MORSE CO. IS CLOSING OUT

Going Out of Business Beyond a Shadow of a Doubt.

ALL OR PART OF THE STORE FOR RENT

Goods Sold by the Yard or Car Load-Anyway to Close Them Out-Prices Just High Enough to Pay Expenses of the Sale,

The way the people have turned out to the great closing out sale at Morse's shows that when there is a real bargain in sight pocketbooks fly open and the ready cash appears in spite of the cry that there is no money. If you want proof look in at Morse's at any time and you can hear it fingle.

It don't take a very large amount of money, either, to buy more than you can carry away; such prices were never heard of in dry goods annals. The whole stock, from the basement to the top, comes in for a big cut. In fact, the prices are placed just as low as can be to pay the expense of this great going out of business

Every day the store has been crowded to its utmost capacity, and extra clerks have been put on until it seems that no more could be done to accommodate the crowds.

No goods are charged and none are exchanged. No deviation is shown. The lady can buy a pair of hope as cheap as can the man who buys a case or a carload

No prices have as yet been quoted in the newspapers, for the simple reason that it is impossible to do so. No time to write advertisements, but suffice it to say that prices are quoted in the store with a Wengeance, and such a vengeance that they who buy tell their neighbors, who tell their friends, and Morse's is crowded all the time.

When such a sale as this comes along it pays to lay in a year's supply at the retiring from business sale of the Morse Dry Goods Co.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI.

Customary Reception to the Graduating Class Tendered Last Evening.

The annual reception by the Omaha High School Alumni association to the graduating class was tendered last night at the High school building. Owing to rain a much smaller number of the alumni and alumnae attended than was expected. About 150 were present. Of these by far the larger number consisted of the members of the two or three last graduating classes and there were few of the older graduates present to enjoy he bitter-sweet pleasure of greeting old classmates and of recalling the capers of old chool days. Another thing that detracted from the pleasure of the evening was the absence of teachers, but one being in attend-

The executive committee which arranged the reception was composed of Charles S.

McConnell, James Houston, Frank Riley, Elizabeth Van Sant, Mary Fitch. The annual meeting of the association will be held Friday evening, July 6.

Twenty-One Towns Visited During Friday by Omaha Merchants

Tired in body, but very much alive in spirit and enthusiaste over the success of their two days' tour in the southeastern part of the state, the Commercial club reached Omaha at 10:30 o'clock last night. The special which carried the party left Falls City at 6 a. m. Friday, and twentyone towns were visited ere Omaha was reached last night. The dinner stop was made at Crete, and the party took supper at Weeping Water.

Along the line the enthusiasm was great the citizens meeting the visitors with bands and in many of the towns the ladies appearing and decorating the junketers with flowers. In the two days th'rty-two towns were visited and several hundred retail merchants seen and spoken to by the eighty Omaha jobbers composing 'he party. Another similar ex-cursion will be organized within a month, the club members being convinced that this sort of advertising will prove advantageous and materially encourage trade with Omaha from the places visited.

GOOD WORK SHOWN.

Academy of Fine Arts Closes Year's Work with a Reception. The closing of a very successful year's work at the Omaha Academy of Fine Arts, under the auspices of the Western Art association, was emphasized vesterday afternoon and last evening by an art reception at the Natatorium block. Under the direction of Director J. Lawrie Wallace the pupils of the academy have done some most creditable work during the past year, this fact being proved by the hundreds of studies on exhibition. The exhibit consisted largely of studies from life, no pretense being made toward the finished product of the brush except in a few examples. And yet the studies gave evidence of unmistakable merit. All have been made from living models, the sittings on each subject continu-ing from one to two weeks. In addition to the art studies on the walls there were also a number of finished works, all done the direction of Prof. Wallace. A A large line of drawings in black and white from casts of great examples of statuary completed the artistic display.

The academy will now be closed until next September, at which time most of the present students, with many new ones, are expected to be in attendance. There was a large attendance last evening of pupils of the academy and their friends. The work of the past year was admired and commented A delightful program of vocal and instrumental music, not too long, was listened to, and the year at the academy was at

INJURED IN A RUNAWAY.

Mrs. Stickney and Mrs. Willis Quite Seriously Hurt While Driving. Mrs. E. M. Stickney, wife of the well known chief clerk of the Mercer, met with a serious accident Thursday evening which very nearly resulted fatally. In company with a friend, a Mrs. Willis, she was driving up Webster street near Twentieth street. A double carriage was driving slowly immediately in front of her, and, wishing to pass, Mrs. Stickney drew her horse to one side between the carriage and the curb stone. Just as she was abreast of the double carriage a runaway horse which had been frightened by the explosion of a bunch of firecrackers plunged into the phaeton. The horse driven by Mrs. Stickney reared up and sprang over the runaway, and in an instant Mrs. Stickney found phaeton above the frightened horse, which all the time was rolling and plunging

When the horses were free Mrs. Stickney was dragged beneath her phaeton over granite pavement for more than a block before her horse could be secured and con-trolled. She was at once removed to her home at 1606 North Twenty-eighth street, where it was discovered that she had sus-tained a compound fracture of her right limb just above the ankle and a serious dislocation of the ankle itself. She passed a painful night, but yesterday was resting comfortably as could be expected. Her end Mrs. Willis escaped with a number of
