Opinions Expressed that Gresham Has Made a Bad Break.

PALPABLE ATTEMPT TO COERCE JAPAN

Officials of the State Department and of the Corean, Japanese and Chinese Embassies Refuse to Talk on the Subject. NEW YORK, July 18 .- A Washington dispatch to a morning paper of pronounced anti-administration proclivities says: The fact has just come to light that the administration by Mr. Gresham has committed another diplomatic blunder which is considered even more serious than the attempt to restore Queen Liliuokalani and which may have more important results. Members of the diplomatic corps, among whom the facts have created something of a sensation, tell this has been in frequent consultation of late with the secretary of state regarding the strained relations existing between Japan and Corea, has finally induced the secretary to send an official cable dispatch to the Japanese government expressing the dissatisfaction of the United States with the policy which Japan has been following toward Corea and closing with these important words: "The United States views with regret the levying of an unjust war by Japan upon a weak and de-fenseless nation like Corea."

This is considered a greater diplomatic blunder than the secretary's action in the Hawaiian controversy, but there has not Hawaiian controversy, but there has not been time to realize the full extent of the message. The Japanese government has made no reply and has probably not yet recovered from its astonishment. Japanese legation here the officials profess to know nothing whatever about the belligerent message and express a grave doubt as to the accuracy of the story. There is no doubt about the existence of the dispatch. Secretary Gresham has shown a copy of it to Sir Julian Pauncefote. The Chinese and Corean legations have copies of it and the fact of its existence is known to several members of the house and senate committees on foreign relations.

GRESHAM WILL NOT TALK. WASHINGTON, July 18 .- Much interest was aroused in official circles here today by the publication of the above story. Efforts were immediately made to confirm it, for it was assumed that if the secretary was correctly quoted he had gone to an extreme length in thus addressing the Japanese gov-ernment and that the result would be a serious diplomatic complication, as the Japanese would be sure to resent the secretary's expression as an unwarrantable interference. It happened that Secretary Gresham was indisposed today and kept to his room at the Arlington, but he was induced to send word that he could not at this time may anything either in denial or affirmation the publication, as the correspondence still in progress, and to make a partial voluntary publication would violate diplomatic practice. Since the subject has attracted so much attention, however, it is almost cer-tain that the senate will adopt a resolution calling for the correspondence, and in that case the secretary's scruples will not be strained in making a full and complete re-The other officials of the state partment who were approached with ineither stood mute clared that they were not informed upon the matter. There is some reason to believe that when the correspond-ence is made public it will be found that the secretary's language has been perhaps unintentionally misquoted and that the error, though apparently slight, really places the secretary in a position not substantially different from that assumed by him. The history of the incident begins with the Corean rebellion, when, upon the application of the king, the United States sent the war ship Baltimore to Chemulpo. Almost simultaneously the Japanese and Chinese govern-and suggested a withdrawal of the foreign forces. This was not so easily to be accomplished. The Chinese and Japanese have always been at odds whenever Corea was concerned, for each had long cherished designs upon the autonomy of the country. However, the Chinese were willing to with-draw if the Japanese would do likewise, but the latter country discovered that she had a number of grievances against the Coreans on account of maladministration, and making a number of demands, some of which touched the very existence of Corea as an independent nation, Japan announced that her troops would not be withdrawn until these conditions were met. At this point the attention and interest f other nations was strongly aroused, for it was seen that the peace of all northern Asia was in jeopardy, and the powers that had great interests there began to consider what should be done to dissuade Japan from down the integrity of the little nation that had served as a buffer between the two great Asiatic nations. Great Britain and Russia and France interposed with pacific re-monstrances, but these were unheeded by Japan, the present government of which, it is intimated here, was in such a desperate pass politically that it felt obliged to excite the national feeling as a means of selfpreservation. Then the United States was drawn into the matter. We have large interests in China and Japan, and prospects of greatly enlarging our trade relations, and when United States Minister Dunn at Toklo represented the conditions to the State de-partment it felt it to be not only in our interests but to the good of all concerned to reinforce the efforts of the great European powers to prevent a conflict that would surely be disastrous to both sides. SIMILAR CASES CITED. Such a course has been taken before by the United States, notably in the case of the small republics of Central America; we succeeded in preventing wars and in so doing have earned the gratitude and thanks of our neighbors and the esteem and admiration of the whole world.

At the Corean legation today a copy of the dispatch alleged to have been sent was shown to the minister, but he pointed; referred the reporter to the Department of State for information and intimated that he could not with propriety talk of the matter.
It was said that no records of the dispatches have been received from Corea. A copy of the paper containing the dispatch was shown to the Japanese minister, who very promptly returned a reply that he knew nothing at all of such a message and had no official intimation that it had been sent. He said: "The Japanese government is per feetly satisfied with the attitude of the ad ministration regarding Corea and is confident that it is actuated by sentiments of justice toward both China and Japan and is only desirous of a pacific solution of the differ ences between the two countries."

A diplomat familiar with eastern affairs said that an expression of the dissatisfaction felt by this government in the manner in dicated would not affect the future of th government of Japan. One effect, however, might be that should it be concluded to submit the differences now existing between the two nations to arbitration the United States might not be asked to serve, as probably would have been the case otherwise.

No news on the matter could be had from members of the Chinese legation.

Members of the house committee of for-Members of the house committee of for-eign affairs deny that feature of the story which says they have seen the dispatch.
