Turned Up in Omaha the Other Day and Went to Jail.

SCHEME OF A WELL KNOWN CARD SHARP

He is in the St. Joseph Jail Now but He Has a Record that Reads Like a Romance-Pony Welch Pinched for Highway Robbery,

When "Pony" Welch was called into the presence of the judge of the police court yesterday he labored under the idea that he was soon to breath the air of the free, but this was where "Pony" made the mistake of his life, for he was not to have any such good luck.

BUREAU, SUES & CO., Solicitors, Bee "Pony" Welch is one of the old timers and is well known in this city as a dangerous crook and a confidence man who would not hesitate to take a life if he found it necessary to carry out his plans.

> One day last week Detective Savage was riding into the city on one of the South Omaha cars and at the Vinton street intersection "Pony" boarded the train. Savage knew him at a glance and concluded that he was a good man to have behind the bars, consequently he placed him under arrest and sent him to the station, where he was locked up to await developments. Nothing came of the matter for a day or two, but subsequently a telegram came from St. Joseph, stating that one night last week "Pony" Welch met a man in that city, held him up and robbed him of something over $100 bound and gagged him, after which he dragged him into the weeds which grew beside the street. There the man remained until morning, when he attracted the attention of the passersby by groans. Upon being released he went to the police station and reported the robbery, giving a description of his assailant, the same indicating to the minds of the officers that Welch was the guilty party and the man who was wanted. All of the detectives were placed upon the trail and the town was scoured, it being learned during the day that Weich had boarded a freight and had paid his passage to a small town a That night the chief wired to the officials in this city and from that time on the detectives were or the lookout for their man. Yesterday the St. Joseph officers arrived and last night returned, Welch going without requisition papers.

TURNED A BIG TRICK. "Pony" Welch is a man who has reached the 50's, has a clerical air and would be taken for a well-to-do person. He is a good talker and has a way that wins the confi-dence of strangers. It is stated that upon his first visit to this city, some time during 1877, he surned a trick that netted him $25,000 and for which he was never arrested. As the story goes, Robert J. Godfrey was one of the pioneers of the Black Hills counone of the ploneers of the Black Hills coun-try, having gone there in the fall of 1874, where he dodged Indians until the treaty of the winter of 1875 and 1876. During this time he had been prospecting for gold and had struck a rich lead in the vicinity of Hill City, though he could not work it, owing to the interference of the Indians. After the treaty with the Sloux he went to work and during the summer of 1876 and the spring of 1877 he is said to have taken out over $35,000 in gold, mostly in good-sized nuggets. Thinking that he had enough wealth to run him during the balance of his natural life, Godfrey sold the half-worked claim for $10. 000 and started east, going first to Cheyenne, where for some weeks he laid around gambling houses and palaces of sin, spending money like a prince. Tiring of the little town, Godfrey came to Omaha and at once ommenced to give the residents of this, then a frontier town, a touch of high life. Nothing was too good for him and his money flew, his desire for wine and women being his weakness. As time rolled on a new star appeared in the firmament in the shape of a young man, wearing fine clothes and sporting diamonds as large as walnuts. This fellow the easiern colleges, where he had been studying for the ministry and was out west to spend his vacation, gathering ideas to be used later on in his career in his soul-saving business. He did not mix in the whirl of the rapid side of life, having a holy horror for fast women, liquor and cards. He boarded at the same hotel with Godfrey and soon be-came his boon companion in everything except his expeditions to the disreputable part of the city. In fact the young man expostu-lated with Godfrey and tried to have him mend his ways and reform. This, of course, he would not do and many of the old settlers recall the many times that they have soon recall the many times that they have seen the young man in tears as he was speaking of the downward course of his friend. At of the downward course of his friend. At last the young man stepped over the dividing line between right and wrong and now and then would take a small glass of beer, which caused him to be called "Pony," which title was prefixed to his father's name, which he said was Welch. From that time the downward road was a swift one for the lad and not once did he try to apply the brake. This fact seemed to please Godfrey amazingly and fact seemed to picase Goothey among time and again he referred to "Pony" Welch as his protege, a man to whom he was going to leave his wealth when he cashed his checks. Upon such occasions Welch would check the country of the count smile and tell those who were standing around that he had been adopted by the miner and that they were going to travel for a few years, after which they would settle down to the conf.

