MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

among the Losses Are One Thousand Sheep and Lambs.

JERSEY CITY, June 16 .- The old but exensive abbatoir of the Central Stock and Fransit company in Harsimus cove, just south of Pavonia avenue, was totally destroyed by fire this evening, the total loss reaching almost $1,000,000. Built on piles, the structure of two stories was entirely of wood, but the machinery was costly, while the amount of stock, including dressed best, mutton and upwards of 1,000 live sheep and lambs went to swell the loss. No one appears to know the cause of the cost. lambs went to swell the loss. No one appears to know the cause of the fire, but Saturday is a half holiday, and one of the few men at work may have possibly broken the rigid rules of the company and smoked, the match or the light of his cigar causing the conflagration. The fire, which broke out in the alley adjoining the fat room, and about 100 feet from the outer end of the building, was first seen by Watchman James McCarthy. He did not make an instant turn to Carthy. He did not make an instant turn in of the alarm, and he had to run to make his escape, leaving his clothing, which he had hung up in the office when he went off duty. He believes that of the twelve or fouriern men at work in the building all escaped. But when the Associated press reporter left the ground William Martin, the cook in the estaurant, was missing.

The building was erected in 1874, over the water of old Harsimus cove, with a frontage of 300 feet on the river, and extending back for about 600 feet. The spread of the flames was so rapid that in fifteen minutes the whole space was a mass of flames, which caught the cattle boat Burlington and the barge refrigerator before they could be loos-ened from the dock; also the coal barge Hoffman, belonging to Brand, White & Co. The fire tugs of the Erie railroad and ten belonging to the Pennsylvania road, together with the private tug R. C. Raymond and the New York police boat, responded quickly to the calls and did their best, but the coal trestle of the Pennsylvania road on the piers to the south was damaged to the extent of $5,000, and a number of cars loaded with coal were in the siding. The craft on fire were towed into the river and cut loose. The Burlington was the only one destroyed, the barges being only damaged to the extent of a few hundred dollars each.

Fears were en-tertained for the safety of the great Erie grain elevator, but, fortunately, the wind blew in the other direction. SHRINERS' TRIP TO GRAND ISLAND

Masonie Grand Lodge Meets in Omaha Wednesday Next-Preparations for Annual Pientes of Modern Woodmen and United Workmen.

The Masons have been the most active of the secret societies during the past week, the Scottish Rite banquet, shrine pilgrimage to Grand Island and the work of preparation for the coming session of the grand lodge serving to occupy the time pretty thoroughly. The Scottish Rite banquet was held at Masonic hall Tuesday evening, and was but the first of a series of similar social entertainments that are to be given for the members of the order and their wives, sons and daughters. It was a thoroughly enjoyable occasion and highly pleasing to all who were there. The early part of the evening was devoted to a stereopticon entertainment, with views of statuary and scenes of the war. They were put on by Perry Lyons, captain general of Mount Calvary commandery, and the explanatory feature was in the able hands of Rev. T. J. Mackay. Entertaining addresses were made by Rev. T. J. Mackay, L. M. Rheem and Judge W. W. Keysor. At 10 o'clock the company pro-ceeded downstairs to the dining hall, where

The pilgrimage of the shriners to Grand Island Wednesday morning was one that will not soon be forgotten by the nobles of Tangler temple. The start from Omaha was made by about fifty nobles of Tangier, and constant accessions were received along the road, there being over seventy-five in the party when it reached Grand Island. Sesostris temple sent forty nobles from the South Platte country, the greater number of them being from Hastings. The total number present exceeded 200. They were met at the train by a band and marched through the city to a hall that had been especially se-cured for the occasion, as the Masonic hall was not large enough to accommodate them. Twenty-two candidates were initiated, the ceremonies of the evening being eminently satisfactory to all, as they were of the most pleasant character. At 11 o'clock the tra-ditional banquet was served by the ladies of the Episcopal guild. The visiting nobles de-clare that they never sat down to a prettier banquet table, and are enthusiastic in their praise of the entertainment. The tables were arranged in the form of an X, and were elaborately decorated with flowers flags and the emblems of the order. The ladies had taken extraordinary pains, and the general appearance was decidedly metropolitan. The local nobles had likewise done all in their power, and to their efforts was due the greatest success that the nobles of Tangler have achieved outside of Omaha. This was the second time that they had temporarily moved their temple out into the state, a special dispensation having been granted by the imperial potentate. Tangier and Sesostris temples are the only ones in the state, covering respectively the North and South Platte sections, and each has a large membership from the central and western portions of the state. members are necessarily unable to derive much benefit from the temple, owing to the great distance at which they reside and the cost of coming. It was to give them the pleasure and benefit of a local temple that the change was temporarily made.

