ADVERSE REPORT ON OCCUPATION TAX

No Doubt but the Ordinance Will Be Repealed-Coal Dealers Must Patronize City Scales Liquor Licenses Granted -Magie City Gossip.

All the members of the city council were present at the meeting last night, with Mayor Johnston in the chair. The room allotted to spectators was packed. The occupation tax repeal ordinance was read and referred. Mr. Ryan asked for an ordinance to compel the coal dealers to give full weight over the city scales. One policeman resigned and a new one was appointed. Fifteen liquor license application were reported favorably upon and a big lot of routine business was transacted.

Mr. Bulla reported on the condition of Twenty-fourth street from Wyman south, calling the docket and listening to motions. recommending that $75 be expended in placing this thoroughfare in more passable condition. The report was adopted.

The new garbage ordinance was read the first time and referred.

Mr. Walters reported on the occupation tax ordinance as follows: "Your commit-tee appreciates the city's need of the occupation tax and also appreciates the injustice eing done by taxing one man's business and not his neighbor's. Your committee thinks it class legislation, which should not exist in national, state or municipal affairs. and being contrary to democratic princi-The report was signed by the full mmittee.

Twenty persons signed a communication complaining of the conduct of patrons of saloons on Twenty-fourth street, near N. The paper asserts that nuisances are daily committed in the rear of these salcons, and asks that the council abate the same. The petition was referred to the chief of

A communication was read from Treasurer Hoctor stating that he had accepted $196.69 tax from the Omaha Belt Line Railway company. This company has a fraction over a mile of trackage inside the city limits.

City Engineer Beal reported that it would cost $140 to make needed repairs on the L street viaduct. He also recommended that the street car company take up its tracks while the repairs are being made. In regard to the Q street viaduct the engineer gave it as his opinion that the structure was strong enough to carry the cars of the street railway company. He also considered it essential to paint both structures. City Clerk Maley handed in a communication stating that Henry Ditgen, the ex-clerk, had not posted his books up to within four months before his term of office exired, and in some instances the books had not been posted since 1892. He recommended that Mr. Ditgen be compelled to complete this work at once, as the condition of the books greatly delayed his work. The matter was referred to the finance committee. Mr. Maley also mentioned the fact that no prorision had yet been made for dog tags for this year.

Mr. Bulla reported on the missing tools that belonged to the city. He called Mr. Tobias, the ex-street commissioner. Mr. Tobias tried to explain where the missing tools were, but the only excuse he could give was that what tools had not been broken had been stolen. The missing tools are as follows: Four files, ten shovels, one tapeline, one hoe, twenty-five lanterns, two saws, one spade, one hatchet, two hammers, one cross-cut saw, one trowel, one mattock, one post maul, one bit, two chisels and a number of picks. Mr. Conley thought the ex-street commissioner should either be compelled to pay for the tools or give a better account of the ones missing. Mr. Tobias said if the council thought it was fair for him to pay for the tools that have been lost or stolen he would do so. Re

Mr. Walters offered a resolution instruct-additional fire escapes or exits be placed in Bauer's hall. The committee on licenses recommended that liquor licenses be granted to the fol-lowing persons: M. Woolstein, William Kubacher, Frank Humpert, O. B. Hill, Joe Rosesnur, John H. Nelson, John Rabb, Max Lenz, John Conroy, F. J. Eggers, William Bauer, George Schuler, Daniel Clarey, John Empkins and John Fallon. The license committee will have some more licenses to re-port upon at the meeting tonight. The impression has got out that the liquor dealers' bondsmen have to qualify in the sum of $5,000. This is wrong, the amount, according to law, being only $2,500. Ivor Thomas handed in his resignation as policeman. It was accepted and James Sheehan was appointed and confirmed.

Mr. Ryan introduced a resolution instruct ing the city attorney to draft an ordinance controlling peddlers, and also one compelling all coal dealers to have their coal weighed on the city scales before being delivered to the purchaser. Mr. Wood inquired if the gamblers were still making a donation of $50 a month each to the city. No one was prepared with the information desired and the matter was The council meets tonight as a board of Rheumatism Cured in Three Days. "I have been afflicted all winter with rheumatism in the back. At times it was so severe that I could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side," says George A. Mills of Lebanon, Conn. "I tried different remedies, but without relief, until about six weeks ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days, according to directions, my rheumatism was gone, and has not re-turned since. I have since recommended it and given it to others, and know they have been benefited by its use." For sale by druggists.

FEDERAL COURT.

Grind Will Be Commenced Today on Long List of Cases,

The May term of the federal court opened this morning. The session was occupied in The grand and petit juries will report for duty this morning. The grand jury will probably remain in session nearly a month, as there are seventy-five cases awaiting investigation. The greater number of them are for counterfeiting, unlawful sale of liquor and violation of the postal laws. There are a number of cases of alleged perjury in connection with land office business which will be looked into. Twenty-four criminal cases were left over unfinished from the hist term, which, with the usual percentage of indictments returned by the grand jury will give the new district attorney, A. J. Sawyer, and his assistant, Mr. Baldridge, enough to keep them busy for several weeks.

