The bride was dressed in a gown of heavy white silk, with pearl trimming, lace, and veil and wreath of natural rose buds. The bridesmaid was dressed in white crepe. The full choir of the church was present, and the ceremony was frequently interspersed with choice music of a sacred character. After the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hughes, corner of Third street and Ninth avenue, where breakfast was served to about thirty intimate friends and relatives. Mr. Mullen is employed as buyer for the K. S. Newcomb Lumber company of Omaha. the afternoon he and his bride took the train for Minnetonka, where they will stop for a time. Just as the hour of noon was being struck by the clocks all over the city, Rev. John Askin, D.D., pronounced the words that united in marriage Mr. George R. McLeran of Omaha and Miss Netle M. Ogden of Council Bluffs. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents on Fairylew avenue, and was witnessed by about forty intimate friends. The bride was attired in a gown of ivery-flowered satin en traine. and wore the usual bridal vell. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Katherin She was Ogden, who were white tulle with yellow rib bons. Mr. Frank Carmichael of Omaha did the honers as best man. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin, "Faithful and True," was sung by a quartet composed of Mrs. Warner L. Welsh, Miss Margaret Liddell, Mr. I. M. Treynor and Mr. L. B. Copsiand, as the bridal party descended the stairs and to k their place in a bower of palm in the parlors, where the ceremony was per-formed. After the usual congratulations, dinner was served. The happy couple took the afternoon train for Hot Springs, S. D. where they will stay a few weeks. Upon returning they will make their home at 1711 Dodge street, in Omsha. Mr. McLeran holds a responsible position with the Churchill Pump company in Omaha. The young lady whom he weds has made a name for herself in both the cities through her magnificent contralto voice. Rev. Dr. Kennedy, the missing president f College Springs, Ia., was seen in Council Bluffs, Saturday, August 25, by H. C. Babock, rector of St. Paul's, one of his former pupils, who now lives in this city. Mr. Bab-cock was passing the Metropolitan hotel on broadway when he noticed the familiar form of Dr. Kennedy sitting at the front window with his heels perched up in a lounging atitude. Being well acquainted, he stepped in side and greeted his old teacher, but received mers formal salutation than usual. Other little mannerisms caused the young man to feel that something was wrong with the doctor. His attire was unkempt and his accustomed neatness made this very noticeable. Dr. Kennedy asked the young man in a vague sort of way what the latter was loing here, although he had recently held a long talk with him concerning his locating in Council Bluffs, and if in a normal mental condition would not have asked such a question. The doctor said he was stopping at the Metropolitan for a short time only, and expected to go to Omaha that very day, later investigation of the botel register fails to reveal his name there.

OAKLAND AVENUE PAVING. The Council Ignores Protests and Orders

Vitrified Belck Paving. The big dial thermometer in the council chamber was indicating 87 degrees better than winter wather when the aldermen met couraging to the heated debate, hot protests, warm advocacy and several other things that were anticipated in connection with letting the contract for repaying Oakland avenue, but the aldermen, with their minds already made up on the subject, had little to confuse them.

The clerk presented the tabulated bids for grading middle Benton street and Flemming avenue, showing that M. Spry and Fred Kline were the lowest bidd rs, and they were awarded the contracts. The clerk was instructed to prepare printed instructions for the guidance of bidders for this kind of work, the provocation being the palpable misunderstanding of the advertisement for bids by a dozen or more bidders.

The clerk found among his nondescript papers an ordinance "regulating striking jacks and games of chance in the city of Council Bluffs," and it was laid upon the table before the drowsy aldermen realized that it was a guileful attempt to legalize game II g in the c ty.

The pelition for repaying Oakland avenue, signed by all of the residents on the street with one exception, together with a remonstrance signed by all the non-resident property owners on the street without any ception, was presented by the clerk. remonstrance was first read. It was signed by J. C. DeHaven, W. W. Loomis, James and others owning 1,400 feet. Saguin Dellaven was the on signers present, and very earnest remonstrance against e work, claiming that the property owners had just finished paying for the old cedar block paying and asserting that it was a serious hardship to keep them paying for paying all their natural lives, and maintaining that the present pavement, with a little repairing, could be made to answer for a couple of years yet. T. J. Evans and J. J. Steadman spoke in favor of the improvement and of its immediate necessity if cation with Fairview cemetery. The wooden blocks and planks were thoroughly rotted away and lay upon the surface like so much chaff ready to float off with the heavy rain. Alderman Brewick moved to lay the remonstrance on the table, and the motion was sustained without a dissenting vote. The clerk was then instructed to advertise for bids for repaying the street with vitrified