The all-important topic in shrine circles at the present time is the coming meeting of the imperial council at Denver, July 24. Great preparations are being made by that city for the entertainment of the 5,000 nobles who will make the pilgrimage thither. New York will send a delegation of 500, Cincinnati 200, and Bangler temple will also turn out 200 nobles for the trip. A special train will be at their disposal, and an appropria-The prize in the primary department went to Arthur Budlong, while Henry Wyatt retertainment and headquarters. Tickets for transportation can be had of the committee or any brother of the Plenty of music is provided, together with a lot of sports of all kinds, for which prizes have kindly been donated. The committee has left nothing undone to give those who attend a real holiday, a good time and a nice place to enjoy an outing. Plenty of good "drinkwater" and ice cream are pro-vided, and for the amusement of the children there will be three big swings and numerous games, plenty of boating, fishing, bowling and dancing. The following is the program of sports, the committee to add a few more, which will be announced on the grounds: Potato gathering race, boys 17 and under; fifty-yard dash; running, bop, step and jump; 100-yard dash for ladies; standing long jump; 100-yard dash for men; ladies' base ball throwing contest; running high jump; 100-yard race, girls 17 and under; P. A very attractive program has been prepared, and as the Woodmen have formed themselves into a picnic as-sociation there is no doubt that every one who attends will pass a thoroughly enjoyable day. There is good boating, bathing and sailing at Burlington beach. Just across the lake from the big dancing pavilion is a shady grove, with seats and tables for the free use of picnickers.

With keen discernment the faithful critic carefully scans the solid work of the author, recognizing the elevated range of thought, the rare diction the directness of purpose, its promise and mission, and with almost prophetic vision, the result.

The superficial reader, dwelling at length upon exterior marks alone, with slight exercise of thought, turns quickly to the gilded surface of the binding, expresses a brief opinion and dismisses the case from sight and mind.

How like to these the judgments of man upon man passing each day in review before the world.

With what profuse liberality do we heap on the favorite of the hour praises suited to the doer of worthy deeds, rather than on the true victor in the hard won fight, who often is accorded little more than a final wave of the hand. This hard and cold as it is, serves as a lesson in teaching of the instability of human things.

As particles of dust carried by a whirl-wind fall back to the earth from which they came, men sweep onward and disappear, to be forgotten by their fellow men.

As a ladder builded of precious stones, lives of just men shine in the sight of God. As a far-reaching carpet of spring's fairest flowers are their works, and the fragrance of blossom and bloom is borne beyond our ken to eternal shores, whose beauty passeth understanding.

Snatched away by that mysterious power which we term death, a young priest, but slightly known to the busy, bustling world, leaves vacant a visible place in halls of learning and divinity.

As student and teacher, reaching upward for a crown, he has stepped higher, nearer to the Master of all Science, whose light is the Holy Ghost. He was an Irishmani one of whom Ireland map well be proud. One of whom Ireland might some day have written and sung. One for whom Ireland may weep her purest tears. He was a noble representative of the priesthood, brave, refined, witty, of fine address, talented and cultured by study and travel. He was fitted to adorn lofty places on the pilgrim road of life.

Leaving a cadetship in her majesty's service for that of the mightlest of all powers, he made his morning's offering of the first fruits and flowers of the day to the Lord of Hosts.

That model of valiant soldier-kind, Sebastian, was to him an instructor in endurance, even unto death, if needs be. Agnes, the child-martyr of early Christian Rome, was to him the ideal of the beautiful in saintly annals.

The catacombs through which he had wandered whilst in foreign lands furnished to his rich poetic imagination endless topics for reflection and conversation.

Peace be to his soul, who, in going forth, seems, to have left open a portal past which the light is shining, so that we may almost think we hear these words:

Once more to thee, oh, King of Kings!

Once more to thee, oh. King of Kings! I raise my voice in praise sublime, Where all the choir of heaven sings Thy work of immemorial time. Few years I lingered on the earth, Led by the Guardian thou didst give, Now, Spirit of Eternal Birth, Forevermore I live, I live,

I strove to dwell near to Thy feet,
And Thou didst set my spirit free.
Oh, Sacred Heart, so strong and sweet!
Oh, Crown of Thorns that bloomed for me

M. L. Andrews. A week ago, in company with Mr. Herbert Howell and Mr. William Ruff, Mr. M. L. Andrews took a run to Plattsmouth on his wheel. As they returned they stopped at the Platte river and went in bathing. They all started out, but Mr. Andrews turned for another plunge. His companions expected him to come out at once and began dressing. They heard no outcry, and only realized that he had not come out when they ran along the bank unable to see him anywhere. They then raised the alarm and did everything in their power to find him, but were

