Washerwomen use Domestic scap. New Scheme for Excusing Jurors.

Judge Macy has introduced a new scheme in the district court for excusing jurors who are objectionable to either side. The names of the jurors are written on a piece of paper s passed to the attorneys in turn, and the challenge is made by drawing a line through the name of one. Another member of the panel is then called into the box, but none of the jurors are excused until there are twelve uncrossed names on the paper. Those whose names have been marked off are then excused, withchallenging. This scheme has been in opera-tion in the federal courts, but has never be-fore been tried in the county courts.

MOVES OF RIVAL IMPROVEMENT OUTFITS

One Company Figuring to Head Off Another in the Furchase of the Driving Park Tract-Some Individual Opinions Expressed.

The publication of the recent developments in the northwestern part of the city have set a good many people thinking and trying to figure out just what is in the wind. Unfortunately for the public's curiosity, most of the facts are in the possession of one man, and he does not seem particularly inclined to take the public into his confidence. The fact remains, however, that extensive improvements in that part of the city are projected, and everything indicates that the air of mystery will not surround the affair very much longer. Negotiations are now pending for the sale of the driving park. Some time ago, it will be remembered, the East Omaha Land company secured an option on this property at $1,500 an acre. It is commonly supposed that the company did not mean to buy it, but was merely trying to tie it up, so that when the parties really interested tried to get it, it could be unloaded at a handsome the parties who wanted to buy, who happened to be the Union Land and Improve-ment company, found some way of preventing the East Omaha people from getting it newed. This is only one of the circumstances that have made one of the circumstances that have made people think that something is really going to happen. A member of the Driving Park association and a stockholder in the motor company is quoted by one of the morning papers as histing that there is nothing but wind in all the doings of the last few weeks, which have been written up at so much length is the recovery. written up at so much length in the news, papers, and he gives it as his opinion that the mammoth stock yards deal is simply a fake, set in operation by stock yards com-panies of South Omaha for the purpose of fluencing politics by giving rise to the impression that the stock yards of that city may be removed to this side of the river. ## FOR PURSUING THEIR EVIL WAYS.

Judge Woolson Gives a Pair of Bootleggers

Some Notion of Cumulative Justice. Judge Woolson is proving himself a terrer to evil doers, particularly those whose deeds He in the direction of bootlegging. During his previous terms he has had a habit of imposing a generous sentence on every man convicted of this sort of infraction of Uncle Sam's laws, and then suspending the sen-tence during good behavior of the convict. His kindness has not been appreciated at its face value by all of the men so dealt with, however, and many are coming back. Yesterday morning Bert Frinks and Lawrence Hunter stood before him for sentence. They had occupied that very same position at a former term. After talking to them upon the results of tampering with the governmental regulations, Judge Woolson proceeded to give Frinks a $500 fine and a twelve sentence in the Pottawattamie county jail, and Hunter a fine of $400 and nine months in jail. These sentences are far in excess of any that have heretofore been given in this court for such offenses, and coming on top of the eight years peniten tiary sentence given a man a few days ago, for sending obscene matter through nails, are likely to have the effect of deterring a good many people from following in their footsteps. Harry Fellows, said to be one of the worst crooks of Creston, was up for sentence. He has a bad reputation, having taken a revolver away from two policemen on one occasion while he was drunk and compelling them to dance or he shot. They danced. He has also served six months for trying to shoot a deputy sheriff. He has now become an humble bootlegger and Judge Woolson, taking into account his previous bad conduct, fined him $400 and sent him to jail for nine months.

David Knapp was fined $200 and sentenced to a seventy-five-day term for a like offense. No mittimus will be ordered at present. T. Bryant's sentence of $200 and seventy-five days was suspended during good behavior. John T. Rettid's sentence of $300 and 100 days was likewise suspended. Taylor Spence, $250 and seventy-five days, suspended. Andy Schwab, $300 and 100 days, suspended on condition that he give up going on sprees and support his family. Robert Perrigo, $300 and 100 days, all but fifteen days of the sentence suspended. William Bolton, $300 and 100 days, suspended on condition of his taking the Keeley cure. Kennan Middaugh, $350 and 150 days, suspended. The following sentences were not suspended: Gus Miller, $150 and seventy-five days; Will-lam Allen, $350 and 120 days; Bert Petty, $350 and 150 days; John Woodward, $350 and 130 days.

TOLD OUT OF COURT. Interesting Anecdotes About Members of the Bar.

