LINCOLN, Aug. 29.-(Special Telegram to The Bee.)-The Rourkes yielded up the third straight to Buck today. It came hard, but Buck's good fortune stuck by him to the end. Fred Claussen came in this morning Late tonight he authorized the publication of the statement that if only the sixth inning could be blotted out from his harrowed memory he would forgive all and die happy. Yesterday it was young Mr. McKibben. Today it was young Mr. Pequigney of Paris, via Santa Rosa. Mr. Pequigney's batting average has not been quoted on the market for weeks, but tonight he was tendered the nomination for mayor. He may never It again, but he did it today, and for that he is honored. It was this way: In the first Hughes rolled an easy one to Bobby Langsford, which he promptly fumbled. Claussen hit Devereaux, but the next moment a pretty double killed off Hughes and McKibben. Then Pop Ebright tossed a high one in the air, Ulrich made an inglorious muff and Deversaox scored. Mr. Claussen buckled on his armor, and aside from a scratch hit was intouched until the sixth. In the third struck out three men, including the only Buckerino. In the sixth McKibben was bit by Claussen. Ebright flied out and Speer singled. Sullivan filled the bases on balls. Mr. Pequigney ambled up and punched one clear to the fence, bringing in three runs. In the next inning, after two men were out, bles by McKibben and Ebright earned another one. In the first Ulrich was hit by Johnson, and Moran scored him on a double. McVey's hit brought Bill in. The only other time Omaha scored was in the seventh. Fear led off with a triple and scored on Langs-ford's fly-out. Both Johnson and Claussen pitched great ball, but the former was effective at critical times and Claussen was not.

Mr. Ebright of Lincoln sat on the bleach ers out at Charles Street park one day last month and watched the young men whose names grace Mr. Tim Hickey's puy roll fall all over each other in bidding for de-feat. Buck had a sore thumb. He had poked it against a hot one the day before. As the throbs of his injured digit sent waves of misery along his overstrained nerves, the gangilons in which they ter-minate began an involved contortion of a nature that in man amounts to cerebration. It was probably Buck's nearest approach to meditation; it was almost ratiocination. Articulation soon drowmed the rumble of the machinery, and from what was after-wards whispered among the boys it was learned that Mr. Ebright was discussing-not plain cussing—'de empire.' "Lincoln never can get no rights in Omaha," said Mr. Ebright. But philosophy to the rescue came, and month and watched the young men who hever can get no rights in Omaha," said Mr. Ebright. But philosophy to the rescue came, and Buck recalled as did Mazeppa, that "time at last sets all things even." Omaha would have to come to Lincoln again. And yes-terday the Omaha team made its last scheduled appearance on the Lincoln dia-mond and suffered defrat. Not a game has the Omaha team won in Lincoln this sea-son. Mr. Ebright had no occasion, appar-ently, to compilan of his treatment at home. However, if there is anything he wants, will he kindly mention it? His thousands of admirers in Omaha will cheerfully fur-nish it.

Vamoose Deserves Her Name.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.-Vamoose, fastest steam yacht affoat, again proved her superiority this afternoon by walking away from J. Edward Adie's speedy vessel. Now Then. The race was on the Hudson river between Fort Lee and Yonkers. Vamoase left West Twenty-third street at 5:30. As Vamoose passed up the river Now Then was seen in the distance, speeding toward the Fallsades, leaving a foamy wake, into which Vamoose soon pushed her bow. It was evident Now Then meant busis-ness, for she was apparently carrying every pound of steam her bollers could stand. As Vamoose neared her she started to whoop things up, It was vain, however, Vamoose leaped forward, and at One Hun-dred and Fifteenth street the two boats were side by side. Vamoose soon pulled away and shot up the river, leaving Now Then as though the latter was lying at anchor. Efforts will now be made to get on a race between Yankee Doodle of Phila-deiphia and Vamoose. her superiority this afternoon by walking Nearly 150 Horses Are Entered and All the Classes Have Filled - Twenty Events to Be Pulled Off in Four Days.

The ninth annual meeting of the Nebraska Association of Troiting and Pacing Horse Breeders, in conjunction with the Douglas county fair, opens up at that beautiful grounds north of the city next Tuesday, and runs over until Friday, inclusive.

The race program is a great one, and the meeting is confidently expected to eclipse any former undertaking of the kind at the hands of this growing association. Admirers of fine horseflesh will be here from all over the state, as well as from the surrounding states, and arrangements are being rapidly perfected for a large attendance. The business men of Omaha fully appreciate what this meeting means to them in an advertising way, and will lend every encouragement and assistance in insuring its unqualified success.

