Clothing Salesmen at It. It took the base ball nine of the Continental Clothing company just four innings yesterday to convince the Browning, King & Co. combination that base ball was a game that they had yet to learn. The two aggregations collided at the Charles Street park at 5 o'clock and played until the pangs of hunger drove them from the diamond.

It was a closely contested exhibition for the first two innings, and then the Continental experts opened a fresh case of base hits and batted out a lead that was too much for their wearied opponents to overcome. The Continentals showed themselves the superior team, both at the bat and in the field, and won with case. The Browning, King & Co. team took Dan Honin out to coach and act as mascot, but he proved to be a veritable hoodoo, and was released in the third inning.

Saturday afternoon, and the management is counting upon an especially enjoyable time. There will be a large field of horses from both this city and the Bluffs, and the afternoon's card will contain a number of events that should be important enough to create enthusiasm on any course. The initial meeting on Saturday last was a fine success and attracted a large crowd of spectators. The coming mat, however, promises to eclipse the opening meeting in every particular, as there are better horses entered and more of them. The match between Wahlquist and Dickey went to the latter by default, and the one between Battin and Dungan went to Battin by default. The match between Austin and Whithread was postponed until this afternoon on account of darkness. The first two sets of this match were won by Austin, 6-3, 6-3, but the last set was 8-8 when the match was put off. Some very brilliant playing was done in this set by both players. Beautiful low, fast balls were frequently sent, and Whithread served some very difficult balls. It is only justice to Austin, however, to say that he was almost completely fagged out, as he had played all the afternoon.

The match between Haverstick and Haskell was also very interesting. Both were on their mettle and played scientific tennis. It was only by superior placing that Haskell pulled out a victory. In the match between Young and Caldwell the latter appeared to have lost his nerve and put up a game much inferior to his usual style.

Landed in Corea Without Interference from the Japanese War Ships.

YOKOHAMA, Japan, July 24 .- 11 a. m .-Delayed in transmission.)-The Japanese roops in Corea have commenced a forward novement against the positions occupied by the Chinese troops in the same country. A battle is daily expected.

SHANGHAI, July 25 .- It is reported the 2,000 Chinese troops which left Taku on July 20 for Corea, conveyed by eight gunboats, have landed in Corea. The gunboats escorting the transports had instructions to fire upon the Japanese if the latter obstructed the landing of the army. The other troops which left Foochow for the Loo Choo islands are also said to have reached their destination safely. It is stated if the report of the landing of the Chinese troops unopposed is correct the prospects of a eaceful settlement of the disputes between China and Japan are improved, as the Chinese fleet of transports and gunboats could scarcely have escaped the vigilance of the Japanese war vessels if the latte had been preparing to oppose the landing of the Chinese force. This is said to show that Japan is now more amenable to the counsels of the treaty powers.

BERLIN, July 25.—The Cologne Gazette says the treaty concluded in 1885 between China and Japan empowers both governments to demand that the king of Corea maintain a force of troops sufficient to guarantee public safety, and also to employ reign officers to organize the Corean army At the same time both parties to the treaty agreed not to send their own officers to or-ganize the Corean army. Beyond the contention of Japan that the king of Corea has not attended to the maintenance of public order, the terms of the treaty do not afford any grounds for Japan's interference.

HAD NO EXPERIENCE ON BOARD. Fielden and Carl Slewers Agree on One Point Regarding Wellman.

LONDON, July 25 .- Mr. Fielden, owner of the yacht Saide, which vessel succored Prof. Oyen, the geologist of the Wellman Arctic expedition, left at Danes island, writes referring to the reported loss of the Wellman party and their steamer, that he has learned from Spitzbergen that the Ragnavald-Jarl, the vessel which was used to convey the ex-plorers to the edge of the ice peak, was an old whaler which had been fitted up as a teamer and that she was in no way fitted to ncounter the ice. Mr. Fielden adds that he is led to believe that in the whole of Wellman's company there was no one possessed of practical experience in polar explorations. A representative of the Associated press an interview today with Carl Sic the Norwegian enthusiast in polar matters, with regard to his letter to the Standard yes terady, announcing that he was in receipt of advices from Norway which left little doubt that the Wellman Arctic expedition was lost.

CLAIMS TO BE BEARDSLEY'S WIDOW. Also Lays Claim to a Portion of the Dead Millionaire's Estate.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 25 .- Nelson Beards ey, president of two local banks and director in all of the others, president of the Oswego starch factory and many times a millionaire, died on January 15 last. Simultaneously a widow named Mrs. Laura J. Armstrong, living in a less pretentious house in a quiet street a mile away, assumed widow's weeds and gave evidence of the most poignant grief. She sent floral tributes to the dead millionaire's home and made frequent visits to his grave. Portions of his vast estate were given to numerous relatives but the bulk of it was left in trust for his six daughters. Nothing had been said in his will of a wife. A bomb was exploded today, which gives color to the woman's story that she intends to fight for a share of the millions. Through her attorneys she has commenced proceedings to establish her right of dower as the lawfully marrie wife of Beardsley in his lifetime, as she had lived with him until the time of his death, and claiming one child, Nelson D. Beardsley, survives the issue of such marriage. Mr. Beardsley was 84 years of age at the time of his death. The infant who bears his name in these proceedings is 2 years old. Action was also commenced to recover two notes alleged to have been given by Beardsley in 1891 and The first note is for $10,000 and now in the widow's possession. The other i for $18,000, which she says was deposited in her private apartment in the safe in Mr Beardsley's bank. That note she declares is missing from the box. She brings suit against the executors to recover the value of the two notes and interest. Her attorney says they will commence proceedings in a few days to recover the sum of $70,000, which she declares is the value of certain securities given to her by Mr. Beardsley in trust for their infant child, and which are also said to be missing from her private apartment in the bank vault. The public announcement of these acts created a sen sation today which never has been equaled in the community.

But physicians positively declare that where the strength is carefully kept up, and every possibility of contagion removed by using "a splendid nutriment," as doctors all lactated food, the mere presence of high temperature can do no harm.