The charter of the Council Bluffs & Lake Manawa Electric Railway company was amended in section two to permit them to go south on Sixth street to 20th avenue instead of Eighteenth avenue, and then east to Fourth street, to avoid a number

A remonstrance against laying a brick sidewalk on Ninth avenue from Main to-Fourth street called out a lengthy colloquy between ex-City Clerk Stevenson, one of the objectors, and Alderman Spetman. Stephen-son claimed that an excellent walk was already there, and Spetman, who said he walked by there every day in the year, said that there was no walk at all. "The last time I was there the mud was knee deep," said he. There was an intensely far-away look in the eyes of the other aldermen as they strove to rememb r how long ago there was rain enough to make knee-deep mud anywhere in this country. Keller moved that the council go as a committee of the whole to hunt for the wet place.

Chautauqua for 1895. Rev. T. F. Thickstun says in regard to the Chautauqua movement: "The feeling among the people is universally favorable to the inauguration of a Chautauqua for 1895. There is an enthusiasm in this direction that is inspiring. As to location, I have in mind a half dozen points handy to the city well adapted to Chautauqua purposes. Possibly the owners of some of these localities are so in sympathy with our plans that a part, if not the whole, of the grounds will be contributed to help on the good work. Possibly, too, the present Chautauqua building, as a free gift, cr, at most, for a small sum, can be secured from its present owners. Three-fourths of it will be sufficient for the new pavilion, and afford seating room for 5,000. The other fourth of it can be utilized by being converted into class rooms for teaching purposes, a great accommodation to the C. L. S. C. department of the Chautauqua. Or if it should be deemed best to put up a new building, with a seating capacity of 5,000, and class room attachments, the total cost will be only about $5,000. In either event our citizens are equal to the emergency. Let there be immediate and united action in this direction, and, during the next three months, very tangible progress can be made along the line of a Chautauqua for 1895.'

On board the Miranda all was confusion The firemen, leaving the boiler room with out orders, cut loose the best life boat, which was immediately dashed to pice's agains the ship's side, and they were only kept in submission at the point of the captain's revolver. The carpenters tried in vain to stop the leak with blankets and mattresses, and at daylight, as water was invading the coal bunkers and a storm was threatening. the ship was abandoned. The crew was taken aboard the schooner. It was fortunate that the passengers were already on the Rigel, as a transfer could hardly have been effected under the trying conditions without loss of life. expensive scientific intruments and hunting All the botanical, geological and ethnological collections, and all the photographs probably the finest ever taken in Greenland went down with the Miranda. Prof. Dyche of Kansas university lost a fine lot of Labrador and Greenland birds. Prof. Wright of Oberlin college was able to make interest-ing studies of the glaciers near Sukkertoppen, but otherwise the expedition was a failure from the scientists' point of view, as it was also of the sportsmen. The journey homeward was without incident other than the adverse winds and insufficient provisions, only ten days' supplies for forty men having placed on the Rigel, and the addition of the Miranda's crew made ninety-one men on board the little vessel of 700 tons. Some of the passengers slept in the hold on top of the salt and fish. Sea gulls constituted the only fresh meat of the party for the last ten days. Too great credit cannot be given to Cap-tain Dixon and the crew of the Rigel for their efforts in behalf of those whom they had rescued. The party will have a banquet at South Sydney before leaving, at which time a handsome testimonial will be pre sented to Captain Dixon.

MINNISELA, S. D., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Bee.)—Railroad matters are getting serious at this place, and it looks like there going to be trouble within a few days The Elkhorn, from all appearances, has been trying to give this place the cut in been trying to give this place the out in every way possible. They want the Wyoming & Dakota railroad to make a function with their line at kelle Fourche, but from the way things are tuning it re ms that the Wyoming & Dakota coal read will build to this point.

About a week ago the Elkhorn officials thought they would put in a mail catcher here so as to get the mail without slowing up, thus preventing passengers from getting off and on, but the mail messenger here refused to put the mail on the catcher, as the postmaster booked up the law and found that there was a sack made especially for these catchers, and that it was against the law to use any but those provided. The conductor notified the mail messenger that he should put the mail on the catcher, but as the postmaster here had reveived no orders or pouches to use on the catcher, but the climax came when the train passed by here so fast that the messenger here could not get the mail on. Sturday the Eikhorn again failed to get the mail on, Monday the train from the south again went past, but returned about 12 and 11 need at the crossagain failed to get the mail on. Monday the train from the south again went past, but returned about 12 and 11 ppel at the crossing and get the mail. It is presumed that the news of the trouble had brought an inspector out on the line, who had probably kept shady until after he had seen how things were going.
