

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

COUNCIL BLUFFS. OFFICE - NO. 11 PEARL STREET. Delivered by carrier to any part of the city.

H. W. TILTON, Lessee. TELEPHONE - Business office, No. 43; night editor, No. 21.

MINOR MENTIONS. Mayor's Real Estate Agency, 525 Broadway. A meeting of the city council will be held this evening.

Mrs. Carl Gilmore, who has been lying dangerously ill from the effects of a surgical operation, is improving rapidly, and her final recovery is hoped for.

Money to loan on improved farms at low rates. Bargains in real estate. Purses for Fire and Life Insurance written.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS. P. P. Kelly of Glenwood is in the city. Mrs. J. J. Bolin left for a business trip to the east last evening.

Mrs. L. P. Winters and son have returned from a visit to Sunda, N. Y. Joe Spalding has gone to Pittsburg to attend the national Grand Army encampment.

Kirby of the Boone County News was in the city yesterday, the guest of Dr. Pangle.

Mrs. W. C. Dawson has returned from a three weeks' visit with friends in the eastern part of the state.

Miss Katharine Ogden left Saturday for Woodbine, where she will teach school during the present autumn.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION. Telegrams from the New York Office. We will place on sale this week the greater part of our fall goods, in various lines, the most important and complete at present in our dress goods department, comprising the very newest styles in French, English, French and German looms, and call special attention to our exclusive line of dress patterns, no two alike, and positively no duplicates.

Notwithstanding the news from our New York office of the strong market and prices advancing generally in staple merchandise, we are glad to say we were secured previously to the arrival of buyers, which were more numerous than any previous season, and accounts for the sudden advance in the cotton market.

This season's wool goods have not been affected by the tariff bill, and our import order on fine dress goods is covered at the lowest possible figure for this season, the new tariff not taking effect until January 1st.

Farmers Learn by Experience. "The failure of the corn crop makes the farmers feel pretty blue," remarked a prominent implement dealer yesterday, "but after all there is no disguising the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death."

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

There is no denying the fact that it will be worth thousands of dollars to them to have the stock to death this year, as the farmers have not known what to do with their corn since it was raised, and they are now in a state of absolute want, because there never was a failure of the crops. This year, with the price of corn high, and the farmers up to the top of the ladder, they are beginning to see that they have to look elsewhere for fodder for their stock, or else allow the stock to starve to death.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Rev. Dr. Askin Draws Some Conclusions from the Life of Elijah.

GREAT MINDS MUCH THE SAME IN ALL AGES. Depression that Follows Introspection Relieved by Work Which Never Fails.

Lesson of the Fire Prophet's Experience in the Cave.

"The Man in the Cave" was the topic of the morning sermon of Rev. Dr. Askin, who resumed his labors as pastor of the Congregational church after a vacation of nearly two months. The discourse was based on the incidents in the life of Elijah, narrated in the opening part of the nineteenth chapter of First Kings.

The sermon opened with a charming picture of the mountain scenes of the bible, from the bow of promise above Ararat to the crucifixion on Calvary and the glorious ascension. From among these scenes the speaker dwelt more in detail upon that wonderful sight on Carmel when the fire-prophet of God called down the victorious answer from heaven. Following this wonderful victory came the threat of a season of strange and deep spiritual depression, hardly to be expected in one of Elijah's self-sufficient and inspiring nature. Yet in many good men their most signal failures took place at those periods of their life which they were most remarkable in their earlier years.

The causes of Elijah's depression of soul were such as in other less noted lives have been the result of his own nature.

First, there was the exhaustion which followed upon the unusual labor and the mental excitement. With some men there is a little effort and the mind is exhausted. Elijah was given to struggles. There was an interaction of body and mind, resulting in this depressed feeling.

Another cause was the lack of companionship and want of sympathy. Elijah laid great stress on the thought that he was a cherub, and that he was a creature of God, and he was not to be troubled with the cares of men. This was the frequent penalty of great minds. Christ himself had felt sorely the need of human companionship and sympathy.

Men of great breadth of character and loftiness of purpose were more given to this than the sensuous and trifling. For the latter the time or inclination to examine their souls is rare. In the case of Elijah, a man sometimes lifts himself into the cars of self-consciousness, and peering out from the gloom of the world wears a cherub's garb. The world, when he is in this mood, would picture the world as in the very grip of the devil, but when in his normal state, he is a creature of God, and his brightness, still another cause of soul depression was the lack of occupation. So long as Elijah had prophet's work to do, he was not depressed. When he was not on his feet, but for an active nature to simply wait is torture.

