

SOCIETY'S POOR SHOWING

Few Weddings and Fewer Functions Comprise the Record of the Past Week.

EMMA FLOWER MISSION MEETS WITH FAVOR

Marriage in London, Ontario, in Which Omaha People Were Participants—Tennis Tea the Latest Social Fad—Movements and Whereabouts.

The initial effort of the Emma flower mission Thursday to supply the hospitals of the city with flowers was crowned with success, early in the morning baskets and boxes of cut flowers arriving at the south gate of Mrs. George W. Hoagland's residence, where the flowers were made up into bouquets by the ladies invited by Mrs. Hoagland to assist in the work, and in the afternoon the bouquets were distributed by young ladies interested in the mission. And their visits to the different hospitals were full of incident and interest. Fourteen institutions were visited during the course of the afternoon, the work of distributing the bouquets devolving upon Misses Julia Knight, Anna Bishop, Gertrude Clark, Lizzie Isaacs, Mary Duray, Emily Wakeley, Kate Drake, Belle Allen, Pauline Lowe and May Wyman.

Picnic at Manawa.
Thursday was a delightful day for a picnic and a number of the members of the First Methodist church took advantage of the day by going to the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ochsiltree, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, Miss Nellie Reiley, Miss Fanny Madison, Miss Anna Hungate, Miss Perle Ochsiltree, Charles Hungate, Carl Ochsiltree and Mr. Sharp.

Movements and Whereabouts.
The following account of a Toronto wedding will be interesting to many Omaha people who are acquainted with the groom. The Daily Free Press of London, Ont., July 12, tells the story as follows:

A pretty family wedding took place at No. 97 Wharncliffe Road, South London, at noon yesterday, when Miss Marie Alexandra, second daughter of Mr. J. S. Dewar, city editor of the Free Press, and Mr. Theodore Grindam of the firm of Browning, King & Co., Omaha, Neb., were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock. The interesting ceremony was performed under the glass of the electric light in the parlor, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, ferns, smilax and other flowers. Rev. Evans Davis, M. A., rector of St. James' church officiated. The bride was given away by her father, and looked charming in a gown of white Swiss muslin trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Miss L. M. Dewar, eldest sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and was attired in a dress of cream cashmere, trimmed with cream moire, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Irene C. Dewar, in a dress of white silk, made a beautiful little maid of honor. The groom was attended by Mr. James R. Dewar of the executive office, Union Pacific railway, Omaha.

After the newly wedded pair had received the congratulations of those present the company, to the number of fifteen, proceeded to the sumptuous wedding breakfast, during which telegrams of congratulation were received from friends in Chicago, Winnipeg, Omaha and elsewhere. The bride was the recipient of numerous and beautiful wedding presents, among which was a diamond brooch from the group all of which testify to the esteem in which she is held by her many acquaintances. After the inner man had been fully satisfied the young couple left on the 4:30 express for Buffalo, and were welcomed to the Grand Hotel by a large number of their friends, who showed rice and old shoes upon them without stint. From Buffalo they go to Cleveland, thence by boat to Duluth, and from there to their home in Omaha. The bride is well and favorably known in Omaha, and carries the best wishes of a host of friends to her western home.

On Minnetonka's shores.
Rev. W. M. Patterson, late pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Glick returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives around the southern shore to my left is the stretch of land called Cottagewood and here are some of the most beautiful summer homes on the lake, not to forget mentioning Northview, the charming spot selected by Sir Charles G. Smith of Boston for his inevitable abode. It stands round to the right of Hotel St. Louis and is built on a point of land that overlooks on the front the dancing waters of the lake, while far to the left, right and rear lie hundreds of acres of beautiful woods, parks and meadows all in the possession of Sir Charles, who is the largest property owner on Lake Minnetonka.

One can scarcely know where to commence to tell of the almost innumerable charms of this lovely place, for every spot has its peculiar attraction. Stretch before me I can just detect the spires of the Lake Park hotel, which together with the Lafayette (a very "swaggin' r" place), and Hotel St. Louis makes up a trio of three most tempting hosteries. The latter, though mentioned last, does not stand least in the opinion of pleasure seekers by any means.

What do we do all day long? Well, I'll tell you.

In the morning an early walk is first in order, a row or sail on the lake, a fair dancet stands before her wardrobe and each fair sight shall it be "my new one, my blue one or the one I made last?" and finally takes the white with the red belt, and the red and the inevitable Kewpie and are fast satisfied that so gowned "she's right in it" for that costume seems to answer for all hours of the day—oops included.

