City Officials Look Over Proposed Changes in . . NO. 12 PEARL STREET Streets on the Bottoms.

LOST AMONG WILLOWS AND SAND DUNES

Council Think the Land Company Should Give More Than an Even Trade for North Twenty-Fourth Street-One Proposition Accepted.

A patrol wagon load of city aldermen accompanied by Mayor Cleaver, Clerk Zurmuehlen City Engineer Etnyre and a newspaper man took a great faunt vesterday morning. The aldermen were acting in the capacity of committee of the whole to investigate and report on several matters that have recently ome up in the city council. The investigations led them into the extreme north part of town, then north of town, and finally out into the country given over to the growth of sandbars and willows, where circumstances changed the character of the expedition into searching party hunting for a read home. The original objects were to look over the ground on South Thirteenth street where the Northwestern Railroad company had asked permission to lay tracks across that street and First avenue for the accommodation of Geise & Son, who are arranging to build a large cold storage plant; to investi-gate the proposition of the Union Land and Improvement company to open out North Twentieth street from the levee to the river the city would vacate North Twentyfourth street; and to report upon the proposi tion of the county to grant a public highway through city property in the vicinity of the peat house. The Thirteenth street proposition was quickly approved of, and the ouncil went at the other two with a good deal of vigor, stimulated by a brisk north

The trip over the boom district was made without incident. The surveyor's flags and stakes that dot the face of the earth in that vicinity were noted with a good deal of in-The council discussed informally the land company's proposition, the majority of them seeming to favor it, provided the company would grant the city right of way for a street or boulevard along the river front from Twentieth street to Twenty-sixth street. Twenty-fourth street is considerably higher north of the levee than the proposed ne of Twentieth street, and the latter is also a block or more shorter, and the latter is also a block or more shorter, and the aldermen felt that the company would be getting con-siderable advantage of the city, provided an even exchange was made. The general senti-ment seemed to indicate a favorable report. After this part of the work was finished the council started to look up the road problem. The first question to settle was whether to return to town and take the usual road or go on along the river bank. The mayor put the question and a majority voted to follow the river. Two hours' drive put several miles between the party and their dinners, and located them on a blind road begirt with tall willows and big sand dunes.

A lone fisherwoman, who had caught wagon load of drift wood, was met in the willows and interrogated anxiously. She didn't know sure, but thought the road led somewhere, but felt certain if the mayor and his party went through a dozen barb wire fences and then turned this way and that way, directions which she indicated with vigorous motions of a fat arm in the air, they might find the old lime kiin road and get back to town for supper. Half a mile further a shanty was found in the brush, with a crop of vigorous children and a big liver-colored dog in the foreground. The mayor appointed Etnyre as a committee of one to get information, and also to kill the dog if necessary. The children were dumb and the woman of the house had never heard of Council Bluffs or the English language. but there was no trouble them. or Council Bluffs or the English language, but there was no trouble in understanding the dog. Etnyre stepped over a five-foot barbed wire fence with ease when he came back to make his report, while the dog stopped at the fence to see what was hidden in the large piece of wearing apparel that Etnyre had given him as a compromise.

An hour later the hopes of the party were materially raised by the yound of a trivial materially raised by the sound of a railroad whistle, and the expedition boldly headed through the willows and sand in the direction the sound came from occasionally lifting the wagon and horses over ditches the road was found, and an hour later the party got on top of a hill, where the way home lay plainly before the eye. The dinner hour had long passed when the patrol wagon pulled up in front of the city building.

Wheeling's Gas Experience. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Oct. 10 .- To the Editor: Prior to 1891 nine cities in this country had entered upon the municipal ownership of gas. The statutes of this state, recognizing that the supply of light and heat is a proper exercise of municipal duty, have in express terms authorized all cities and towns desiring to do so to embark in that enterprise. But would such a course be wise? Can that be doubted if through municipal ownership a better quality of gas can be secured at a less price than is now paid? It will, therefore, be of interest as well as profit to examine the administration of this matter by the cities that have tried it. Wheeling, W. Va., is a city of some 25,000—not far from the size of this. It is located at the base of a moun-tain, and the rocky foundation makes the laying of mains very costly in comparison with the execution of such work here. In 1870 quality. Needless to say, it was furnished by a private corporation. Disgusted with the service. the the price of gas there was $3.50, and of poor bonds for the purchase of the works. regulations were inefficient and in 1879 the superintendent and secretary embezzled a their fraud. Despite this great loss and the poor management that controlled up to 1879, the price was reduced from $3.50 to their fraud. $2.80, then to $2, then to $1.80, again to $1.50, still further to $1.25, then to $1, then 75 cents, and since 1891 there has been a still further reduction in the price. The and the service extended, until their value ipon the market exceeds half a million dol-At the prices furnished the gas has not only paid the interest upon the investnent, but has paid for the works themselves, and besides has of late years been a source of revenue to the amount of thousands of dollars per annum to the city treasury. It is perfectly clear that municipal management of gas in Wheeling, though by no means an ideal one, has been far superior to that city's experience with private management.

Victims of Piles Often Lose Confidence in the Merit of Medicine and Become Hopelessly Incurable.

why is it? Simply because they have re-peatedly hit upon the wrong remedy.

After trying about half a liozen worthless lotions and salves they lose heart, give up and often refuse to try anything else. This is poor policy where future happiness and welfare are at stake. Disease is persistent and he who battles with it must also possess a good stock of pluck. Pites can be cured and without the surgeon's knife. The dis-ease will not succumb to the thousand and one so-called remedies which every druggist recommends. Most of all such remedies are merely the experiments of inexperienced drug cierks or unscrupulous dectors who have utterly failed in the practice of medicine and turn to such humbuggery as a last resort. The Pyramid Pile Cure is a scientific remed; for all forms of piles. It cures to a cer-tainty because it was formulated by skilled scientists who are daily curing those aggra-vated cases of piles and kindred disorders which defy even the highest surgical skill. It is manufactured by the Pyramid Drug Co. at Albion, Mich., and may be found in any first class drug store where honest remedies are kept and recommended. No one need fear to use this remedy. It is sound, safe and sure. If your druggist shouldn't have and sure. If your druggist shouldn't have it write to the manufacturers or ask him to write them. The remedy recommends itself when once introduced.