The only criminal cases of special momen are those of the North Platte postoffice robber, who got away with 2,000 worth of stamps and was arrested in New York, and Brooker, alias Caldwell and half a dozen other names, who is supposed to have robbed a postoffice somewhere, as he paid $82 in stamps for clothing at Meyer's store in Lincoln, and had a lot of 3, 5 and 10-cent stamps in his possession when arrested at Grand Island.

Judge Dundy has signed a writ of revivor in the case of W. R. Robeson against W. T. Shannon, the Patrick Land company et al. The plaintiff died, and the executrix sets forth that the decree in the case was granted after his decease, making it illegal, as a deeree in favor of a dead man will not hold water under the law. The execurix wants everything in due form of law, and therefore wants the case reopened, which will be done. The suit is one brought to foreclose a mortgage.

ADAM SNYDER'S SHORTAGE.

Action Compaenced in the Criminal Court Against the Ex-Treasurer. An information signed by Commissioner Jenkins, charging ex-County Treasurer Adam Snyder with having embezzled and converted to his own use the sum of $6,-977.39, was filed in the police court yester-

Adam Snyder was the democratic treasurer who was succeeded by H. B. Irey three years ago. At the time of surrendering the office there were rumors that Snyder was short in his accounts, and an investigation was ordered, the result of which was that it was ascertained that some of the money had not been properly accounted for. Expert bookkeepers went through the books making practically the same findings of the committee. Something like a year ago Mr. Snyder was informed of the condition of affairs, and at once promised to make good the shortage, but as nothing was done this direction, the commissioners declar upon the action that was taken yesterday. Some time ago in speaking of the matter, Mr. Snyder stated that the shortage was not through any dishonesty, but was caused by reason of the manner in which the office was conducted. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best. Then the dog catchers happen along and find the canine without he tag and he is straightway taken to the pound. It is claimed by many of the vic-tims that there is an organized conspiracy aided and abetted by the dog catchers to steal the tags in order to give the dog catchers a chance to earn additional fees.

These thefts are continually becoming more frequent, and now there is not a day of the week but that one or more cases are reported at the office of the city clerk. In some cases the collars are valuable, but as a rule the chief object of the thieves seems to be to get the tag. As this is com paratively valueless, the victims argue that there must be some other motive for the thefts, and most of them lay it at the door of the dog catchers. It is difficult to detect the thieves, as they induce the dogs to follow them away, and if they were seen by a policeman he would naturally think that the dog was with its rightful owner.

The only remedy the city officials have been able to recommend is for dog owners to keep a close watch on their property.

The county commissioners have agreed ipon the material to be used in paving the three county roads and will order work to begin as soon as the winning contractors can get their material upon the ground. By resolution it has been decided to pave the Military road with Colorade sandstone and the other roads with macadam. By this decision Hugh Murphy is given the stone and D. VanCourt & Co. the macadam work In disposing of the county road fund, $150, 000, the commissioners have divided the amount into three equal parts, each part to be used upon the road designated.

In making the estimates, the committee on roads figures that the $50,000 will have the Military road with sandstone to a point near the west line of Benson, a distance of nearly three miles from the city limits. On the other roads it is estimated that the appropriation will carry the paving into the in-terior of the county a distance of seven miles from the city limits. This will the Dodge street road to near the center of McArdle precinct, and the Center street road to a point into Millard precinct not far OMAHA, May 10 .- To the Editor of The Bee: The most trying time in any man's life is when he is without money; his shortcomings in any other way may be easily covered or overcome. This is at the present time the general view of the power of money, but it has not always been so. There was a time when money was much easier obtained than today, and the wealth of the land more equally distributed; indeed there are countries on the globe where one man possesses no more of the "narvus-rerum" than another. But according to the economic views in vegue today those people are poor and are sure of our sympathy, for we send missionaries amongst them to enlighten, to secure their salvation and to make them happy, but this poor and unhappy man, if in need of money, goes to the seashore and gathers shells, or cuts up some bones of a peculiar shaps and thus provides himself and family with the necessary "legal ten-

It is well known that the natives of the isles of the Indian archipelage, the Sulu isles, of Caylon and many Africans use the small shell, called "cowrie," as a medium of ex-change. The question asked is not "have you money?" but "have you cowrie?" Tais Asiatic coin is in reality the poor man's money. The shells of two species of snalls are principally used, the "cyprea moneta" and "anulua." In Siam 800 to 1,200 of these shells are worth about one "fuang," a small silver coin, worth about 12 cents in our money; from eighty to 100 shells are worth about I cent, but the price or value of the cowrie fluctuated, as is shown by reports dating back to the middle of the last century; 2,400 to 2,560 cowries were then worth about 1 "ruppee" or about 25 cowries for 1 cent. In Africa the purchasing power of the cowrie money is greater; in Ferran 2,500 cowries are worth 1 "mitkal" ($5) or five for I cent. The Utin, Dogwumba, Gowaw, Kong and Akra, well known African tribes, use the cowrie as currency.

