LEMEN BROS. CIRCUS.

The Greatest Popular Price Show on Earth. The features of the show this season will be Rajah, the big elephant, and Tom, the boxing kangareo. Rajah has been in this boxing kangaroo. Rajah has been in this country one year and is gradually becoming civilized and accustomed to the ways of the American circus. The circus posters this summer will say that Rajah is "a veritable moving mountain, whose stately tread makes the earth tremble," and the writer of circus literature has not stretched his elastic imagination much in making this statement either. Rajah is without doubt the largest elephant in captivity anywhere. He is two inches taller than the late lamented Jumbo was in life and weighs 3,000 pounds more. The reporter didn't take the agent's statement for this, but measured the big brute himself, and can therefore speak as one having authority. Rajah's kesper, Frank Fisher, stays by his side night and day and the two are as much in love with each other as a newly married couple. Frank is an old-time elephant trainer and is loaded to the muzzle with interesting stories of the habits and intelligence of the "blg uns." He has been with the Lemen show about a year and has been connected with all the big shows at different times. Omaha, Wednesday, May 16.

CONSIDERED BUT NOT YET ADOPTED

Representatives of Organized Labor Discuss the Proposition in All of Its Phases and Adjourn Without Definite Action.

At a conference of labor leaders held in Philadelphia last week a movement was launched which evidently has for its purpose the amalgamation of all the labor organizations of the country.

The meeting was the outcome of the agitation started something over a year ago by Terrence V. Powderly, Joseph R. Buchanan and a few other labor leaders of national prominence. The call was issued by Buchanan and was in part as follows:

"The most serious phase of the present situation is the unorganized condition of the labor movement itself. Our unions are. scattered and sundered, and in some cases are wasting their energies in warring upon each other. There must be a thorough unification, a close alliance of all organized workers, without regard to creed, occupation, sex or nationality.

"Not being connected with any organization in an official capacity not the slightest question can be raised as to my motives in calling this conference. The aim of the con-ference will be not to displace or weaken any existing organization, but to strengthen and increase the power of each."

Something over sixty authorized delegates attended the conference, nearly all of whom were men of national note in labor circles. Some dissatisfaction was noted on account of the date of the meeting being fixed when the executive board of the Knights of Labor was in session in Chicago, and a few of those present thought that it was a scheme to keep the authorized representatives of the Knights out of the conference, but before the deliberations began J. G. Schonfarber, the editor of the Knights of Labor Journal, appeared with his credentials and showed a willingness to say what he thought of the measures advocated. John B. Lennon of the Journeymen Tailors union, A. W. Wright of the Knights of Labor and M. M. Garland of the Iron and Steel Workers union were appointed on credentials.

After the conference had been organized Mr. Buchanan took the floor to explain the objects of the conference, which he did in very able manner and at great length. He said that the agitation for a union of all the labor forces had been going on for some years past and that if the leaders of the various labor organizations would not take up the matter and push it to completion the rank and file would soon see to it that lenders were chosen who carry out the wishes of the workers. Buchanan declared that the time was ripe when the tollers should bestir themselves in an effort to arouse the workers of all

Call and thought that this meeting would be productive of good results if all present would work in harmony and do their best. The toilers Go to the New York millinery store, 1512 Douglas street, Monday. New store, new should combine to protect themselves against man's natural selfishness. He favored political action as the one remedy to lead the workers to success. P. J. McGuire of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners was not so positive of this being the right way to go at reforming the country, but was willing to give it a trial if so many others thought it would produce the results desired. John B. Lennon spoke heartily in favor of the plan and thought that an overwhelming majority of the members of his union in the country favored some such a scheme, whereby the workers of all classes might be joined together to protect themselves and the government.

Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, said that this plan was the only feasible one and that the federation could not be reorganized unless the knights gave up their trade assemblies. No other plan of unification would work. The Federa-tion of Railroad men should also come into the Federation of Labor. A. W. Wright of the Knights of Labor thought that the federation should make concessions to the knights that all mixed organizations could be organized under the knights, in consideration that the trades assemblies go into the federation. Mr. Powderly thought that the members could easily belong to both, and cited the fact that the brewery workers now had charters under both the federation and the Knights of Labor.
J. G. Schonfarber, the authorized representative of the knights, then addressed the conference. He said: "I come here represent-ing the general executive board of the Knights of Labor with explicit instructions. I certainly cannot take any action favoring Mr. Buchanan's idea or act on a committee where the resolution is approved. I favor unification on economic and political lines, but am surprised that Mr. Buchanan should ecommend the breaking down of the trades assemblies of the Knights of Labor to build up another order." This declaration stirred up considerable trouble, which it seemed for a time would end in a split of the con-ference, but finally cooler heads prevailed and while nothing definite was decided and while nothing definite was decided upon, a committee was appointed to further investigate and see what could be done toward the objects sought.

Delegates were present from the following organizations: The Knights of Labor, The Federation of Labor, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Cigarmakers International union, Central Brotherhood Labor unions, United Hatters of America, Garment Cutters union, Amalgamated Lace Curtain workers, Bridge Workers International union, Tailors union, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, United Garment workers, Bricklayers and Masons union, Cutlery Workers union, Hotel and Restaurant Employes alliance, United Green Glass Workers, Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel workers, Clothing cutters, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Brewery Workmen's union, Carriage and Wagon Workers union Barbers International union and International Coopers union.

delphia, are on strike against a reduction of wages. The national convention of the United Mine Workers endorsed the entire political program submitted by the American Fed-eration of Labor.

For the first time since New Year's all of the departments of the Pennsylvania steel works at Steelton are running, and over 4,000 men are at work.

Three thousand Imlian street cleaners have struck for an increase in wages at Philadelphia. They want 15 cents instead of 10 cents an hour.

Five thousand rolling mill and factory men, who have been in enforced idleness for several months in South Chicago, Ill., have been given work again. The puddlers at the Wheeling Steel and Iron works at Benwood have accepted a reduction to $4 per ton in wages, and 600 men have resumed work.

A dispatch from New London, Conn., says that the Bath Iron Works company has made a proposition looking to the removal of the plant to New London. The coal miners of the Springfield, Ill., sub-district, at a meeting recently, decided to go to work at the proposed reduction of the operators from 40 to 25 cents. Forty employes of Simon's silk mill at Union Hill, N. J., struck under orders from a committee of their union, but 110 other mployes refused to obey the order. Another reduction of 10 cents in wages was made at Bellaire blast furnace, at Bellaire, O. This makes the second reduction this year and affects over 200 men. The 300 iron miners of the Mt. Pleasant,

N. J., Mining company have struck for an advance in their wages from 90 cents to $1.25 a day. A general strike may result. The weavers at the Scranton, Pa., lace factory went on strike against a proposed cut of 10 per cent in their wages. Their ac-tion enforces the idleness of 300 operatives. The Standard Window Glass works a North Woodbury, which were started up some few weeks ago by a new company, after lying idle for several months, have shut down for an indefinite period, throwing forty hands out of employment. The convention of miners of the Pittsburg district decided to maintain the 3-cent rate for mining, but not to strike at present. The question of a general strike was discouraged by the national officers, on ac count of the prevailing depression. Work was resumed at the Chesapeake Nail works, Harrisburg, Pa., recently at reduced wages. The feeders, however, about seventy-five men and boys, when they learned that they were expected to share the reduced wages with the natiers, went out. The eight and ten-inch rolling mills of the Pennsylvania Bolt and Nut works, and the mills of the East Lebanon Iron company at Lebanon, Pa., have resumed at the reduced

