Several Thousand Dollars Added to the Amount Previously Awarded by the Arbitrator.

Judge Smith handed down a decision yesterday in the case of McWald & Martin against D. W. Archer, which has been pending in the district court for a number of years past. The plaintiffs sued for about $30,000 originally, on account of the depreviation of stock in a canning company In which all three were interested, and of which Archer was manager. The matter was turned over to Smith McPherson as referee, for the purpose of finding what amount was, due from Archer to his copartners. His report awarded McWaid & Martin something less than $3,000, but when Judge Smith took hold of the referee's report he changed the findings in a good many particulars, finally running the amount up from $3,000 to $11,462, for which judgment was rendered yesterday in the plaintiff's favor. He found that the factory at Davenport was operated at a profit in 1887 and 1888 and at a loss during the two years following. The plaint if are to pay one-half the costs of the suit, and $300 is to be added to the costs for referee's fees. BENNISON BROS' BIG SALE. If it would be any more convincing, we could easily fill the columns of this paper with letters testifying to the cure of the severest diseases of the threat, bronchis and lungs, by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." To build up solid flesh and strength after the grip, pneumonia, ("lung fever"), exhausing fevers, and other prostrating diseases, it has no equal. It does not make fat like cod liver oil and its nasty compounds, but solid, whole-some first some flesh.

between realism and romanticism is after all a huge mountain of contention over a liems will hone There a really no clean cut lines to separate th two schools and each partakes more or less of the other. The best realism of one ag bound ultimately to become a stilted picc of romanticism. Whether the purpose of the and exalt the spirit, or to impart instruc tion and shed a keener light upon the world's mechanism, it cannot matter so muc what implements are used-whether an arti ficial storm is raised and then dissipated or whether the story is made to end with If the ultimate triumph of good wreck. reflects the tendency in the age in which the writer lives the artificial storm serves its purpose to excite imagination and its dissipation closes the tale with a correct reflection of the times and the story is so far realistic. A story may be a literal copy of life and yet say practically nothing for to speak to the reader it must tell him something new in contrast with the monotony (to him) of what he already knows. The real test of a story is in the impression it makes and the degree in which it imparts new life to the reader, and th distinction of realism is practically of sub ordinate consideration, in fact it rathe antagonizes the most desirable element that gives value to a novel-originality. The man who would walk a tight rope canno be searching the heavens for new stars There is no question but realism is desirab; and romanticism is pardonable, but both a subordinate tests of merit in literature Cloth, 12 mo., 413 pages, $2.00. Omaha.

Culinary literature has never before madso valuable an acquisition as in Charles Ran-hofer's publication, "The Epicurean, a Franco-American Culinary Cyclopedia." This teeming, massive volume, contains a com-plete and exhaustive treatise of analytical and practical studies on the culinary art, and is beyond doubt the hest as well as the latest work of the kind extant. The house of Delmonico, whose fame is world-wide, oredits its success to a practical use of the knowledge contained in this volume, which is the outcome of thirty years of the author's life and experience as Delmonico's chef. The best manner of preparing and supplying en joyable, healthy and nutritious food economi-c lly ard with ut waste is the lend ng f at re of the volume. It is therefore suitable for use for those of limited means as well as for those of ample resources. There are nearly 4,000 recipes, in all, in the book, giv-ing a large variety, from the most simple to the most elaborate and with menus for all possible occasions. Thimbers, times and sea-sons. Its eighty illustrations will be found excellent aids for those who consuit its pages The thoroughness of the work may be Judged from the fact that it gives recipe for 218 different ways of cooking fish; 200 fo soup; 165 for beef; 244 for poultry; 163 for game; 101 for eggs; 279 for pastry; 172 for vegetables; 189 for less and lee creams, and so on for sauces. Marnishings, cold dishes, hot side dishes, phollusks and crustaceans, veal, mutton, lamb., farniaceous food, con-fectionery, etc.—and these recipes have been fully and satisfactorily tested, and are in dai y use. Their merits are established facts. I also supplies ten pertinent, illustrated an ticles on wines. It illustrates table services of this and of countries-in fact between its covers it other cludes about all the most responsible host on land or water can need to know. Chefs, cooks, stewards, caterers, private families, confectioners, ice cream makers, restaurant keepers, hotel proprietors, managers of sani-tariums and hygienic institutions and hospi-tals, all are interested and can be benefited by possession and use of this voluminous and exhaustive work. A feature of specia interest to some will be the great variety bills of fare given for each month of t year, for all occasions, for invalids included

