United States Court to Decide Whether the Trial Shall Continue. ST PAUL, May 25 .- The statement that the federal court intended to grant the application of Counsel Blair on behalf of Lieutenant Maney for a writ of prohibition and stopping the progress of the military trial at Fort Snelling is premature. Today Judge Nelson denied that he had taken any steps in the matter and peremptorily refused to discuss any phase of the case. It is thought however, that either today or tomorrow such an issue will be made and the preliminary inquiry fixed for Monday. The courtmartial was called to order at Fort Snelling today as usual, and the trial Sec.

The denial of Judge Nelson that a writ of prohibition against the courtmartial had been issued seems to have been trchnical rather than actual. A paper was served on the members of the courtmartial when they met today to appear in court Monday to argue the question whether the applica tion for a writ of prohibition against the courtmartial should be heard by the United States district court. In the mean-time the trial will proceed as usual, no restraining order accompanying the writ that was servel.

Yesterday company I (Indian), Twenty first United States infantry, arrived from Fort Sidney by train and marched from the depot up Farnam street to Seven-teenth and thence to Fort Omaha, where it took the quarters formerly occupied by the Indian company of the Second infantry. L<sup>1</sup>-utenant Samuel Seay was in command of the rodskins and will probably remain in command as long as the company is in existence. This company of the Twenty first infantry is generally conceded to be one of the best Indian companies ever raised. Lieutenant Seay enlisted the Indians himself and has taught them all they know about the white man's ways. The other officers of the company are: W. F. Spurgin, captain, now on detatched duty at West Point Military academy Lawrence J. First Presbyterian Church Tenders a Re. ception to Rev. and Mrs. Patterson. The officers of the First Presbyterian church last night gave a reception to Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Patterson, who soon leave for Detroit. The cozy church parlors were filled with members of the congregation, and while all wore smiles there was an undercurrent of sadness which could not be suppressed. Although Mr. Patterson has with his congregation only a year, he has endeared himself to all.

The parlors were very attractively ar-ranged, festoons of smilax, greens and a whom were present on invitation from the plumbing inspector. After Mr. Rosewater had concluded his remarks Mr. Duncan replied by asking his assistant about the sanitary condition of the places mentioned by the engineer, and the replies were to the effect that the places had been inspected according to the city ordinances and in some instances changes had been ordered by the inspector. Mr. Rosewater said that the city had ing he will give a short address, which will large number of manholes and these had been found to be very satisfactory. A general discussion followed, which was participated in by the members of the board and the master plumbers, and finally an adjournment was taken without any dis position of the matter.

the floor and granting the plumbing inspector permission to reply to Mr. Rose-water's remarks. Mr. Rosewater raised another storm cloud over in Duncan's vicinity by reading the following:

ity by reading the following: OHAHA, May 16, 1894.—Hon. George P. Bemis, Mayor and Chairman of the Board of Health: Dear Sir-I respectfully ask of you that you call a meeting of the Board of Health at as early a date as possib s, and by publication request master plumo-ers, the city attorney and the city engineer to be present.

ers, the city attorney and the city eng neer to be present. At this meeting of the Board of Health I want to call the board's attention to the u-sonitary and dangerous results which would follow if the alleged diagram—published in the annual reports of the city of Omaha— of our plumbing practice was a correct one. Also the unsanitary and dangerous practice of leaving an opening in the continuation of leaving an opening in the continuation of the house dram not properly scaled. It is absolutely necessary that steps be taken at once to properly construe our plumbing rules and regulations. Very re-spectfully, ROBERT D. DUNCAN, Plumbing Inspector,

Duncan sprang to his feet and denied that Mr. Ronewater had a right to bring this matter up. The city engineer said that ne would not be murried, and if he could up get a hearing bofore the board he would take the matter before the city council Mr. Duncan made a heated reply. The city The city engineer then proceeded with his remarks, He said that he had examined every building of any size which had been erected in Omaha in the last two years, and he found that the plumbing conformed exactly with his diagram which was printed in his report. In one place which he examined yes-terday he found that sewer gas was escaping in large quantities. The city engineer said that in most instances the ventilation pipes had been run through the walls of the ildings below the bottom of the basins, and if connections were direct with sewers there would be nothing to stop the poisonous gas from escaping and breeding disease. He found some of the sanitary arrange-ments in an imperfect condition, and ad-vocated the building of manholes where a This did not suit the plumbars several of

Mr. Davis is a member of the club, but instead of attending the meeting he sent in a letter recommending that no action be taken by the club on the Bryan matter for a while. He said if the resolution passed it would cause discord and split up the solid vote of the organization. After the letter was read Mr. Caldwell took occasion to an nounce that the members of the club did not care to be dictated to by a government employe on this particular proposition; that the poor fellows who worked in the packing houses held the rights of suffrage as dear as the fellows who were more comfortably situated, and that the members should act according to their own convictions and not be dictated to by parties who might have personal desire to down Hon, W. Mr. Funcan made a motion that each speaker confine himself to the question under discussion and wanted no explanations. Mr. Rosewater said that if the motion prevailed he might as well with-draw as he was there backed by force to draw as he was there backed by facts to show that the position he took was correct and he wanted full latitude to speak on the subject. Duncan arose to a point of order and insisted that the motion he put to a vote. The mayor sat on Duncan and said that he wanted no personalities expressed during the meeting. Chief Seavey thought that the board should proceed to business and Bruner called a point of order on the chief. Judge Duffie's New Property. Rudd Dent, a popular traveling man from Marion, Ia., was in the city yesterday. Mr. Dent is a brother of Senator Dent of Lemars, Ia., and among his western friends he numbers Judge Duffie of this city. Mr. Dent came to this country from England, where he had studied inw and been admitted to the bar as queen's counsel. He concluded to locate in Iows, and he came prepared with an elaborate outfit, consisting of a wig, gown and a counsellor's bag, with which to practice law on this side of the big pond. On his arrival here he found legal practice rather slow and determined to become a farmer. His father, who is a wealthy man, contracted with a farmer to teach Rudd the intricacies of farm life and how to plant corn and pota-toes, for which the rural educator received the sum of f100 or $500 per year, with the young man's services thrown in. Dent stowed away his legal bags and books and after a year or two forecok the farm for commercial life, and now he is making a success out of his occupation. After meeting with Judge Duffle yesterday, it occurred to him that it would be a nice compliment to pay his legal friend to present him with his English legal paraphernalia, which he ac-cordingly did. Judge Duffle is very proud of his present and says that he will don the legal robes on state occasions when the bar association meets.

Where Summer Breezes Blow Would you fly if you could To a glen in the wood, To a spot in the shade That nature hath made Rich with ferns and wild flowers One of nature's fair bowers? What is life to the soul If to labor is all? What a joy to the heart When for rest we depart To the woods and the dells. Does your heart cry for rest In a place that is blest, With no shadow or sorrow Nor care for the morrow?
