Young Men's Christian Association Taking a Peep Into Its Purse.

DECIDES TO PRACTICE RETRENCHMENT

Budget for the Current Year Materially Reduced by the Board of Directors at the Annual Meeting-Plans for Keeping Up the Work,

The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the association building and took up the plans for the work of the as sociation for the coming year. In looking forward to the winter and in consideration of the fact that on account of the financial depression the association had run somewhat behind in its receipts, including a deficiency from last year, the finance committee recommended a very considerable reduction in the budget of expenses for the balance of the fiscal year, to May 1, 1895, of $3,400.

Mr. Waltemeyer, the financial secretary, presented his resignation to take effect November 1.

The reduction in expenses, while it will prevent the association from extending its work as planned, will not to any extent cut down the privileges of the association to young men. The salaries of the secretaries and employes of the association were all cut from 10 to 15 per cent. More dependence will be placed upon the volunteer services of the members than before to assist in extendng the work.

The gymnasium will be opened on Monday evening next for the regular fall work, but without any special formalities at this time. The railroad men's class will be held at 11:30 a. m., the boys' class at 4 p. m., the regular business men's and lawyers' class at 5:15 and the young men's class at 8:15. Everything has been put in excellent order and will be under the direction of Mr. Cook as usual, aided by a corps of competent volunteer as-Plenty of dressing lockers are provided and are ready for the use of new members as rapidly as they may apply.

The evening classes will fully measure up to last year, and an exhibition of the best work of the Young Men's Christian associa-tion classes of this country will take place in the pariors early in October, just prior to the opening of the classes. A strong entertainment course is being arranged, and in addition to this a course of entertainments by the best local talent will also begin in January, which will be at a very slight charge to the members. The membership committee reports that it has made a gain in the membership in the last month, and that they now have 1,267 men on the rolls. Some decrease has been noted on account of members who have removed from the city reception committee has in mind a series of receptions to be given to the young men of Omaha by the various young people's ocieties of the churches, also a series of "Nights of Nations," which will attract the young men of different nationalities to the as-

There is also contemplated a series of com-mon sense talks on the economy of living, establishing a home, getting along in life, etc., and with as much sound advice as car be given by men who have studied economic of house keeping, living, etc. They also plan to repeat the series of law lectures advanced bible training class as arranged last year, under the leadership of the most able man obtainable in the city. The Current Topic club, of course, will be continued, and in addition to this a debating society should also be established for younger

The work for boys will receive attention in a way that will mean something as an influence on their lives, and if possible room will be set aside for working boys to be used in the evening as an educational and reading room under direction of men of common sense and grit.

HER RECOVERY DOUBTFUL.

Mrs. Oakley Badly Burned While Lighting a Gasoline Stove.

While Mrs. Oakley, wife of the carriage gate keeper at Courtland Beach, was lighting her gasoline stove last evening, her clothing caught fire. She rushed to the door and called her husband, who was at the carriage entrance, and running to the house he smothered the flames with a quilt. Mrs. Oakley was, however, so badly burned be-low the waist and on her hands and arms that her recovery is doubtful.

Says M. W. Selby, Muncie. Ill.: "Last summer a coal miner came to my drug store one night, half dead with cramps. There was no doctor to be had. He asked me if I had anything that would help him. I opened a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and gave him a large dose. In twenty minutes his pain was all gone. This man had been subject t cramps, but has not been troubled since. Every family should keep this remedy at hand for use in such cases. It can always be hand for use in such cases. Arrested His Business Partner, Albert Seeholtz is languishing in the city jail, while his co-worker, Leonard Lowery, is being hunted down by the police. The trouble all comes about by reason of a part-nership that was entered into a few days ago. At that time George Carson determined to go into the business of buying and selling chickens, but never having had any experience in this particular line he thought that it would be well to have a partner. In looking about for such an individual he met Soe holtz and Lowery, both of whom averred that they were experts in chicken matters, though they said that they had no money with which to set up in business. Carson replied that he had money, and after discussing plans the two men put their expirence against Carson's wealth. For a time the firm prospered in its location on Harney street, down in the commission house district, but some days ago Carson discovered that he was buying more chickens than were being sold and that the e was scarcely any stock on hand. This a r-picions to himself he said nothing, being de-termined to solve the problem. A couple of daysage Carson rented a room across the street from the chickenstore and set up all night to watch. The list night was without results, but Thursday night, just before midnight, he saw a couple of men walk up to the door of the store and after putting a key into the lock enter. Not car-ing to fight two. Carson lay for the fellows and soon saw them come out, loaded down with chickens. While this surprised him, it did not surprise him so much as did the fact that the two men were his partners. With-out saying a word he waited until yesterday. when he filed a complaint against both Seeholtz and Lowrey, charging them with larceny.

HAD A GOOD TIME ANYWAY.

