the fixed charges. 2. It would be the height of foliy to reorganize the company, leaving it without resources for development and improvement. A railroad is a thing of constant growth, if not in mileage, in the condition of its plant, and constantly equires fresh capital for the new construc-ion. Consequently the general mortgage bonds may be used for improvements with consent of two-thirds of the directors Fifth-The power of using general mort gage bonds and stock for refunding is lim-ited so that the annual charges, sinking fund requirements of bonds held by the United States and guaranteed rentals the company, after all bonds are issued, shall not exceed $3,500,000. This limitation, by cutling down the fixed charges by from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, seems to make it reasonably certain that after the reorgan-ization the company can hardly fall to perate its roads successfully and to meet II legal requirements upon its revenues. USING THE PRESENT SINKING FUND.

Sixth-The existing sinking fund of the United States is utilized by the cancellation of such part of it as consists of the existing first morgage bonds and by placing the balance of it with the secretary of the treasury as additional security for the new bonds accepted by the United States.

Seventh-A plan of reorganization has not yet been formulated. Probably but little progress can be made with such a plan until the requirements of the government are clearly ascertained. It has been claimed the government should content itself with pre-scribing what it will accept in payment of its debt and leave all the other terms of a re-organization to be settled by the directors and stockholders int rested. It would be grossly improvident for the United States t assent to a plan which was not known in dvance, and which was not ascertained to e such that under it the reorganized comsivance. pany may be expected to permanently opits road and fulfill all its private and public obligations. A plan of that character would simply bring the government, within a short time, face to face with the same conditions that now confront it, The govern ment ought not consent to a scheme which it does not know to be framed on principles of justice to all parties.

LIMITING THE FIXED CHARGES. While permitting the private interests in slved all possible latitude the propose bill puts limitations which are simply what fixed charges after reorganization are fixed an amount which must not be exceeded the entire scheme of reorganization must be tatisfactory and receive the co-operation f the law officers of the government, and the bill also provides in terms that the plan of reorganization shall confer the same rights privileges and benefits, and impose the same onditions upon all members of each class ithout discrimination or preference.

Eighth-It being highly improbable that differences should not arise respecting th rights of parties under the plan of reorgani zation, the bill provides a forum by which they shall be adjusted. The forum suggested is the court of appeals of the Distric of Columbia. It may be suggested that unti a plan of reorganization is agreed to on be half of the private interests, congress should remain passive. Until the requirements of the United States are first authoritatively defined, however, the private parties are without the groundwork upon which a reor ganization plan must rest. The bill will fur nish that ground, will put creditors and stockholders in possession of the exact conditions they have to deal with and enable them to agree apon a plan of reorganiza-

How largely the United States in its creditor capacity is interested in the success of such a plan has, perhaps, been already suf-ficiently urged. But it may not improperly be added that much more is involved than the exact per cent to be collected on the public debt. Congress chartered the Unior Pacific Railway company to promote great public ends and to secure great public advantages, and granted it lands and subsi-dies on the express condition that it should transmit its dispatches, mails, troops and wanitions of war, supplies and public stores for the government. Unless the objects have o be of value, or that a corporation like the Union Pacific Railway company is not needed for their accomplishment, the rehabilitation of that company or the substitution of another with Bke franchises and subject to the like duties is imperatively demanded on the broad ground of the general welfare

Mr. Vest, however, opposed it. These people should be treated the same as all other citizens of the United States, and if they did not violate the laws they would not be molested, but he deprecated the introduction of such a resolution, because it intimated a want of confidence in the institutions and the laws of the land; their right to come here and visit the capitol was so plain, so evident, that any suspicion about it would be a reflection on the intelligence of the country.

He was opposed to the preamble, however, if it meant to include these men who had trampled on the laws, injured private properties and undertaken to secure transporta tion to this city by force of arms, for then he emphatically dissented from it. He declared the men who were marching to Washington would be protected in their rights, but they would have to learn to abide by the laws of the land, and if con-gress, for one instant, compromised with them it would open a crevasse which would end in a flood and final destruction. If any one wanted to come here, whether they were employed or unemployed, to inspect the public buildings and visit congress, their rights would be respected, but when they eized trains to come on, when they vio lated the laws of the country and trampled on the rights of the people congress ought