After dinner we often take a moonlight ride in the library, union, and of course the bazaar ones, and at 11 all make a mad rush for the mall (please notice that I said mall—not male). After luncheon we sleep—and oh, how we do sleep.

You may have tried it in a summer hotel yourself.

At 5:30 the orchestra reminds us that it is time to dress for dinner, and each fair dancet stands before her wardrobe and sighs, shall it be "my new one, my blue one or the one I made last?" and finally takes the white with the red belt, and the red and the inevitable Kewpie and are fast satisfied that so gowned "she's right in it" for that costume seems to answer for all hours of the day—oops included.

After dinner we often take a moonlight ride in the library, union, and of course the bazaar ones, and at 11 all make a mad rush for the mall (please notice that I said mall—not male). After luncheon we sleep—and oh, how we do sleep.

And, girls, don't forget the Krex sailor!

GUNDIE COBURN GRISWOLD.

Picnic at Pries Lake.
In honor of Miss Reba Blue of Sioux Falls, S. D., who is the guest of Miss Jessie Blum, the Second Street street, a picnic was given last night at Pries lake, boating and fishing furnishing the means of enjoying a pleasant day's outing.

Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. B. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. M. Goldsmith, Miss Thresa Harris, Flora Anshel, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Carrie Nathan, Ruth Richberg, Jeanne Kell, Anna Kell, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Frank, Lou Kellifer, H. Hirshstutin, I. Harris, M. Kahn, and Joe Blum.

A joyful surprise.

Tuesday evening the Social Four gave a surprise party in honor of one of its members, Miss Leonie Green, at her home, 2524 Chicago street. Dancing and games were the principal features of the evening, after which the guests repaired to the lawn, where a dainty supper was served. During the evening a number of pleasing piano solos were rendered by the Misses O'Malley and Whittlesey and Mr. Dolan.

This evening was Misses Mae Reven, Maggie Lee, Kate Welch, Margaret O'Toole, Mary Gentleman, Anna Gentleman, Bay Whittlesey, Tessie O'Toole, Annie Degnan, Nellie Degnan, Josephine Woehler, Jessie Degan, Mamie Millard, Mamie O'Malley, Selma Dahlstrom, Misses J. F. Kinney, L. L. Kinney, and Misses W. G. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George B. Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Ochsiltree, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ochsiltree, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, Miss Nellie Reiley, Miss Fanny Madison, Miss Anna Hungate, Miss Perle Ochsiltree, Charles Hungate, Carl Ochsiltree and Mr. Sharp.

Picnic at Manawa.

Thursday was a delightful day for a picnic and a number of the members of the First Methodist church took advantage of the day by going to the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ochsiltree, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, Miss Nellie Reiley, Miss Fanny Madison, Miss Anna Hungate, Miss Perle Ochsiltree, Charles Hungate, Carl Ochsiltree and Mr. Sharp.

Movements and Whereabouts.

The following account of a Toronto wedding will be interesting to many Omaha people who are acquainted with the groom. The Daily Free Press of London, Ont., July 12, tells the story as follows:

A pretty family wedding took place at No. 97 Wharncliffe Road, South London, at noon yesterday, when Miss Marie Alexandra, second daughter of Mr. J. S. Dewar, city editor of the Free Press, and Mr. Theodore Grindam of the firm of Browning, King & Co., Omaha, Neb., were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock. The interesting ceremony was performed under the glass of the electric light in the parlor, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, ferns, smilax and other flowers. Rev. Evans Davis, M. A., rector of St. James' church officiated. The bride was given away by her father, and looked charming in a gown of white Swiss muslin trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Miss L. M. Dewar, eldest sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and was attired in a dress of cream cashmere, trimmed with cream moire, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Irene C. Dewar, in a dress of white silk, made a beautiful little maid of honor. The groom was attended by Mr. James R. Dewar of the executive office, Union Pacific railway, Omaha.

After the newly wedded pair had received the congratulations of those present the company, to the number of fifteen, proceeded to the sumptuous wedding breakfast, during which telegrams of congratulation were received from friends in Chicago, Winnipeg, Omaha and elsewhere. The bride was the recipient of numerous and beautiful wedding presents, among which was a diamond brooch from the group all of which testify to the esteem in which she is held by her many acquaintances. After the inner man had been fully satisfied the young couple left on the 4:30 express for Buffalo, and were welcomed to the Grand Hotel by a large number of their friends, who showed rice and old shoes upon them without stint. From Buffalo they go to Cleveland, thence by boat to Duluth, and from there to their home in Omaha. The bride is well and favorably known in Omaha, and carries the best wishes of a host of friends to her western home.