I had the honor, says a writer in the North American Review, in company with the late Lord Hannen, the late Lord Bowen, Sir Herace Davey, Mr. Bryce, M. P., and Mr. Marten, Q. C., formerly member for Kilkenny, of visiting America with him in 1853. We were invited by the bar of the state of New York, and most of us were subsequently the guests of Mr. Villard, then the president of the Northern Pacific Railcompany, on the first through journey by that route across the continent to the Pacific slopes. Lord Coleridge did not ac-company us on this part of our travels, but n several of the New England states he reived marks of honor, and all of us enjoyed proverblally generous hospitality of great American people. The visit added a large number to his budget of anecdotes, which he used to tell with much enjoyment, although now and then some of them told sgainst himself. Desirous of information Lord Coleridge was inquiring from Mr. Evarts, the distinguished New York bar-rister, formerly secretary of state, how American lawyers were remunerated for their work. Lord Coleridge-Pray, Mr. Evarts, how do clients pay their lawyers with you?

Mr. Evarts-Well, my Lord, they pay a retaining fee; it may be $50, or it may be $5,000, or $50,000. Lord Coleridge-Yes; and what does that over?

Mr. Evarts-Oh, that is simply the re-tainer. The rest is paid for as the work is done, and according to the work done. Lord Coleridge-Yes, Mr. Evarts; and do clients like that?

Mr. Evarts-Not a bit, my Lord, not a bit. They generally say: 'I guess, Mr. Evarts, I should like to know how deep down I shall have to go into my breeches pockets to see this business through."

Lord Coleridge—Yes; what do you say then?

Mr. Evarts-Well, my Lord, I have in-vented a formula, which I have found answers very well. I say: "Sir, or Madame, as the case may be, I cannot undertake to how many judicial errors I shall called apon to correct before I obtain for you final justice."

Last June there was a case that came up before him, and the plaintiff had a witness subpoensed. When the case was called the witness was not there. "May it please your honor," said the plain-tiff, "I ask for a continuance because of the absence of my witness."

"Where is he?" queried the court.
"Please, your honor, I forgot all about this being court day till late this morning, and I sent him out early to dig bait, and he had not come back when I left home." "Abem! Here was a dilemma, but the judge was equal to the emergency. "Gentlemen," said he, "perjary is a very helmous offense and should never be imputed o any man unless for good and substantial easons. Now, in this case the court occulies the position of both judge and udge as to the law in the case and jury as to the facts and the preponderance of the evidence. Therefore, as jury, the court, well knowing the law bearing on the case, finds itself unable to agree, and as judge declares it a mistrial; and again as judge grants a new trial before a jury in this court at the next term of said court, which nov stands adjourned.'

MYSTERY OF THE PICTURES. Stolen Paintings of the Late Frederick L.

Ames Secretly Returned. NEW YORK, Oct. S .- A World special from Boston says: Four paintings valued at from $15,000 to $18,000 that were stolen from the residence of the late Frederick L. Ames at North Easton in the summer of 1885 have been recovered by the family within a week and the recovery has been as mysterious as was the robbery nine years ago. The family are still in the dark in regard to where the pictures have been all these years. They have no idea of the identity of the burglars, nor do they know the lawyers who chiefly were concerned in the recovery of the pictures. At the time of the robbery Mr. Ames offered $1,500 for information leading to their recov-ery. Last week inquiry was made as to whether the reward was still good. The rewhether the reward was still good. The reply was in the affirmative and after some mystorious negotiations the pictures were given into the possession of the family and $1,500 was paid to a lawyer in this city to be turned over to the man who gave the information. Everybody connected with the transaction was pledged to secrecy in regard to the identity of the others concerned in the deal. A short time ago a man was arrested in New York for murder. He had no money with which to pay his lawyer. In this ex-tremity he told the lawyer he could get $1,500 from some pictures that had been stolen by a gang of which he had been a member and he unfolded to him the story of the robbery. Canine Gratitude Toward a Doctor.

Last Sunday Drs. Coover and Bagot of this city and Dr. Marburg of Pueblo were seated on the porch of the residence of Dr. Coover at 1251 Clarkson street, relates the Denver Republican, when a small water spaniel walked up the thirteen steps from the side-walk and threw herself on her left side at Dr. Coover's feet. It was at once observed that something was wrong with her right eye. Examination showed that a polypus growth or tumor of the size of a hickory nut was attached to the inner corner of the eye, covering the eyeball and protruding between

The assembled medicos at once decided on compt action, and a skillful combination of antiseptics, cocaine, forceps and scissors soon restored complete vision to the recumbent pup. No human patient could have endured the operation with greater fortitude. She did not even wince, and, save for a whine when the forceps were applied to arrest the hem orrhage, seemed indifferent as to what was being done. When all was over, much to the delight of the ladies of the household, who had evinced a lively interest in the proceeding, she remained at the house, regaling herself on bones, etc., until about 9 p. m., when she disappeared.

On Monday morning as Dr. Coover was leaving the house, loud barking caused him to look around, to discover the patient of the previous day coming across the lots with every expression of delight. She threw herself at his feet in precisely the same attitude adopted before.

The doctor called the attention of a neighbor to the fact of her return, examined the eye, which was found to be doing well, and the dog again went off. Up to the time of writing (Thursday), she has not been seen
