The matter was re-ferred to the council, to be considered at a meeting this evening. A protest was read from twenty property owners on South Sixth street against allowing the Council Bluffs & Lake Manawa Electric Motor company the right to lay its tracks on that street. It stated that the line would not be used more than four months in the year, and would therefore months in the year, and would therefore destroy Sixth street as a driveway without furnishing better transportation for the peo-ple living there. On motion of Alderman Brewick the protest was placed on file. E. H. Of the thirty present only two were republicans; less than half a dozen were populists of any length of standing. All the rest were democrats who were disgrantled over the effects of the present administration, and were willing to go in and help make a change.

Goodell, Buffato. The election of officers proved a picasant diversion to the tired delegates. The cames of Frank M. Collins of Lincoln and B. H. Robinson of Omaha were placed in com-petition for president, and the roll call com-menced. When Stanton county was reached Collins had 1,317 votes, while his competitor had 583. At this juncture Mr. Robinson withdrew, and Collins was cleated by accla-mation. He responded to calls in a five-minute speech, which was cheered to the echo. The convention then magnimously offerred to make Robinson secretary, but he offered to make Robinson secretary, but he offered to make Robinson secretary, but he declined, and nominated Major Wheeler of Omaha. The major was not ambitious, and in turn nominated H. M. Warring, who was elected by acclamation. C. C. McNish of Wisner and R. G. Chairman Thurston of the committee on resolutions then presented the following plat-form, which was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted:
