CRESTON, Ia., Aug. 30 .- (Special to The Bee.)-Domestic infelicity and immorality in general is augmenting in this city at a remarkable rate, and if continued soon bids fair to outrival the ancient cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. But whether a manifestation of divine displeasure will be evoked is yet a matter of speculation. Certain it is that the wrath of the parental inhabitant is aroused. During the recent Third regi-ment encampment, I. N. G., the actions of many young ladies were so indiscreet that it brought forth ministerial rebuke, and the mother began to inquire "where was her wandering girl tonight." Other evidences of The most prominent evidence that there is something wrong is the unusual number of divorce cases that Judge Towner will be called upon to decide at the September term of the district court. Twelve petitions for divorce are now on file in the county clerk's office, and the evidence in some of them will be decidedly sensational, and afford society gossip no end of material. These twelve couple who wants judicial severance are among the oldest and most prominent itizens, and the request for an abrogation of matrimonial strings is a matter of no little surprise and comment. The separation of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ahearn has caused the greatest public interest. Mrs. Ahearn is a prepossessing and attrastive little woman, and when she rides a bleycle about town the stranger inquisitively besieges the resident. Mr. Ahearn separated from his wife in May, owing to the attention his wife received from a prom-inent attorney. Mr. Ahearn, in his petition, charges his pretty little wife yith adultery with Hugh M. Fry, a young attorney and former pariner of County Attorney James G. Mr. Frywas a well-known young man, a leader in society, a member of several swell clubs, generally respected and of good parentage. His escapade placed him in an uncomplimentary light, and realizing his fu-ture in this city was crushed, he took the advice of Horace Greeley, and is now prac-tising law at Portland, Ore. Mrs. Ahearn declares his innocense, and has engaged a firm of hawyers to defend her. Ex-County Poor Supervisor John Diffenbaugh asks a decree of separation from his wife on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. This couple has traveled life's thorny pathway for over twenty years. Mr. Diffenbaugh asserts that if he fails to recrive a divorce on the charge specified in his petition he will introduce evidence that will startle the community.

The evidence in source of the other cases will be racy. One couple had only lived to gether a week. The charges range from de-sertion to adultery. A large attendance at the coming term of court is assured.

Condition of Iowa Banks.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 30 .- (Special Telegram to The Bee.)-State Auditor McCarthy has just issued his annual report on the condition of Iowa state and savings banks. He says in part:

He says in part: In submitting to the public my annual bank report it is a source of gratification to be able to state that, notwithstanding the many fallures of banks in all portions of our country, and the general detretation of business prevailing everywhere, no bank under the supervision of this office has been compelled to close its doors, even temporarily, since the publication of my last report, one year ago. June 30, 1893, there were 148 savings banks and 177 state banks doing business under the state laws on June 30, 1894, 162 savings banks and 188 state banks, or a total of 259 banks, re-ported to this office. no mistaking the fact. From early evening until the last cloud floated away from the crest of old Vesuvius every car was loaded with citizens of the Magic City. The South Omaha people, however, were not the only persons who witnessed the destruction of the city, for there were hundreds from Council Bluffs and the surrounding towns, while Omaha turned out a goodly portion of its inhabitants, so many, in fact, that when the r/d lights were turned on for the first act the reserved seats, the boxes and the bleachers seated not less than 9,000 men, women and children. While it was not down upon the regular bills, the manner in which the crowd was handled by the street railway companies was one of the most pleasant features of the ever The Omaha company gave a two-minute ng. service and at the Locust street junction the East Omaha company loaded up its cars every two minutes and whisked them away to the gate of the show ground. From star to finish there were no long and tedious waits and in many instances passengers were landed at the grounds within thirty minutes after leaving Douglas street.