One Man Steals While Another Has

Button Sewed On His Clothes. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon two men went into the merchant tailor shop of R. Kalish, 315 North Sixteenth street, when one of them approached him, and reaching into his pocket drew out 10 cents and handing it to Mr. Kalish said, "I would like to have you sew a button on my pants." Mr. Kalish invited the other man to a chair, while he sewed on the button. He ther took the man into the rear of his store to do the sewing, and when he returned he noticed that the man he had invited to a chair had lisappeared. He further discovered that three bolts of fine cloth had disappeared with him. Mr. Kalish at once said to the man for whom he sewed on the button, "Where did the other man go and where are my goods." The man replied he did not know anything about the other party; that he was not acquainted with him, and he knew less about the goods. Kalish teld him he would hold him for the goods, as he thought he thew something about them and where the other man was likely to go. The fellow appeared to be astonished that he should be taken for a thief, but he got out of it in this way. He told Mr. Kalish that it would this way. He told Mr. Kalish that it would be a good plan for both of them to go at once and search for the man and the goods, one going one way and one going the other. To this Mr. Kalish partly assented, but said they would go together, and he held a firm grip on the man's coat. Jaycox is president of the club and Mrs. L. C. Gibson secretary. The membership consists of ten gentlemen and their wives. Twenty hands are played at each meeting and the secretary strikes an average and keeps a record of each player. The record for the season shows that some good whist has been played, although the total average was not so high. At the close of the game last evening Mrs. Gibson announced that Mrs. D. L. Holmes and Mrs. A. L. Brainard had tied on a score averaging 56. This was for the whole series and was the highest average. The two ladies cut the highest average. The two ladies cut the cards and Mrs. Holmes won and received a beautiful gold medal. Suspended from the bar is the monogram "D. W. C." Mr. C. H. Watts had the highest average of any of the gentlemen and was given a medal of the same style. His average was 53 1-5.

After the game was over and the prizes had been awarded the guests were invited into the dining room, where they were entertained for an hour in the most bountiful manner. Last Night's Concert.

Endeavor at the Presbyterian church drew out a fair house Friday night, and the entertainment was well received. Miss Myrtle Coon of Omaha was warmly received, and sang so charmingly that she was repeatedly encored. The playing by the Magic City orchestra was fine. The Trocadero quartet was one of the hits of the evening. James Smith's comic song pleased everybody, and the plano playing by Prof. Sig-mund Landsberg was highly complimented In fact, each number on the program was good, and the society may well feel proud of the result of its efforts to give a first Gashed with a Knife. Jack Smith, an employe of Cudahy's pack which came near costing him his life. He was at work on an elevated platform with a large sharp knife in his hand when he slipped and fell a distance of several feet. The knife reached the floor first and in trying to brush the blade from under hi body as he fell Smith's wrist was gashed frightfully. The palm of one hand was also seriously cut. The unfortunate fellow lost a large amount of blood before medical aid could be secured. He was taken to Dr.

John Smith was gathered in by Officer Connell Friday afternoon. Smith was struggling with a jag and a pack of clothing, groceries, meat and vegetables that would fill an express wagon. He had everything with him from a bunch of onions to a fine silk dress. Among his paraphernalia is a fine gold watch and two chains, some silver spoons, a fine pair of ladies' shoes, a gold ring, razor, gloves, dice, knives and other fruck. He was too drunk to give an ac-count of himself. The dress has been worn but very little. Omaha.

History of the City of Omaha. Tacitus, appreciating the great value of history to mankind, wrote, nearly twenty years ago, that its chief object was to "rescue virtuous actions from oblivion, to which the want of records would consign them."

Even in this practical, speculative age there seems to be a tendency all over our country to preserve the record of the past. This growing regard for American history is an evidence of increasing national intelli-gence, pride and dignity.

We now have before us a conscientiously ompiled, well written and admirably bound volume devoted exclusively to our own city and interests intimately blended therewith.

The compilation and completion of this valuable work has been both laborious and expensive, and the result now accomplished justifies the pride of its authors and publishers and also merits the appreciation of every right minded citizen of Omaha.

Books of local history are not expected to find sale excepting among those whose interests are identified with the immediate locality embraced, and publishers are usually unwilling to incur the risk of publishing them. It is, therefore, a source of gratification to all who have a special interest and pride in Omaha that Messrs. Munsel & Co. of New York and Chicago have undertaken and successfully completed a work which exceeds in extent, range of subjects, excellence of binding and general style the prom-ises they made to those who some time ago extended financial support to the publication.
It is a safe prediction that not again during the present decade will another like publication be obtainable for the city of Omaha. The volume represents the last important public service of Judge Savage and is a fitting memorial to his life and accomplish-
