ANNUAL MEETING OF THE AUXILIARY

Reports of the Secretary and Treasure Show a Prosperous Condition of the So. clety-Mrs. Worthington's Address-Annual Election of Officers.

The eighth annual meeting of the Nebraska branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal diocese was opened yesterday morning in Trinity cathedral with the holy communion administered by the bishop. After the service had been completed the delegates gathered in the crypt of the cathedral, where the business meeting was called to order. The branches answering to the roll call, together with the number of delegates representing each, were: Albion, St. John's church, 1; Ashland, St. Stephen's church, 2; Auburn, Ascension church, 1; Beatrice, Christ's church, 3; Central City, Christ's church, 1; Falls City, St. Thomas' church, 2; Lincoln, Holy Trinity, 1; Nebraska City, St. Mary's church, 2; Omaha, All Saint's, 2 Associate Missions, 3; Brownell Hall, 4; Good Shepherd, 2; St. Barnabas', 5; St. John's, 3; St. Mathias', 2; St. Philip's, 3; Trinity, 4; South Omaha, St. Martin's, 2; Wymore, St. Luke's, 1; Wyoming, Christ's church, 2; DeWitt, St. Augustine, 1; Wilber, St. Paul, 1. Six of the above were admitted to the auxiliary at this meeting, namely; Albion, Cedar Rapids, Wymore, Wyoming, Wilber and DeWitt. The report of the treasurer stated that a total of $1,235.60 had been raised for domestic and foreign missions.

The secretary reported that twenty-five branches were on the rolls, against twenty last year. It has been the policy to combine the Woman's guild and Woman's auxillary wherever possible for better work. The report recommended that wherever there are two or three smaller branches they unite

She recommended that the diocese be divided into three rural districts, with Lincoln, Beatrice and Central City as centers, and that three ad-ditional presidents be elected, one for each district. The announcement was made that the general missionary society would send Miss Kurma of this city as missionary to

The officers are as follows: Mrs Worthington, president; Mrs. Philip Potter first vice president, representing Omaha Miss Mathews, secretary, and Mrs. Ringwalt,

MRS. TWING'S ADDRESS. The afternoon session of the Woman's auxiliary was devoted to an address by Mrs. Twing, honorary secretary of the Woman's auxiliary of New York. Mrs Twing's talk was very interestingly inter-spersed with experiences that had come under her observation during her travels in foreign countries in connection with the work of the auxiliary. She was introduced

Omaha. Twenty-five years ago this summer she was on her return from a visit to California during the early days of the Union Pacific, and on arrival here she was delayed by a wash-The difference between the mean ap pearance of the city of those early days, with its shantles, little chapels and dirty nd with the acrainy weather, and the present magnificent city, together with the presperity of the church and its magnificent school, Brownell hall, was graphically described. This was a picture of the success the church had been striving for. The women were to be con-gratulated for their share in the work. But they must not think it is theirs. It is the work of the Great Master, who could do it himself, but offered it as a privilege to them to become co-workers. The success of the auxiliary has been called wonderful. It is wonderful, in the sense that it is no the result of a society planned on paper be fore its inception, but of a living growth. On its origin, twenty-two years ago, it was not even imagined that it would gather within itself all the women of the church It had been founded on two principles: First that every baptized woman of the church should be a member; and, second, that the field of operation should be as wide as the world. Parishes have established other conditions, but every baptized woman is con-sidered an active worker. Together with the board of missionaries, representing the body of men, and the junior auxiliaries, representing the children, it has made the church a vast missionary society.

It has four branches of work: Care of missions, prayer for missions, work for missions and to give to missions. It is desired that all members take part in every branch, but it is expected that each shall work in some branch. Some imagine missionary work is confined to the home, the diocese, or even the entire United States. Others think it consists only of foreign mission work. It is necessary to feel that it is everywhere. The answer to the quesof what missionary work consists in this: Work done, not for ourselves or for our church, but for others. The secret to the wealth of eastern churches is found in the fact that they were givers. The cause is hopeful and not failing. One ought not be depressed. The success of the church in Omaha is duplicated the world over. The objection to foreign missionary support is due to ignorance of this. In China, India or Japan one sees the same work as is being done here; one aces churches, parishes, Sun day schools, men, women and children or-ganized in guilds and societies. The diffi-culties are such as we do not think of— difference in language, new and strange peoples, discouragement and despair. But peoples, discouragement and despair. But it is an encouraging work. We think the success of our work, said Mrs. Twing, in our immediate neighborhood is poor, but we get encouragment from a meeting like this. So it is with foreign mission work. There are many duties connected with the auxiliary, but one ought especially to be considered. We ought to think of the future. ought to think of the future. When our work is done, who will continue it? The junior auxiliarles are the future workers and on this account are important. It is necessary for us to instruct and train children. Not one group in a parish, but every Sunday school should be an auxiliary. With an earnest plea for this work and a prophecy for the future, Mrs. Twing closed address. Last evening Bishop and Mrs. Worthington gave a reception to the auxiliary at Brownell hall.