On Minnetonka's shores.

Rev. W. M. Patterson, late pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Glick returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives around the southern shore to my left is the stretch of land called Cottagewood and here are some of the most beautiful summer homes on the lake, not to forget mentioning Northview, the charming spot selected by Sir Charles G. Smith of Boston for his inevitable abode. It stands round to the right of Hotel St. Louis and is built on a point of land that overlooks on the front the dancing waters of the lake, while far to the left, right and rear lie hundreds of acres of beautiful woods, parks and meadows all in the possession of Sir Charles, who is the largest property owner on Lake Minnetonka.

One can scarcely know where to commence to tell of the almost innumerable charms of this lovely place, for every spot has its peculiar attraction. Stretch before me I can just detect the spires of the Lake Park hotel, which together with the Lafayette (a very "swaggin' r" place), and Hotel St. Louis makes up a trio of three most tempting hosteries. The latter, though mentioned last, does not stand least in the opinion of pleasure seekers by any means.

What do we do all day long? Well, I'll tell you.

In the morning an early walk is first in order, a row or sail on the lake, a fair dancet stands before her wardrobe and each fair sight shall it be "my new one, my blue one or the one I made last?" and finally takes the white with the red belt, and the red and the inevitable Kewpie and are fast satisfied that so gowned "she's right in it" for that costume seems to answer for all hours of the day—oops included.

After dinner we often take a moonlight ride in the library, union, and of course the bazaar ones, and at 11 all make a mad rush for the mall (please notice that I said mall—not male). After luncheon we sleep—and oh, how we do sleep.

You may have tried it in a summer hotel yourself.

At 5:30 the orchestra reminds us that it is time to dress for dinner, and each fair dancet stands before her wardrobe and sighs, shall it be "my new one, my blue one or the one I made last?" and finally takes the white with the red belt, and the red and the inevitable Kewpie and are fast satisfied that so gowned "she's right in it" for that costume seems to answer for all hours of the day—oops included.

After dinner we often take a moonlight ride in the library, union, and of course the bazaar ones, and at 11 all make a mad rush for the mall (please notice that I said mall—not male). After luncheon we sleep—and oh, how we do sleep.

And, girls, don't forget the Krex sailor!

GUNDIE COBURN GRISWOLD.

Picnic at Pries Lake.
In honor of Miss Reba Blue of Sioux Falls, S. D., who is the guest of Miss Jessie Blum, the Second Street street, a picnic was given last night at Pries lake, boating and fishing furnishing the means of enjoying a pleasant day's outing.

Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. B. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. M. Goldsmith, Miss Thresa Harris, Flora Anshel, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Carrie Nathan, Ruth Richberg, Jeanne Kell, Anna Kell, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Frank, Lou Kellifer, H. Hirshstutin, I. Harris, M. Kahn, and Joe Blum.

A joyful surprise.

Tuesday evening the Social Four gave a surprise party in honor of one of its members, Miss Leonie Green, at her home, 2524 Chicago street. Dancing and games were the principal features of the evening, after which the guests repaired to the lawn, where a dainty supper was served. During the evening a number of pleasing piano solos were rendered by the Misses O'Malley and Whittlesey and Mr. Dolan.

This evening was Misses Mae Reven, Maggie Lee, Kate Welch, Margaret O'Toole, Mary Gentleman, Anna Gentleman, Bay Whittlesey, Tessie O'Toole, Annie Degnan, Nellie Degnan, Josephine Woehler, Jessie Degan, Mamie Millard, Mamie O'Malley, Selma Dahlstrom, Misses J. F. Kinney, L. L. Kinney, and Misses W. G. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Groves, Mrs. O'Toole and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler.

A Tennis Tea.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter gave an exceedingly pretty tennis tea at their residence, on Spencer street, in honor of Miss Reiley of Burlington, Ia. The tennis tea is a novelty in the west, and the guests were enthusiastic in praise of the latest function. The table was a pretty sight, the center being a mirror surrounded with ferns and bearing on its smooth surface a tennis racket made with ferns with a floral ball to give realistic effect pictures. A tennis court was set up in the room, and strings of smilax into a tennis court and each guest's place was found by a plate card of celluloid, racket shaped, while the courses were passed on tennis rackets covered with napkins.

A pleasant little party was given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Murphy, G. E. Kinney, Emmet Murphy, Dan Lee, J. Dahlstrom, C. Ratkin, Frank