The entries for the races number 147, and these include many, if not most all of the most prominent trotters and pacers in the west, and all of the very best in the state that are not alread. All the classes are filled, and consequently the program is an ex-ceptionally grand one. Each day's card embraces five evenis, and in these some of the coming horses of the age will take part. There is not a tame event on the whole list Much hard work is being done on the grounds and the track is being put in the the-topest order, and beginning with Tues day afternoon, and closing with Friday, some of the best racing ever seen in this neck of woods will be witnessed. Judge Cul-bertson of Chicago will preside in the stand, which is every assurance that affairs in this important detail will be most properly and thoroughly cared for. He is one of the best known horsemen in the country, and as a starter takes second rank to no man. The Gould & Miller stubles of Fullerton will be on hand to compete in many of the high class events. Among this latter is the fast yearling filly, Cedar Belle, by Woodbine, dam by Shadeland Onward. The Belle will start in the yearling stakes, which will be a race worth seeing. A fine array of good ones will score up and the record statuds a good chance of being broken, as there are a lot of fast ones who will make a big effort to achieve this exploit.

Messrs. Tolleth and Kesterson of Fairbury, and very prominent among the state's emi-nent stock breeders, will be represented by a number of first-classers, and there will be stables from all the best knewn stock farms in the state. Secretary Briggs is at Creston, where the clans are gathered this week, and will escort the buck of them this way Satur-day, Sunday ghai Monday. The celebrated Keystone and Alamito farms will have their gallant representatives here and the people can well prepare for four days of wondrous good racing. 0 10 The free-for-all trot has a large field of entries, as has also the free-for-all pace. D T. Mount, who is working industriously in the interests of the meeting, reports every thing in the most promising condition for a week of grand facing. The black gelding, Darkie (4), owned by C. W. Cockerell, the grain broker, will start in the 2:32 class, and the one that beats him will be in the list. Altogether, the ninth annual meeting of the Altogenee, ine annual meeting of the association looks like a big winner, and, with a liberal patronage on the part of the people, the association intends to prepare for a meet-ing in 1895 that will embrace in its entries all the famous kings and queens of the turl in the country, of excitement at Sheepshead Bay, for ther was a dead heat in which the owner changed their minds several times, and finally decided to divide, and a hot finish, in which the seven furiong record for the track was broken by nearly a second and placed at 125 2.5. In the mile and a furiong handicap Don Alonzo was an odds-on fa-vorite, with Redskin second choice, and Strathmenth the outsider. Simms, on Don Alonzo, rods like a tyro, and got pocketed so he had to ride all the way through the stretch, and finally got his horse's noise in front only to be nipped on the post by Strathmenth, so the judges could not sep-arate the horses. After many confabs it was decided to run off the dead heat, but an hour later the owners concluded to divide the stakes, which was done. In the Fly stakes, Weinberg, Counter Tenor, Gayle and Domino decilined the issue, and Lustre was added. Clifford was a strong favorite, but Lody Violet was heavily backed at the end When the flag fell Lady Violet set a crack-ing pace, and Clifford never headed her until the last eachth, when she quit a triffe. Rock Islands wind up the championship of the season of 1894 on the Rock Island grounds, and it is probable that quite a delegation of fans from this city will go over to see the game. After this game Manager Rourke will return to Omaha with the team intact, as Presidents Rowe and McVittie have arranged for a post season series of games with both Sloux City and Kansas City. The minor details, such as dates and so forth, have not as yet been agreed upon, but will be in the near future, and the enthusiasts will have an opportunity of witnessing some exciting contests during October. It is quite likely that games will also be had with St. Louis and Minnesp-olis. Any way, the local management in-tends to make dates with the most attrac-tive talent available.

Attendants at Sheepshead Given an After-

Hustling for New Players.

That the Omaha management intends to make a final vigorous effort to win the pennant there remains not the slightest doubt President Rowe and General Manager Mc-Vittie have kept the wires hot for the past twenty-four hours in their efforts to secure new players, and it now looks as if their endeavors were to be crowned with ample success. It is quite sure now that several new players will be here early the coming week and among those spoken of are Smith of the Louisvilles, Cooley of the St. Louis Browns, McCarthy of Indianapolis, and sev-eral others from the ranks of the National league. With one more pitcher and a first-class fielder Omaha should walk off with the premier honors in the greatest base ball race in the history of the game. President Rowe and General Manager Mc

Distanced a Field at Creston, CRESTON, Ia., Aug. 29.—(Special Tele-gram to The Bee.)—Today was perfect for racing, and an increased attendance wit-nessed the events. The 3-minute pace was contested for first place by Linnie Styker and Gus Tupper, who finished the last three heats exceedingly close. In the 250 trot B Zanna won the first heat, Crestonian second and Ruelah C third. The judges were not satisfied. They though the driver had not permitted Ruelah to do her best, which was the fight conclusion, as the next heat demonstrated. Haines was called to the stand and reprimanded for his eye and remarked that he would shat out the field, and he did it. The judges, previous to the second heat, flectared all bets and poils off on the first heat. The result of the second heat almost created a riot among the horsemen. Haines and the driver of B.