After having slept off the drunk Godfrey again appeared upon the street, and as soon as he learned that Welch and his money had

Fine sandy bottom at Courtland. THREATENS THE STREET.

Property Owners Object to the Action of a Brick Yard Owner.

Property owners out on Fifteenth street, between Corby and Locust streets, are getting a crop of disgust which they assert some of the city officials will have to harvest unless some action is taken soon to protect that street from being further damaged by private property owners.

The trouble all comes from the operation of the brick yard of Deiss & Co., which is located east of Fifteenth street and under the hill some thirty feet below the grade and on a line with the railroad tracks. Fifteenth street is on grade with Sherman avenue and is as level as a floor and one of the nicest streets in the north end of the city. When Locust street was graded down to give an outlet to East Omaha and Court-land beach Deles and some other property owners wanted Fifteenth street cut down also. This would have put the property below the bluffs on a grade with Locust street and would have furnished an outlet by the way of Corby street to Sherman avenue, but it would have badly damaged the Fifteenth street property owners, whose lots are already on grade and whose improvements have been made with the idea that the grade would not be disturbed. These property owners opposed the proposed cutting down of Corby and Fifteenth streets in the council and succeeded in killing the ordinance prepared for that purpose. Since that time Deiss & Co., have been at work cutting their property away for the purpose of making brick, and have now cut several feet beyond the property line and into the street. Interested property owners reported the matter to the Board of Public Works some time ago and had stakes set marking the street line. These stakes have gone over the embankment as the work of cutover the embankment as the work of ting has advanced and all efforts of the property owners to get any relief from the Board of Public Works have been futile.

The street is now in a very dangerous condition. From Corby to Locust the east side of the street faces Delss & Co.'s property which is fully thirty feet below the grade, down a perpendicular embankment that is wholly unprotected. Mothers living in the vicinity live in hourly dread that some of their children may be killed by falling down this embankment, while teamsters and drivers shun the place like a pestilence. It was within a block of this embankment that John Baker lost his life by driving over an embankment that was neither so teep nor so deep as the one in question Property owners have become very much aroused over the situation and propose to carry the matter into the council and failing of satisfaction there will take it into the

A WARM INTERVIEW. Mrs. Charles Bachman Called Upon Judge Scott Yesterday.

After the apparent downfall of young Weich, he suddenly took to playing cards, and in a short time he became one of the shrewdest poker players in the town, the Mr. Charles Bachman is now serving a term in the county jail on a series of charges representing various exhibitions of dishonesty and immorality. Since her husband less been in jail Mrs. Bachman has been bying ward, and pointed him out as one of the brightest young men in the city, a thing that no person denied.

About this time young Welch seemed to suddenly develop the idea that he could throw mente, a game that was in favor in those days, and one day he induced Godfrey to go against the three cards. The old miner bit, and in less than an hour he had lost every dollar of his wealth, the game with her mother and as times are hard in that family she has been subject to a great deal of anxiety as to how she was to be able to care for her two children, who were left without any other protector. Yesterday she visited Judge Scott at his office in the New York Life building to see if some way could not be arranged by which Bachman could give bail and be released to make some provision for their children. Alier stating her errand she was informed that nothing of the sort would be considered. As office. Godfrey thought that this was a good joke, and laughed when he told the old-time gamblers how "the kid" had won his money, a trifle over $25,000. Several bottles of wine were cracked, and during the balance of the day the two men strolled about the streets, "Pony" telling his friend that they would settle up all of the accounts when they reached the room at night, and to what followed Mrs. Bachman said. "Judge Scott said that he was very sorry on account of the position in which I was placed but could do nothing to help me. I then said that I thought it was very peculiar that if he had so much sympathy for me he had been so careful to see that my husband should provide $20 a month for the maintenance of Sadie Kellar's child while my own children were allowed to starve. "'Do you mean that for me,' he roared.

"To you mesh that for me," he roared.
"I replied that I meant it for anyone and then he said, "Then you get out of this office immediately. Get cut, I say; I don't want you around here at all."
"By this t me he was in a fury and as I started to go out of the door he grabbed me by the shoulder and shoved me out of the door and into the corridor. He was raging mad and I hurried away before he could get hold of me again."