Lincoln Man's Touch of High Life-Finds

He Was Not Robbsd. Some days ago L. F. Ross reported at the police station and poured a tale of woe into the ears of the members of the detective force, telling them that he had been robbed of $700 in this wicked town. The sum being large, the detectives went to work up:n the case, fully expecting to turn up a band of crooks, though they did not think that they would ever recover a cent of the money Yesterday, however, the whole matter wa eleared up, and according to the story told by Chief Haze, Mr. Ross, who, by the way is a Lincoln man, is about the only criminal connected with the case

The story as told by the chief is to the effect that Ross is a married man and that some time ago he came down to Omaha, depositing $1,100 in one of the banks, after which, with a few hundred in his pocket, he prevailed upon a woman of the town to assist him in doing Colorado for a time. The woman was in for the trip, and after the weeks, they came back to Omaba, after which Ross got on a roaring old drunk ending up in a residence down on the row After sobering up he started in to take an account of his finances and discovered that he had but $100, the rest of the money and the proceeds of the bank account having gone glimmering. It was then that he re-ported the case to the police, claiming that e must have been robbed of $700, if not

Ross went back to Lincoln to tell several fairy tales concerning his whereabouts, while the detectives went out on the blind trail, shadowing numerous parties, but not a par-ticle of evidence did they secure against any party. Finally, they found a doctor who was a friend of Rous and this gentleman told the officers that he had $700 of the money which belonged to Ross. He had taken it from him when he was on the drunk and had afterwards deposited it in one of the banks, subsequently sending the man a check for the full amount. There the case was dropped, and yesterday Chief Haze received a letter from Ross, telling him that he could call off his sleuths, as he had decided not to prosecute the investigation any further.

AMUSEMENTS.

It is a thousand pities that Mrs. Potter did not begin her engagement with "In Society" at Boyd's instead of the "Iron master," which at bast is a drama of limited scope. "In Society," however, was given its premiere before an Omaha audience last night and the verdict was quite in favor of the stars and their supporting company. The play is by Alexander Dumas, fils, Englished from "Francillion," which was so immensely successful a few years back. It is a story of today, with a decided leaning towards the eroticism that so completely seems to have taken hold of the English and French stage, to the exclusion of the homiler virtues that were so integral a part of the drama during the first half of the century. While there is a decided moral in the story, brightly and very cleverly told, it is doubtful if it avails much in the questionable shape in which it is put, at the sacrifice almost of teachings which have stood for all that is the social world from the aforetime. The dialogue is terse, very often epigrammatic, and suggestive of "Lady Winderres Fan, which it more nearly resembles in motif and manner of working out than any of the fin de seicle plays which treat of the marriage question and the rights of husband and wife in a bold and uncompro-

As the faithful wife, who in an unguarded moment almost brings the house of de Riverolles toppling about her head, Mrs. Potter is clearly at her best. She is required to play a society woman of the best family and she plays Mrs. Potter. There is no denying that the woman with the Titian hair can play a society woman to perfection. While she lacks the power to make her audiences forget that she is acting. Mrs. Potter last night was never commonplace, her French accent and her introduction of French phrases being the only blemish upon an otherwise creditable performance. Yet this should not be considered a drawback, for it is an in-terpretation of the character of Francine, and as such must be seriously treated.

Mr. Bellew was in splendid form and his Lucien deserved to be classed among the very best things that he has done. He was grace and polish itself, and his bit of pantomime in the second act, when his wife tells him that she has been untrue to him, was one of the features of the performance. As a whole the company was excellent. Mason Mitchell, as Henri, has a part which fitted him like a glove, and his little love scene with Annette (Perdita Hudspeth) he played splendidly, as did the young lady. Miss Lisle Leigh showed a fine contrast be-tween the Athenasis of Thursday night and the baroness of last night, a very pretty character, somewhat unreal, probably, but nevertheless in every sense refined, a woman of the world, but one with a heart in the right place. Miss Leigh showed her-self a careful, intelligent player, and gave nise of much brighter things in the Mr. Rolleston's Stanislas and the Marquis of Verner Clarges showed many ex-cellent points. On the whole the performance was creditable and a pleasant aftermath to the "Ironmaster."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Today the Potter-Bellew company will close its engagement at Boyd's theater by giving two performances-a matinee at 2:30 this afternoon, when the twin stars will appear in "Camille," The engagement will close with the evening performance of the new play "Charlotte Corday." These will be the last opportunities our play-goers will have of seeing these artists.

fore. The outlook for a free wool bill is perhaps in some measure responsible for our marvelous purchases, but "to the victor belongs the spoils"

-we've watched and waited and reaped a reward, Our clothes for boys in particular. are well known for durability never a stitch will a Nebraska suit yield-nor a break at any abused point, but this season we've added a novelty, that'll outwear even the boy who rises at sunrise in order to be first in school -a suit with a double knee, riveted buttons, patent clastic waistband, a good thing against that everlasting sewing on buttons on waists. and a point in favor of good hanging panties.

Styles adopted this season are new and antique, double breasted, juniors, cutaways. and squares have the call-patterns are chiefly dark, but if mixtures are the color becoming to your boy we can show a raft full of various such patterns.