With the show it was the same old story, It had been the anoual fote day in Pompeli, and all of the surrounding country and the peasantry and the town people were in for a round of joy and merriment. Bands had been marching up and down the principal streets, while any number of walking dele-gates had furnished the oratory, harranguing crowds from the steps of the capitol building as well as from the docks. During the whole of the day old Vesuvius, located in the outof the day old Vesuvius, located in the out-skirts of the town, had been manifesting symptoms of uneasiness by smoking and now and then spitting up hot ashes. Some of the farmers who were raising grapes upon the slope of the mountain drove to town during the afternoon, and going up to the temple, told Arbaces, a rich Egyptian, who had settled among the Romans a few years previous, that there was going to be trouble, and that the best thing that he could do was to call together the city council and have that body issue an order for all the people to get out of town for a few days. Here history records the fact that Arbaces told the tillers of the soli that he did not care what happened, as he was in for a day of enjoyment and would not move a peg if Vesuvius threw up her boots. Some of the copie on the streets, hearing the conversation, took to the woods, thus saving themselves and enabling the world to know just how the whole affair happened. After the moguls of the town had got rid of the farmers who brought the warning. Arbaces and some of his lieutenants ordered the festivities to be renewed, and for an hour or two things went well, but later on in the day, Glaucus, a young Greek who resided over in Hercolansum, a rival town came in a boat, and after landing went directly up to the home of his sweetheart. very beautiful young woman one who was much sought after by the sons of the nobility. Among her many admirers was Arbaces, though he was old enough to have been her father. Twice before this day Arbaces had proposed a marriage and once he had promised to deed the girl half of his possessions if she would the girl half of his possessions it she would accept his hand. Ione went upon the theory that she had rather have a young man, if he had but a single shirt to his back, than to the hereaft to an old man, even if he was the owner of the whole of the Roman empire, and inplain terms she gave Arbaces to under-stand that she had made up her mind with reference to this matter. AArbaces fully reliazed that he was not "in it" for a minute, and so he concluded to have some fun with young Mr. Glaucus. Sending a messenger boy up to the residence of Ione's father he invited both of the young people down to the public square to witness the festivities. eing unsophisticated in the ways of a rickid world, they put on their wraps and man, far advanced in decomposition, was found today in a loaded grain car of the Accident While Driving. Postmaster Thomas Bowman and Deputy Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis road. United States Marshal Frank P. Bradley which arrived here last night. The cat was sealed on both sides and the seals were covered with blood. Eight wounds made with a blunt instrument were found on the pack part of the man's head and upon other parts of his body. According to the coroner the man had been dead eight or nine days. A verdict was returned by the coroner's jury finding that the man came to his death from wounds made by some unknown person or persons. The car of grain was consigned to Cleveland Bros. by the Kemper Grain com-pany of Kansas City. Among the effects of the dead man was a prescription writ-ten on a blank which bore this inscription: "The dead man was a prescription with the apothecaries. Russelville, Ark." The prescription was for W. B. Sharpe and was signed by W. W. Hill, M. D. There was also a bottle, which bore the label of James R. Dawson & Brother, drug-gists, Aftor, I. T. Several letters were also found. One was dated at Joplin. Mo, Jun 22, 184, addressed to A. W. Mason, and signed by Annie Chase. There was also found a certificate from Home assem-by No. 2 683, of the Order of Knights of Labor of America of Carthage Mo. The midwore a moustache. The index finger of the right hand had been cut off at the second joint. He was dressed in brown striped trousers, coat with a dark stripe and a fiannel shirt. TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS, was sealed on both sides and the seals were returned yesterday morning from Topeks, Kan., where they went several days ago to overed with blood. Eight wounds made look at sime land. While there they had an experience which came near resulting 'fatally, and Bowman is still confined to his room at the corner of Pearl street and Fifth avenue. They started out Tuesday evening in a two-seated carriage with P. H. Butler, the manager of the Madison track at East St. Louis, and a driver. While driving near Silver lake, sixteen miles west of Topeka, the driver tried to pass a farm wagon, which was ambling along at a slow gait just ahead of them. The horses he was driving were fast steppers, and he had showing their speed to the three men him. He was not acquinted with the road, and when he tried to pass he found that the road sloped down suddenly. The carriage struck the incline and in an instant was tipped over and the cargo was landed at the bottom of the slope, seven feet below, with the carriage on top. The farmer jumped out of his wag n and pre-vented the horses from running away, and had it not been for his action one or more of the party must have been dragged to his death. The buggy was smashed literally to kindling wood. None of the party suffered injuries any more serious than painful bruises, excepting Biwman, and his hurte

HIS MISSION TO KILL SATOLLI. Strange Mania of a Suppo ed Lunatic Who

supposed lunatic who proposes to kill Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate, was arraigned in the Harlem police court today. Stolz is a wild looking man, and appears to be suffering from alcoholie mania. He is well dressed and fairly intelligent. A policeman arrested him on the Kings Bridge road last night where he was shouting. "Kill him, kill him," and making lunges at some im-aginary object. At the police station the prisoner, who were no shoes, said he for-merly kept a saloon at Mendvile, Pa. He sold out and came here God having called meriy kept a saloon at Mendville, Pa. He sold out and came here, God having called upon him to kill Satolii. He had no hatred for Satolii, but wanted to kill priests. A club of t n, of which he was president, had been organized to kill all priests. He had been se ected by the club to strike the first blow. In the court today, while composed and talking rationally, he still adhered to his story that his mission was to kill Sahis story that his mission was to kill Sa-tolii. He was sent to Bellevue hospital where he will undergo examination as to his sanity.

Motor Brakes Failed to Work. CHICAGO, Aug. 30 .- An electric car colcaling a cab, were drivin down one of the principal streets. Upon arriving at the foot of the steps of the temple, they got out and were heartily welcomed by the court officers and the men in high authority and for a time they watched the dancing girls and the athletes in their sports. Just as the hilarity was at the highest point. Arbacos was seen coming out of the temple, lugging a golden calf, which he drought down and placed-right in front of Glaucus, at the same time saying in a loud and commanding voice. "Kneel down and kiss the brute, or else down comes your meat house." Glaucus was completely taken by surprise, but quickly recovering, he replied, "Not if I know myself." The people cheered to the echo, and, draw ing asword, Arbaces invited the young man out into the commons. The invitation was accepted, and several hundred people followed, in order to see that one man did not take any advantage of the other. However, before they had reached the ground where the duel was to be fought, Vesuvius belched forth great quantities of hot ashes and lava, completely covering the town, and burying Arbaces so deep that to this day his bone have not been found. Glaucus was one of the first men to notice the activity of Vesuwius, and knowing that to stay meant death, he caught lone under one arm and Nydia, a blind girl who had been selling flowers on the streets, under the other, and made for the water, where he secured a boat, and throwing both of the fainting women in, jumped aboard and escaped, rowing over to

Dubuque-Euilt Torpedo Boat to Be Placed on Triat in a Few Days.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 .- The torpedo boat Ericsson, the first vessel built on inland waters, passed quarantine at 10 o'clock this morning, having consumed twenty-two days in the sea passage from St. Louis. The Ericsson was built at the Iowa Iron works, Dubuque, Ia., and upon her completion was towed down the river to St. Louis, where she anchored for several days. She began her voyage to New London, her destination, August 8 at noon. Passing through the harbor and into the East river the Ericsson all not stop at the navy yard, but proceeded on her course to New London, where she will be placed on her official trial in a few days. The government con-tract is that the Ericsson must make twenty-four knots per hour, but the builders hope to exceed this by one knot. Superintendent Hopkins of the iron works will stay with the boat until it is turned over to the government, which Lieutenant R. N. Usher, U. S. N., who is also on board, will take charge.