His brother-in-law, C. G. Scott, went down on the next train, and the search was con-tinued late into the night and all the next day, but the water was so high and the curswift that it was almost impossible to do anything. Another party continued the search the next day, but could only report the encouraging fact that the was ging down. The following day Mr. William Bushman and Mr. F. L. Gregory returned with Mr. Scott from Omaha and Mr. Frank Miller from La Platte, and the search again began in a most thorough man-ner. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon the body was found by Messrs. Bushman and Miller and taken to Plattsmouth to be prepared for burial. Thursday morning it rought home and interred at Forest Lawn. The deceased was 31 years of age and tad been for a number of years the support and mainstay of the family. He was a young man of unusual ability, having occupied po-sitions of responsibility for more than ten years. At the time of his death he was auditor for the Cudahy Packing company, where he was very popular. For a number of years he had been in poor health, suffering constantly, and sometimes intensely, ye was never heard to complain, and alm never spoke of his suffering, even to his nother. His was one of the lives ever lived, always delighting in doing something that would benefit some of his less fortunate fellows. His untimely death has cut off the promise of a brilliant future

The family have the deepest sympathy of their many friends in their great loss. From Cradle to Grave. Mr. and Mrs. John M. Thurston of this city have just been bereaved of their infant son, John Poland Thurston, aged 14 months who succumbed to the shock to his system resulting from an operation performed a St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, on Thursday afternoon last, for the purpose of removing congenital tumor from the back and lower part of his head. The body was brought to Omaha for burial reaching here about 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon. The funeral services, which were held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thurston at 5 o'clock the same evening, were impressively conducted by Rev. T. J. Mackay, pastor of All Saints Episcopal church, aided by a quartet from the same church.

The interment took place at Prospect Hill cemetery, in the family lot, beside two other children of Mr. and Mrs. Thurston. The grave was lined with a profusion of flowers, the tiny casket itself being covered with floral offerings.

John Poland Thurston was an unusually bright and healthy child, and his death come as a crushing blow to the entire family, who have the heartfelt sympathy of a hest of friends in this hour of their affliction. Balloon aft. and eve. Courtland today.

District Court Doings. The judges of the law and equity divisions of the district court spent the day in hearing motions and disposing of default cases, while the judge of the criminal section allowed the trial of the state against Charles Bachman to proceed. In this case, the prisoner is charged with having committed adultery, Sadie Kelly being the complaining witness. Friday night and just as the court was about to adjourn Bachman caused something of a sensation. Arising from his seat, in front of the bailiff, he walked over to the prosecuting witness and shaking his fist in a threatening manner, called her a foul name, at the same time applying a profane epithet. He was at once arrested for contempt of court and the trial was had there and then, adultery.

In the state case against William Betts, charged with the illegal practice of medicine, the county attorney has entered a nolle and the prosecution has ended.

The jury in the case of Louis Godola against the East Omaha Street Railway company returned a verdict, finding for the plaintiff, and assessing his damages at $1.725. Godola sued for $10,000, alleging that the company was responsible for an ac-cident in which he was injured.

Omaha Jobbers Enthusiastic Over the Results of Their Trip. The Omaha jobbers returned from their excursion last evening. They are well satisfled with the results of the trip. They had an opportunity yesterday to note the effect of the rain on the spirits of the people of the towns through which they passed, and they say that the down pour made all jubi lant. It is regarded now as certain that almost all crops in the region where the water fell will be bountiful.

The climax in the return trip was the nagnificent reception tendered the jobbers by the people of David City. When the train came to a standstill not less than 1,000 people were there to greet them, the business men sending a big delegation to meet the travelers. Scores of carriages were quickly loaded and the guests driven about the town. The streets were filled with farmers' wagons, and the stores were crowded with customers. In the park the music of a splendid band added to the enjoyment of the visit. To see the hundreds of farmers busily engaged in their purchases, to contemplate the condition of the crops, the satisfactory condition of local trade, would cause one to think that a panic in this splendid region could not occur. Certainly there is little evidence to indicate that the merchants of this section Certainly there is little evidence to of the state have suffered much from the recent disturbances in the financial world. Magnificent rains in the past two or three days have made certain an abundant harvest feeling most enthusiastic over the prospects of a heavy trade this fall, and they are convinced absolutely that a better plan of pushing their trade and advancing the incrests of Omaha and the state cannot be conceived. Three days of hard work, tired out with constant travel, having covered forty-three towns, the business men of Omaha came back thoroughly satisfied that one of the grandest agricultural empires in the world lies at Omaha's very door, and a more enterprising class of country merchants never existed.