The following are the delegates from out of town: Mrs. Davis, Miss Gregory and Mrs. Dix of Beatrice, Mrs. Musson and Mrs. Abbott of Ashland, Mrs. Teare of Auburn, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Jussen of Falis City. Mrs. Hewitt of Lincoln, Mrs. Zook and Mrs. Avan of Nobraska City, Mrs. Gates of Alexan of Nobraska City Mrs. Ryan of Nebraska City, Mrs. Gates of Al-bion, Mrs. West and Mrs. Barnum of Wyo-ming, Mrs. Beard of Wymore, Mrs. W. Bainby of DeWitt, and Mrs. John Barker of Wilber. This morning at 10:30 a. m. Bishop Worthington will give his annual address in the cathedral. Besides the delegates other churchmen of the city are invited, particularly the officers of parishes.

At the missionary meeting to be held this beening at 8 o'clock Rev. Mr. Mackay of Ali Eaints church and Rev. Mr. Sanford of Nebraska City will make addresses.

Getting After Hornberger. The sheriff of Sarpy county, who was in the city yesterday, said that a notice had been or would be served on Henry Hornberger to quit business in Bellevue. Hornberger is an ex Omaha saloon keeper and this spring he went down to Bellevue and opened up a drug store. It is now alleged that although there are no salcons in that village a good deal of red liquor has been disposed of complainants are inclined to think that Hornberger is selling more liquor than the health of the community requires. An ef-fort, it is alleged, will be made to get Hornberger out of his present location.

WHY LEWIS FRIEDMAN GOT A DIVORCE

His Wife Fired Household Bric-a-Brac at Him Without Discrimination-Result of a Squatter Eviction-Mrs. Hellman's Case-Little Litigations.

Lewis Friedman has been granted a divorce from his wife, Rosie, to whom he was united in marriage some years ago. Lewis has his decree tucked safely away in his pocket, glad that he has it, and what is more, he does not care who knows all of the facts connected with his domestic troubles. At the airing of the case in Judge Ferguson's court about the first thing that the plaintiff did after going upon the witness stand was to exhibit his head, which was covered with scars. These old-time contusions and abrahe averred, resulted from having allowed his head to come in contact with beer bottles, rolling pins, sad frons and other im-plements of warfare which had been in the hands of his wife. Judge Ferguson looked at the disfigured think box and heaved a sigh of regret to think that a man would be so meek and stand around and allow himself to be almost murdered without offering any re commenced Lewis succeeded in proving that once upon a time he asked his wife for a kiss, but instead of giving him the expression of love for which he asked she flew at him like a female tiger and nearly bit off his lip, at the same time gouging her fingers into his eyes, with the fixed determination of prying both of them out. At another time ewis alleged and swore that Rosie shied a brick and hit him squarely on the head, bringing a coplous flow of blood. Later on she picked his breakfast from the table and threw it into the swill barrel, that it might be food for the hogs. Following up this kind of treatment, the plaintiff testified that the defendant poured boiling hot coffee down his back, threw empty beer bottles at him causing them to carom on his head, poured imes she applied the pet name of "Jake Murderer" when they were at home and out in society.

In granting the decree Judge Ferguson said that as a usual thing he was opposed to granting divorces where the husband charged cruelty, but as this was a case where it was apparent that there was a horrible matrimonial misfit the rule would have to be stretched. Result of a Squatter Eviction. The case of Anna Christiansan against Edward Callahan, Constable Clark and a number of other defendants continues to drag its way along in Judge Hopewell's court before a jury. This suit is brought to recover damages in the sum of $25,000 and grows out of the eviction of the squatters who resided on the lands in the vicinity of Florence lake, where the property was claimed by Callahan by right of purchase and accretion, and by the squatters by reason of having settled thereon.

A couple of years ago the defendant, Callahan, got an order of court and evicted the plaintiff and her husband. The woman was put into a hack and brought to the ty, being placed in one of the hospitals. oon after this she became sick and eventually insane, after which the damage suit was commenced by her husband, who has been appointed guardian for the purpose. At the last term of court the case was tried, but the jury failed to reach an agreement and it was slated for this term. Last week the retrial was commenced and a vast amount of testimony introduced.