It also gives menus of dinners given to Presidents Grant and Johnson, to Bartholdi, Charles Dickens, De Lesseps, the comte de Paris and other distinguished guests. A practical index of great value, occupying sixty-four pages, is given at the close of the book, and applies to the whole of its contents. Large ovtavo, over 1,200 pages, with 800 il-lustrations. Half morocco, $15; full morocco, $17. Charles Ranhofer, 682 West End avenue, New York.

Foreign Fings on Public Buildings.

ALBANY, May 25 .- Governor Flower has vetoed the bill prohibiting the display of foreign flags on public buildings,

'A broker, dealer or any person who pur chases for another party who may or may not be present at the sale, shall be considered as the agent of such party, and all purchases made by such broker, agent other person, as heretofore mentioned, shall be binding upon the party he represents Buyers out of town, who have an estat Buyers out of town, who have an estab-lished credit with this company, when pur-chasing through an agent, will have their goods billed to them at sale prices. Agents will charge brokerage to parties for whom they purchase.

buyer failing to comply with these 'Any rules will not be recognized in the future. The peddlers then started an advance move ment from the rear and soon every window opening into the salesroom was darkene with their faces. The auctioneer started out as if fruit sales had been his specialty all his life, but the buyers were not quite so well up in the business and seemed to be afraid to let their voices be heard. It was hard work for the auctioneer to hear the whispered bids of some, while others trusted to nods of the head, and still others simply raised their hands, which was interpreted t mean: "I will take that lot, or make that bid." The bashful feeling gradually wore off. bid. and buyers commenced to bid above a whisper and the sale took on a more active appearance.

One after another the different lots were knocked down to the buyers and at the clo everything had been sold. The prices ranged from S5 cents to $1.35 per box.

While there are only cherries to be had it will be impossible to hold an auction every day, but as soon as peaches and other summer fruits commence to arrive they will be of daily occurrence.

Crop Pro pects.

Reports received by the Omaha Elevator company indicate that there has been very little change in the crop situation during the present week. While the ground in most sections is very dry and rain is badly needed, the weather during the week has been so cloudy that grain has not suffered from the drouth as it would had the weather been clear and warm. Corn, it is claimed, has thus far escaped any permanent injury. The frost cut it down in some sections, but without doing any harm aside from putting it back somewhat.

During the past day or two rains have been reported from Silver Creek, Fremont Rogers, Duncan and from some points in the southern portion of the state.

A Novel Labor Dispute.

There is war in Hungary between the government and the skilled laborers who provide the reports of its parliamentary discussions. On the reassembling of the Hungarian Parliament the gallery reporters, including the correspondents of the provincial, Vienna and foreign papers, intend to go out on strike. The government has some grievance against one or two of the reporters and to punish the whole body it has decided to block up the corriders, which have been open for the last twenty-eight years, leading from the two reporters' galleries to the lobby and the rest of the house. In order therefore, to reach their galleries, the re porters will have to pass through subter ranean corridors and to climb dark and ranean corritors and to chine dark and deep staircases. This they will be compelled to do in the discharge of their duty, but they have adopted a resolution that they will confine themselves to recording the bare decisions of the House, mentioning no names and leaving out debates of any sort. This would naturally place the governmen in a very unpleasant dilemma. A simila strike, arranged years ago by the reporters gallery in Vienna, resulted in complete su cess within twenty-four hours, and it thought that the same issue is practically assured in Buda-Pesh.

Hypnotism.

A Philadelphia physician thinks that a great deal of nonsense has been written about hypnotism. "Any one," he says, "may hypnotize himself in a few minutes by closing his eyes, directing them inward and downward, and then, imagining his breath to be vapor, watching its inhalation and expulsion from the nostrils. Bables in-variably look cross-eyed before going to variably loss usy producing what hynotists call 'transfixion.' Fishermen often hypno-tize themselves watching a cork on a sur-face of shining water. An hour passes by as if it were a few minutes.''
