

ROBBED BY THEIR LANDLORD

Monopoly that Pays One Hundred Per Cent Yearly on Investment.

MARTIN'S ROLE IN THE BURNT DISTRICT

Monstrous Imposition Upon Helpless Victims of Avarice in Connivance with Law Police Officials—The Fardone System in the Burnt District.

It requires but little investigation to establish the fact that the unfortunate women who inhabit the territory known as the "burnt district" are victims of systematic extortion at the hands of their landlords. It appears that nine-tenths of the rentable property in this district is either owned or controlled by a single man. Consequently he has an iron clad monopoly and is able to dictate exorbitant rentals without opposition. According to municipal regulations his tenants are not allowed to go outside of this territory and they must pay whatever he may demand or leave the city altogether. The greater part of the property in the burnt district is controlled by Mr. M. F. Martin. The tenants of nearly, if not quite, nine-tenths of the buildings in this territory that are occupied as houses of prostitution pay their rent either directly to him or to his agents. In a number of cases the lot on which his buildings are located is owned by other persons, but is leased by Mr. Martin for a term of years. The buildings have been erected by him on the leased premises and are under his personal management. The rents paid by the women who have been unfortunate enough to become a part of this life beyond the pale of society are enormous. There are several cases in which the rental of the buildings amount to more than the original cost. The terms have been invariably cash in advance and the tenants are required to pay their own bills for gas, water and insurance, and keep the property in repair. The landlords of the more pretentious resorts usually deal with Mr. Martin in person, but he has several agents who collect the rents from the more degraded inmates of the district. The nucleus of the colony of vice, as well as the resorts most patronized by fashionable rounders, is found on Ninth street between Douglas street and Capitol avenue. The first forty feet on the west side of Ninth street north of Douglas is occupied by a saloon. From the north to Dodge street stretches a row of bawdy houses of various degrees of pretention, all of which are directly or indirectly under the control of Martin. The next forty feet north of the saloon is owned by Mattie Martin, M. F. Martin's wife. The property is assessed at $1,540. On this lot is located a two-story and a half building which is considered a piece of excellence as to beauty, but which preserves the features of the many old preparations that are going the rounds just now, and are so injurious to the shoe leather. This is all done free of charge by Messrs. Cartwright & Co., who will be pleased to have any lady or gentleman call and see the goods they are looking over the new leather. To rest in the shining chair. The fact that you may have bought your shoes elsewhere should not prevent you from enjoying the pleasure of one of these shining chairs. They will not "run down" your shoes, nor will they bore you with impertinences to buy.

DESTROYED THE PLANT. Manger's Printing House Consumed by Fire—Columbia Clothing Stock Damaged. At 2:45 yesterday morning fire broke out in the office of the Manger Printing company, 319 South Thirteenth street, and for a time it appeared as though the entire block occupied by the company and the Columbia Clothing company must go. The flames shot heavenward from windows in the second, third, and even fourth stories. The interior appeared to be gutted before the department arrived, and the flames had even reached the telegraph poles, and scorched them badly. The loss to the printing company on stock will be total, probably involving $5,000. Insurance on the building which is owned by the Northwestern Insurance company, will reach $2,000. The fire was confined to the part occupied by the printing company, but smoke and water reached the apartment occupied by the Columbia Clothing company, and their loss by smoke and water will be quite heavy. To cover this loss the Columbia Clothing company had $22,000 insurance. The cause of this fire is not exactly known, but that it was set there can be not the slightest doubt. Chief Gallagher and Fire Reporter Beard said the moment they reached the block the smell of coal oil was detected and when they got to the building itself it was very strong. Chief Gallagher said, "I was asked as to what he thought of the origin of the fire, 'That fire was set and I am as sure of it as I am that I am alive.'"

Good music, fine boating, Courtland beach.

BRETT ACQUITTED.

Error in a Mortgage Quickly Ends the Suit Against Him.

The case of the state against John M. Brett has been stricken from the docket of the criminal court, the jury returning a verdict of not guilty. Some months ago Brett was arrested on a warrant issued upon an information sworn out by Berry Bros. & Co. of South Omaha, charging that he had obtained property of the value of $7,800, by reason of false representations. In fact the South Omaha people charged that Brett visited their place, telling them that he had a lot of cattle in Cherry county, on which he wanted an advance until the animals were fit for the market. The loan was made, but the drawing up the mortgage failed or neglected to insert that the cattle were on a ranch in Cherry county. Some time later a representative of the South Omaha stock firm went up to Cherry county and there learned that Brett was not the owner of any cattle in that county. Upon his return Brett was arrested and bound over to appear at this term of the district court. A couple of days ago the case was started, the state putting in its evidence at 10 o'clock, at which time a brother of Brett went upon the stand and testified that the cattle described in the mortgage were upon a ranch in Hall county, instead of in Cherry county. By the terms of the will answered, denying the widow a just and valid claim. In the answer the defendant alleges that in securing the risk the deceased represented that he was more than 49, an age that would have barred him from participating in the benefits of the company had he made statements which were true.

Life Insurance Suit. In the case of Maria Weiss, widow of Jacob Weiss, against the Independent Order of Treubund, wherein suit was brought for the recovery of $1,000, the amount of a life policy carried by the deceased, the defendant answered, denying the widow a just and valid claim. In the answer the defendant alleges that in securing the risk the deceased represented that he was more than 49, an age that would have barred him from participating in the benefits of the company had he made statements which were true.

Contestants Appeal. In the case of the contest of the will of the late Mary C. Ramacciotti the contestants have appealed from the decision of the probate court, and have taken the case to the district court. By the terms of the will, the estate, amounting to some $30,000, was bequeathed to an adopted child. Relations of the dead woman contested, alleging that at the time of execution of the will, Ramacciotti was not of sound mind.

Yager Gets No License. The legal end of the protest against the issuance of a saloon license to George Yager of Valley was argued in the criminal section of the district court yesterday afternoon. The court held with the parties who protested, and the license was made. In evidence it developed that during the past year Yager violated the state law by keeping his saloon open on Sunday.

Got a Jail Sentence. Fred Baker was before the criminal section of the district court yesterday and was sentenced to 200 days in the county jail. Baker was originally charged with burglary and was tried upon that charge, but about the time of the completion of the trial, the county attorney concluded that he could not make his case after the jury had agreed to accept a plea of plea larceny.

Was a Special Policeman. A motion for a new trial has been argued in the case of the state against James Janeschek. The defendant is the man who was convicted of having assaulted Charles Warner, at the corner of the 12th and W streets, some months ago. In making a defense he claimed that he made the assault while serving in the capacity of a special policeman.
