the grounds that the lower court erred in trying the issue of Walker's sanity of its own motion without a jury, and on the usual ground that the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence, etc. CITY COUNCIL AFTER MONEY.

Twelve members of the city council held an important conference with the county ommissioners this forenoon in an effort to clear up some conflicting provisions of the law governing the division of the road fund between the city and the council. According to the old law the city treasurer paid over to the county treasurer one-half of the amount paid in for the road fund by the city taxpayers. Last year this half amounted to $6,600. The last legislature amended the law so as to empower the city council to add to the county road levy a sufficient percentage to make the total levy not to ex-ceed 3 mills. The law was also amended so as to permit the city council to expend the entire amount of money realized from the road tax on city property. There are, how-ever, some conflicting provisions of the law which stand in the way of the immediate transfer of the money from the county to the city. The commissioners are willing to pay over the money providing they can be shown that the transfer is perfectly legal. After discussing the matter for several hour the matter was left to County Attorney Woodward and Deputy City Attorney Sellick, who will look up the several provision of the statutes and make a report. SOME MORTUARY STATISTICS.

The annual organization of the board of trustees of Wyuka cemetery was effected yesterday by the election of J. H. Fawell, president; L. J. Byer, treasurer, and A. G. Hastings, secretary. Major Hastings will have an office at 1127 O street, and the board will meet regularly the second Monday of each month. The retiring member this year, Mr. A. M. Davis, has been a trustee year, Mr. A. M. Davis, has been a trustee and treasurer for over thirteen years, taking the position in February, 1881. When he took the office he receipted for $100.30, and when he turned it over to his successor there were $7,533.71 on hand. The total receipts during his term of office were $41,101.88, the proceeds of the sale of 382 lots, 174 half lots and 531 quarter lots. Nearly $35,000 has been spent in labor, building a system of water works, planting trees, erecting a re-ceiving vault and beautifying the groundby landscape gardening and other devices. MADE A FRUITLESS CHASE.

City Detective Malone and R. D. Miller the latter of the Lincoln Savings bank, had an exciting chase after an imaginary horse thief this forenoon that had a somewhat ridiculous ending. This morning a farmer named John Moore drove a horse and cart into the city and tied the animal in from of the court house, while he went inside ic pay his taxes. When he emerged from the building the horse was gone. After satisfying himself by a hasty search that the outfit was not in sight, he went at once to the police station and gave a complete description of the rig. Mr. Miller was present and happened to remember that he had seen but a few moments before such a rig going rapidly north, on Tenth street. Miller had a horse at the station which is rather speedy, and so he took Moore into his buggy and started in pursuit. Detective Malone started in another direction with his horse and light road buggy. Both of the pursuing horses were urged to their best endeavors. When six miles from the city Moore related to Miller all the circumstances of his visit to the court house, and in the conversation it leaked out that the farmer had entered the court house at one door, and, after ram bling around the maze of corridors, emerged from the building at another door. Turning about, Miller returned to the city, and the farmer found his horse patiently standing with his nose to the identical post at which he had been tied in the early part of the forenoon. Detective Malone returned after driving seven or eight miles north of the city.

LINCOLN IN BRIEF. Considerable excitement was occasioned at

DON'T BE A READY MADE MAN

"It is the mind that makes the man," said Wat s, but modern ethics deny this, and give the credit to the tailor. It is questionable, however, if the latter is correct. Don't be a ready made man, is the tailor's motto, but be a "Man ready" to part with your money like a fool. On the other hand the man of mind will keep his money and become "ready made" and appear as stylish as a tailor's victim.

The Nebraska does not wish to pose as a dress reformer, nor begin a crusade against tailoring, but as it al-ways does protect the public by legitimate advertising— We handle tailor made clothing-by it we mean-- we sell clothing made by the leading wholesale tailors of the country---we claim that we'll furnish you with a tailor-made suit which contains equal virtues to the one your tailor makes---made by hand-finished by hand-buttonholed by hand—a point stronger, if you please—many a garment that'll furnish a model for the average local tailor.

It is also reasonable to assert we show more styles. A score of manufacturers, competitively inclined, will surely produce more novel things than a tailor with one brain—
We show full "Regents," in both sacks and frocks—ditto in half "Regents"—3-button "Yale" in sacks or frocks and likewise in Piccadillys, and a some few more typical and • perfect frame fitting garments.

And the cloth—a tailor might call it suitings—is in many instances far better than in the suit you pay double of our price for. We show imported and domestic worsteds, thibets, cassimeres, unfinished worsteds, clays. oxfords, serges etc., draped artistically with silk serge, satin or perhaps less fancy and more durable materials—and the prices are a good deal less than ha'f.