The total western movement was 14,455, against 8,037 in February, 8,858 in police force and a paid soldiery seemed to think it proper to denounce in the senate January, 8,441 in March, 1893. This shows that the low rates brought about 6,000 peomen sworn to do their duty. It was to be regretted the governors of certain states ple into California over the Southern Pacific alone, over and above the regular traffic. "In Colorado today, crushed and humiliated as she is by the action of congress, I venture to say no man is suffering because he can find no work, or to willing hands to assist in supporting him until work can be found for him. I believe the time has come when those of us who are in public life ought to begin to cultivate more regard for the perpetuity of republican instiutions and to pander less to that miscalled portion of the labor vote, whose labor is with their throats and never with their hands. It is time we stood up for American manhood, for the right of every man to work if he wants to, if it takes the whole army of the United States to enable him to do so. right of every man is to enjoy equal liberty with every other man and that means he shall have such liberty as is not inconsistent with equal rights of his neighbors; the right to hold and enjoy the property which the laws of the country have enabled him to secure. It is time we had the courage to stand together against this socialism, populism and paternalism, which is running riot n this country and which must end (if not rushed) in the destruction of the liberties which the laws give us, liberties which should be dearer to us than life itself." at some length the subject of the annexation of the islands by the United States, remarking that he had thought seriously of offering a resolution requesting the president to send back to the senate for consideration and ratification the treaty of annexation negotiated by President Harrison. No foreign government had presented any protest against this treaty, but the president had seen fit to withdraw it arbitrarily. Speaking of the president's message with H GGINS SPEAKS ON THE WILSON BILL drawing the treaty, Senator Higgins said: "So far as we can judge from his message the president withdraw the treaty of annexa-tion without every even considering the problem of annexation of the islands.

"The president," baid he, "rejected the treaty because he glaims it had been obtained wrongly. In his opinion the queen enjoyed not only the legitimate sovereignty, but the moral right and physical force of the islands entitling her to rule. In all hi facts and all his conclusions after careful perusal of the testimony I believe the president is wrong, but clothed as he is, as the chief executive of this nation with enorm power over this question, he seems to have taken his course on these narrow grounds." Referring to the heroic record made by the provisional government Senator Higgins closed by saying: "Now at last, when called on to protect the civilization they had created from the barbarism that sought to draw it back into its embrace, when they had triumphed over the internal forces which they had been compelled to overthrow, they suddenly found themselves assailed by the overwhelming power of the United States itself. But the race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong.

"Again the moral forces were in the ascendant, Again they asserted themselves, and never in human experience with more moral grandeur when the president of the mightiest republic on earth finds himself unhorsed by the president of the feeblest. "All honor to Sanford B. Dole. Called, in an unlooked-for exigency and without seek-ing the place, to a task of singular difficulty if not danger, he has discharged his duty with signal ability and in a manner that can secure no higher encomium than to say it is worthy of the New England missionaries of that New England theocracy rom which he sprung and to whom these islands owed their civilization." o'clock Mr. Higgins concluded his

Members of the senate who had spoken of a servile of 1856 to "dock" members for absence except on account of sickness. Mr. Mahon, republican, of Pennsylvania, precipitated the matter by rising to a question of privithe matter by rising to a question of privi-lege and offering a resolution directing the sergeant-at-arms to pay members their salaries without any deductions on account of absence, unless such absence is first certified by some duly authorized officer of the house. A point of order was raised by Mr. Kligore and supported by several demo-crats, that the resolution did not present a question of privilege. The point was sushad been so unwise as to urgo these men to make a descent on the capitol of the United States. His own state of Colorado had the honor to his commonwealth and sullied her fair name. Mr. Wolcott said he was tired tion. The times were out of joint, but what made them so might be attributed to one cause or another. He believed most of the men in Coxey's army might be honest, but lestion of privilege. The point was sustained by the speaker on the ground that it was a matter of law (and not under the control of the house. "But that is not the law," inter

Mr. Reed. "That," said the speaker, "is not a ion for the house to determine." He a that he should decline to certify salarie

Wouldn't Hit Mr. Barnes for Fear of Hurt-

LINCOLN, April 26 .- (Special Telegram to The Bee.)-Lincoln administred another castigation to Omaha this after-The game was a varlegated noon. one, being a mixture of loose and brilliant fielding, weakness at the bat and hard hitting, and clover and wretched base running. Captain Rourke succeeded in the forenoon in ejecting a few drachma of ginger into his men, and as a result of his untiring effort they played a much livelier game than yesterday, and managed to keep awake when on bases. Lincoln outplayed the men from Omaha at every point. The Statesmen made more runs, hit the ball harder and oftener, did much better individual field work, made fewer errors, and earned seven of their ten runs.

The visitors evinced an unfortunate incliration to go to pleces at a critical moment. Thus in the second inning, when the Lincoins made the first three scores, Mr. Boyle eclipsed the record by securing an assist, error and a put-out in one play, and all this o put out one man, who had reached the home plate on a batted ball, for which the scorer gave him but a two-base hit. The fact that nearly every player among the Omahas was gathered around the home plate in a concerted effort to prevent a pale, intellectual university student from exaggerating a two-base hit into a home run was ne of the features of the game. Lincoln got a start in the second inning. Ebright sampled Mr. McMackin to the extent of a hit, reached second on Sullivan's sacrifice, but died at third. In the meanme Speer and Lawrence planted themselves on bases, and Prof. Barnes sent a long driv-ing fly to Wood in the left field that demoralized the visitors. Speer and Lawrence scored, and Barnes attempted to come home. Wood passed the ball to Boyle, who threw it somewhat vaguely in the direction of the nome plate, and succeeded in hitting the ackstop. He managed to run to the plate in time to shut Barnes out of a run with the ball, which Fear had by this time recov-ered and fielded back to him.