Yesterday Mrs. Christiansan was donducted into the court room and placed in the witness chair, but before any questions were asked she went into a dead faint and remained there in the presence of the jury until after restoratives were applied. When she re-covered she was removed from the court room and there was no further attempt made to introduce her testimony

In the suit brought by the creditors of the Meyer Hellman estate against the widow Maria Heliman, the defendant has filed he answer, in which she alleges that the allow ance of $750 per month, which has been the one of legal contention, is not excessive and that all of the money is required to sup-port herself and the members of the fam-ily. Regarding the $54,000 of life insur-ance which Meyer Hellman carried the widow avers that it has not been paid, nor proceeds of the same been received by her.

Charles Wise, who for a time acted as the administrator of the estate, files an affidavit in which he avers that so far as he has been concerned all of the proceedings connected with the estate have been regulaand in good faith. The transfer of the homestead, he alleges, was not made in conemplation of the death of Meyer Hellman but was made in the best of faith, Hellman at the time thinking that he might live

SCANNING DETECTIVES' BILLS. City Council Proposes to Let Officers Do

Some Whistling for Pay. The finance committee of the city council has gone on record to the effect that the bills of the city detectives for extra expenses are to be scrutinized more closely in the future than they have been in the past. This was indicated at the last meeting of the council, when Mr. Burkley reported adversely on the claim of H. P. Haze for $7.15 for detective services. The action of the committee was sustained by a unanimous vote, and the officer will have to whistle for the amount of his claim.

In explaining his action Mr. Burkley said that he could see no good reason why the city should pay bills incurred by detectives for whisky and lottery tickets. It had been done in the past, but he thought it was about time that the reins were drawn more tightly, and his report indicated what the committee proposed to do in the future with bills of that description. Among the items in the bill are two of $1 each, dated March 24 and 25. These are charged to the Wallenz case, but there is nothing to indicate how the money was ex-

$1 for two lottery tickets purchased March 18, but for what purpose the tickets were purchased does not appear. Most of the items in the bill are for fare to and from Council Bluffs. It is noticeable that in most cases the fare each way is charged up as 15 cents. This is presum-ably for fare on the Omaha motor to the Council Bluffs train and 10 cents additional for the ride across the river. As all of the detectives ride on passes on this side of the river the additional charge of 5 cents would e clearly just so much in the pocket of the

WISDOM OF IRRIGATION.

SILVER CREEK, Neb., May 21 .- To the Editor of The Bee: The subject of irrigation is beginning to attract the attention of farmers in this part of the state. Last Friday I. A. Fort of North Platte, president of the Nebraska State Irrigation association, spoke on that question at this place to a very appreciative audience of farmers and others, and on the day following, in the afternoon and evening, at Central City. Much interest was manifested and local as sociations were organized at both places. It is true we are neither in the arid or semi-arid region, the mean annual rainfall in this locality being about twenty-seven inches, and yet it is true we often have a partial failure of crops from long con-tinued dry weather. This was true of last year and the year before, and it is already certain that it will be true of this year, also, as to small grain, and of corn, too, if we do not get rain soon. These things are impressing on the minds of the farmers the very great advantage, even if not the necessity, of supplementing the rainfall with an artificial supply of water, providing it can be cheaply and economically done. Mr. Fort tells us that canals can be constructed along this valley, the Platte, by the farmers themselves at a cost, exclusive of the right of way, not exceeding, in his opinion, $1.25 per acre, and that an annual outlay of about 25 cents per acre serve to keep these canals in repair. he tells us that in connection with such system of irrigating ditches, we should also have a system of ditches for draininge to carry off the surplus water in unusually we seasons. It might seem that all this would involve too great an expense in money and labor, and yet it is probable that our losses on crops for the past two years would be sufficient to accomplish it all. It should be taken into account also that with such of control, we should not only reasonably sure of a crop every year, but that the product per acre, as shown by the experience of those in sections depending wholly on irrigation, might easily be doubled and even trebled.

There is this further consideration that even in the most favorable seasons there is perhaps not a state in the union when there are not times during the growing season when water could be most advantageously applied if it could be had. But we have the water now flowing by our doors in a volume sufficient, as Mr. Fort estimates, to cover 30,000,000 of acres six inches deep Is it not then the part of wisdom for the people of this valley and of those living near any of our more important rivers and creeks to give this matter their most serious and careful consideration?