The Ashanties use gold dust. In other parts of Africa, salt and calico are the measures of value. In Ombrana and Loando small mats, artistically made from bamboo leaves, are worth twenty-five pounds of rice, each. In former years the Kaffir used his spear as a measure of value; the Kaffir of the day wears a belt composed of from 300 to 400 brass rings; two belts are the price of one cow, Salt is the money of Abysainia.

tribes living on the west coast of Africa have purse strings called the "wampum." It consists of pieces of shell, pierced and drawn on a string, the more valuable shells being either violet or purple colored. White shells strong in the same manner are worth one-half of those colored; a wampum of white shells has a value of 5 shillings. The Indians of British Columbia use strings of haipua shells, worn as ornamental borders to their dresses. These serve them as currency to trade with; a string of ordinary quality is worth a beaver's skin. A RARE AND COSTLY SHELL. In Farther India is found a shell, which not alone performs the functions of money, but is also high-priced and worn as an amulet. The king of Ceylon presented to King Asoka of Maghada in Hindoostan, a very costly shell, the spiral shaped "tur-binella," called "tojanko" by the natives. All turbinella shells, as a rule, have their spirals winding or running to the right, and only one out of a million is found showing a spiral running to the left; it is therefore called the "King of the Tsjanko Snails." The diver who is fortunate enough fish one from the bottom of the sea is hand-somely rewarded. In many of the Poly-nesian islands the cowrie is the only meas-west coast of Africa, along the Kuanza river, the shell known as "quiran-das de dongo" is used as money, and is therefore called "Monetaria" for the same reason the Venus snail of North America is called the "Mercenaria whale teeth form the money of the Fifis, Red feathers are used by the South Sea islanders; the North American Indian, the Kirgisi, the Hottentot and Zulus have always used and are still using skins and furs in payment for any purchase.

The various fines in Teutonic codes were estimated in cattle. In a well known passage of the Hiad the difference in the value of two sets of armor is estimated in terms of oxen.

From the prominence of slavery in early ocieties it is natural to suppose that slaves could be adopted as a medium of exchange, and one of the Irish law tracts, cumbal, is said to have originally meant a female slave.

As a medium of exchange the Laplanders have used cheese; the Kaffirs used spears; iron spikes were used in Central America; the Alaska Indians used leather. Adam Smith tells us that nails were used in Scot-land; tin was used as money in the early days of England; Burmah used lead; Norway to this day uses grain and other products. The most remarkable instance of an agricul-tural product being used as currency is to be found in the case of tobacco as legal tender by the English colonists of Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas. Klemm in his history of Mexico says: "The market place of the city of Platelolco in old Mexico was twice as large as the city of Salamanca; it had covered walks and streets for the benefit of the merchants and traders; the canals were lined with warehouses and the market was visited daily by about 50,000 people. There were five kinds of coln in use, the cocca bean, a token, 8,000 of which were worth one xiquipilli, the standard coin; the second kind of currency were pieces of cotton cloth (Parolquachly), goose quil's filled with gold dust, the quills varying in size and value, and copper and tin soins hammered to a disc, without stamp or symbol. The earliest trace we have that gold was used or formed a medium of exchange is by the ancient Egyptians. Gold and silver was made up in rings of a certain value and drawn on a string; in Semnaar they are in use to this day, and similar ring coins were used in Gaul.

Of the soft metals tin was used by the Mexicans, Malays and Chinese. Iron was used by the Senegambians and along the river Nile. Pintarch tells us that ton was the first metal used as money 'n tireces. Sparta retained the iron coin longer than any other country. The oldest piece of Italian money (crude copper misses) were found at the excavations on the site of the ancient city of Volnigh, destroyed by the Romans in the year 264, B. C.

The most ancient money of the Chinese is the cowrie shell. Later on were added pearls, precious stones, yellow metal and woven fabrics. About 1.100 years before Christ the Chinese coined the first metal money, in the shape of dice, but owing to the scarcity of gold the people had to resort to torioise shells, allks and pearls as a sub-stitute for metal money. In the year 900, A. D., the first paper money was issued; it Before the invention of the scales money made of the baser metals was simply weighed in the bands, and not until copper and other metal mon-y was regularly formed, out and pressed did counting take the place of weighing. But here ends the era of natural money and that of the attific at takes PHILIP ANDRES.