DEPRESSION'S RELIEF FOR DEPRESSION. Depression was caused, too, by a disappointment in the expectation of success. On Carmel he thought his hope realized, and that Israel was to be at once transformed into a kingdom of God, but in a few days the prophet was told that he had yielded to the voice of the queen, whose throat had sent the fire prophet into timorous flight. God's treatment of the prophet's depression was suggestive of like treatment for others similarly tried. In the first place food and sleep, physical requirement, rest and exercise were provided as needed. Then the storm wind was calmed by the healing influence of nature. As the tear in the eyes gives relief to the sorrow burdened heart of woman, so the storm of the mountain, exciting Elijah's stormy feelings, helped him to calm. Then God made him feel the earnestness of life. Man was not made to live in a cave of despondency. Life meant doing. Elijah was told to go his way, and new activities called him from his isolation. With this call to labor came the assurance of companionship in the divine atmosphere of the prophecy. Elijah thought himself alone in the world, but the true God had pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy. Elijah thought himself alone in the world, but the true God had pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

Teachers, weary over some thankless task, shall remember the power of indirect instruction. The true God has pointed to the 7,000 in Israel who had not bowed the knee to Baal. Elijah's eyes were opened to the fact that his life had not been a failure, and he was able to go on with hope. He learned that no work done for men in God's world can fail. There was much difference between real and apparent solitude. The solitude of Carmel was nothing to the silent inspiration given to the 7,000 souls whose spiritual life had been sustained by watching Elijah's faithfulness to the prophecy.

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

Further Facts with Regard to the Cutting Affray at Albright.

BEIEVED THAT DAN SMITH WILL RECOVER. Committee's Report on Annex on Matter Severely Criticized—Indications of Improvement in the Real Estate Line—Magie City 45-50p.

Dan Smith, who was cut with a razor in Albright by Frank Derr Saturday night, is at the city hospital. The indications are that he will recover. The rash on his face is extending from the right temple to the throat. The blade sank far enough into the flesh to injure the jawbone. Derr was seen at the police station by a Bee reporter. He at first refused to talk, as his attorney had instructed him not to. After his wife went away, however, he made a statement. He said: "After I closed my barber shop I went over to the dancing platform, where quite a crowd was sitting. There was some jangle about a girl named Nellie Grier, and I was man in charge asked me if I would send for an officer before the men became involved in a row. I went over to Mullen and he telegraphed for a policeman. Two officers came. I also wanted a policeman, but they would not send for one. Finally he said he would hit me in my eye anyhow, and gave me a kick on my nose leg. I ran away from him and the next morning he came to my door and said he ought to cut my head off, at the same time flashing a knife. I was so weak in one leg that I could not stand and he threatened to stab Smith on several occasions and that Smith said he would not talk of the details of the shooting, nor the talk which led up to it.

Smith's examination will not take place until Smith is able to appear in court and testify.

Favorable to Annexation. The report of the special committee of the city council in regard to annexation has been criticized since it was read. The committee's report was that the annexation of the city of Magie City, Mo., was a matter of great importance to the city of Omaha, and that the city of Magie City was a valuable addition to the city of Omaha.

Activity in Real Estate. The real estate men of South Omaha claim the best time is coming up. "Business men with capital," said L. C. Gibson, "realize that property in this city is now at the very lowest prices. Bargains are being offered now that inside of thirty days could not be had. Values are bound to go up a little later in the month, and all real estate men are now and they are the ones that will reap the harvest inside of the next year."

As for houses to rent, there are no desirable ones at present. Of course the demand for houses is higher here than in any other part of the city. A house that would rent for $15 in Omaha brings $20 and $25 a month in St. Louis. All real estate men are now and they are the ones that will reap the harvest inside of the next year."

Magie City Gossip. The free silver democrats will organize a club soon, and they will have a meeting in the city hall. The club will be called the "Magie City Club" and will have a meeting in the city hall.

An Impressive Trait. A queer man who made a friend by respect for his mother. During his boyhood days it occurred that he sat in an uptown cafe with the sort of a man whom this incident will reveal.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at its height, and while he was actually rolling in riches, Peck made a trip to California, partly for rest and partly to see the country of which he had heard so much.

THE PRETENTIOUS DRUMMER. He is Taken Down a Peg or Two by the Humorous Peck. The Chicago Record tells a characteristic story of George W. Peck. When his fame as the author of the bad-boy experiences was at