William Corning Meets a Horrible Death While Working for a Living.

TEAMSTER CRUSHED BENEATH HIS WAGON

His Team Took Fright and Plunged, He Fell Off and a Heavy Load of Sod Ran Over His Breast, Mushing Him Frightfully.

William Corning, a teamster, 43 years of age, was driving along at the corner of Fifteenth street and Second avenue yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when his horse took fright at something and commenced to run Corning was pitched forward, and just as he fell to the ground the team wheeled in such a way that the wheel passed over the right side of his chest. The wagon was heavily loaded with sod which was being taken to the residence of W. C. Norris, and the tremendous weight crushed Corning's chest, breaking several bones. He bled internally in a profuse manner, and it was but a few seconds till he breathed his last.

Corning was unmarried and lived at the residence of Mr. Dawson, on Fifteenth street between First and Second avenues. The remains were taken to Lunkley's undertaking rooms. The only relatives the unfortunate man had, so far as is known, are a brother in Seattle, Wash., and a sister in Minnesota. The former was notified of the accident and the time of the funeral will not be set until he is heard from. The sister's address

A young lady of this city met with a sad but not very serious mishap last Friday night while viewing the sights by electric light from the top of a bicycle belonging to her own or some one else's brother. She had been listening to populistic eloquence at Bayliss park when the storm came up and she had to fly for refuge to a neighboring house. While she was in the act of flying however, she had a collision with a buggy and when she recovered from the shock and tried to get her wheel and herself together once more she found that the frame of the bleycle was badly bent and could not be used. A young man who was supposed to know something about wheels was called in for consultation, and on being shown the injured vehicle said it would have to be put into the hands of a bicycle re-pairer before it could be used. While looking the wheel over he suddenly made a dis covery, and with his eyes rivited on the bar that ran from the head of the saddle post he exclaimed, "How in thunder did any girl ever ride that wheel?"

ever ride that wheel?"
"I don't know," was the rather embarrassed reply of the proprietor of the house, and the girl in question has before this probably experienced the same feeling of embarrassment in explaining to the owner of the wheel just how the accident occurred,