WASHINGTON, April 26 .- Secretary Carlisle has sent to the house of representatives a letter from Mr. Worthington C. Ford the chief of the bureau of statistics, requesting authority for printing an annual sta-tistical abstract of foreign countries. In his letter Mr. Ford says many inquiries are addressed to the bureau for statistics bear-ing upon the commerce, industry and gen-eral economic factors of European and other foreign countries. The number of these inquiries is constantly increasing, and makes a continually greater demand upon the clerical force. Indian Appropriation Bill Reduction

DOLPH GROWS EMPHATIC. Mr. Dolph of Oregon stated he fully agreed with what the senator from Missouri (Vest) had said, but he called attention to other obhad said, but he chied attention to other ob-jectionable features of the preamble to the resolution. No one denied the right of citi-zens of the United States to peaceably as-semble to petition congress or to visit the capitol. His objection to the resolution lay in the fact it was accompanied by a lying preamble, which was in effect a censure of the authorities of the District of Columbia, Mr. Gray of Deleware also condemned the resolution, even while he said he would vote for it if the preamble was omitted. He ad-mitted he had a kindly sympathy for the vagabondage which made our roads so picturesque in summer. Mr. Allen defended his action in introducing the resolution and spoke for some ime. In the course of his speech he called he Coxey movement "the spontaneous uprising of American citizens against wrong and oppression." It was, he said, a peaceab'e gathering of men engaged in a peaceable project.

A POINTED QUESTION.

"Does the senator apply that to the Army of the Commonweal which stole a train at Butte, killed two deputy marshals, and now trying to capture ?" asked Mr. Wolcott. Mr. Allen refused to be drawn onto this ground. He declared he was a warm advo-cate of peace and lawfulness. He criticised the action of the commissioners of the Dis-trict of Columbia in issuing a proclamation warning Coxey's army against entering the district

At 1:45 o'clock, before any action had been taken on the resolution, Mr. Harris moved to take up a resolution providing that "to-morrow and until otherwise ordered the sente shall meet at 11 o'clock a. m. # DEMOCRATS MUST KEEP A QUORUM.

Republicans Will Take Their Own Time to Debate the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, April 26 .- The democratic eaders of the senate appear to realize that the time is approaching when it will be necessary for them to mainain a quorum in the senate and be prepared to transact business with but little assistnace from the republican side of the chamber, and they have reinforced the official letter of notification to their members sent out by Senator Gorman, chairman of the democratic caucus, with personal appeals to democratic senators. Republican senators do not ad-Score:

mit in so many words, that they will resort to dilatory measures, but they say that all they will ask at any stage of the proceedings will be that they shall be allowed to dis-cuss the merits of the bill and its various provisions, as the general importance of the subject may render proper, and that this may be done within reasonable hours They admit generally that if the democrats attempt to enforce unusual hours or to precipitate a test of physical endurance they will resist such an effort in any way that the rules may justify, which probably means that there will be motions to adjourn and calls for a quorum whenever vacant chairs on the opposite side of the chamber indicate that the democratic senators are losing interest in the proceedings. Even if Senator Harris' motion to extend daily debate until 6 o'clock were adopted, the arrangement would be good only for this week, so that it would appear probable that the interesting stage of the proceedings will be reached next week. There are less than half a dozen democratic senators now absent from the city, and they, with one or two exceptions, are expected to return next week.

MEYER STILL HAS HOPE.

Thinks His Bill Will Go Through in Spite of the Committee's Action.

WASHINGTON, April 725 .- Representative Meyer of Louisiana is confident that his compromise proposition of the silver question will pass the house, notwithstanding the action of the Bland free committee in pigeon-holing of the present session of congress. Mr. Meyer will no longer address his effort to the committee, but will get the compromise direct before the house as a compromise direct before the house as a substitute to any free comage bill Mr. Bland may report. Once bilore the house Mr. Meyer says he has the utmost confidence, based on assurances that the compromise bill will prevail. He is satisfied that radi-cal silver legislation cannot prevail, nor can the other extreme of no legislation be pur-sued. Between these tarremes, he believes the conservative sentiment of the house will ultimately accept Mr. All, based as it is upon the lines laid form in Mr. Cleveland's veto message. Mr. Meyer is now preparing a new bill, which changes the phraseology of the old one. In Ms. revised form it may go the old one. In the revised form it may go to the coinage committee, but Mr. Meyer will place his future reliance on presenting it dir ctly to the house as a substitute. Representative Bland says he will try to have a committee vole on the free coinage bill next Thursday. When once reported the hill becomes privileged, owing to a rule giv-ing the committee special right of way on its bills, so that a recurrence of the sliver struggle seems to be near at hand, Mr. Bland says he does not think the Meyer bill would be germane as a sub-titute for his free silver bill, as it embraces bonds, which is a subject not germane to a sflver bill pare
