The republican city convention held a brief and business-like session at Patterson hall last evening.

The several wards relieved last evening's convention of its usual exciting features. All of the ward nominations were ratified without dissent.

It took Chairman T. K. Southborough some little time to produce even a semblance of order in the hall when, at 8:25, he first tried to end the disorder.

A. P. Honckes started the nomination of Thomas by moving that J. D. Daily be made temporary chairman.

Nominations being in order for city clerk, three names were placed before the convention.

Mr. Honckes started the nomination of Beach Higby without a speech, but the speech came later on.

The first ballot settled the contest. When half the wards had been called it was seen that Mr. Higby had been nominated.

Mr. Higby took the platform in response to the enthusiastic cheering of the convention.

He thanked the convention and assured the delegates that when he was elected, he would always be an employer in his office.

How Havelall Was Turned Down. That the most carefully incubated schemes of unscrupulous politicians will sometimes go astray, was indicated by the defeat of Havelall in the First ward yesterday.

It has been a matter of common knowledge around the city hall for some days that Havelall's candidacy for a second term in the council was based upon an alleged republican ticket as the result of a tie-up made in the council on the city clerk ordinance, which was passed Tuesday night.

The republicans had only nine votes which to pass the ordinance and if Havelall should vote with the democrats as on previous occasions it would result in a tie vote and defeat the measure.

It is said that Havelall was not like a man who did not realize the strategic value of his position. Successively turned down by the democrats and the populists, a candidate on the republican ticket was unable to secure through which he could hope to sustain his close relationship to the public office.

To this end he succeeded in making a tie-up with certain alleged republicans by which the nomination was to be turned over to him. He kept his part of the agreement and the ordinance was duly passed by a majority of one vote.

George S. Lure for Representative. The democratic county central committee held a meeting last night and nominated George L. Lure of South Omaha to fill the vacancy on the legislative ticket made by the resignation of Mr. Lure.

Mr. Lure has already been nominated by the populists. Mr. Lure has been a resident of South Omaha for six years. He is a plumber.

Labour Endorses Hogan. At a meeting of the Mads City branch of the Federation of Labor last night resolutions were passed endorsing Mr. Hogan for the legislature.

Mr. Hogan has worked in the packing houses in South Omaha for the past ten years. He is president of the branch of the Federation of Labor here.

Democratic Mass Meeting. The democrats have arranged for a mass meeting in Washington hall on Monday evening. Speeches will be made by James E. Boyd, J. B. Kitchen, William S. Poppleton, Ed E. Havel, C. Miller and W. S. Felker.

The democratic clubs will be in full force. Mr. Higby took the platform in response to the enthusiastic cheering of the convention.

HONOR TO ROBERT MORRIS

WAS ONE OF THE REPUBLIC'S PILLARS

Opposed to the Revolution, His Genius Secured Its Success and Put the Government on a Business Basis—His Great Work.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Robert Morris was honored today by the dedication as a memorial to him of the old land office of the Holland purchase, built about the year 1804 and bought in 1894 by the Holland Purchase Historical society that it might be preserved as a future generation.

The chief dedicatory address was made by John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury, and final descendants of the great superintendent of finance were present among the multitude of listeners.

Among the distinguished guests present were W. Q. Gresham, secretary of state; Daniel S. Lamont, secretary of the navy; H. A. Herbert, secretary of the interior; and Postmaster General Wilson S. Bissell.

Prior to the formal exercises of dedication a parade was held, the members of the cabinet reviewing it from a stand in front of the land office.

Succeeding the review of the parade came the unveiling of the tablet over the door of the land office. This tablet was inscribed with the name of Robert Morris, 1754 to 1816.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Stephen Vincent Ryan, Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Baltimore, and an adjournment to lunch followed. At 2 p. m. the exercises in the State park opposite to the State Institute for the Blind were begun by prayer by Rev. Arthur Cleveland Coxe, bishop of the diocese of western New York.

An original poem by John H. Yates, entitled "Our Ancient Landmark," was read by the Hon. John G. Carlisle, and he addressed the assembly, giving an exhaustive history of the deeds of Robert Morris. He said:

"ROBERT MORRIS WAS. Robert Morris, Jr., as he was called, Robert Morris, Jr., was for many years one of the most conspicuous statesmen and financiers in the history of the American colonies, and to him are due the credit of other men in a civil station the people were indebted for the preservation of the revolutionary war. It is characteristic of the martial race to which we belong to appreciate the services of the man who always done the deed of a statesman, without whose cooperation and support the greatest of our nation's leaders could not have secured their triumph over a tyrant. Although a century has passed since his death, his memory is still fresh in the minds of the people of his country, and the people's appreciation of his great services is still as true as ever. He was a man who few know the place of in our history, and his life was a lesson to the people of his country. He was a man who was not only a statesman, but a patriot, and his life was a lesson to the people of his country. He was a man who was not only a statesman, but a patriot, and his life was a lesson to the people of his country.

He was a man who was not only a statesman, but a patriot, and his life was a lesson to the people of his country. He was a man who was not only a statesman, but a patriot, and his life was a lesson to the people of his country.

conformed to the wishes of Morris in respect to these two matters, he accepted the office on the 14th day of May, 1781, but he did not leave Philadelphia until the 15th of September, 1781, until he had taken charge of his office, he secured the perfectly free and property secured to the new government. The British paper currency was now rapidly disappearing from circulation, and Morris took measures to obtain a supply of specie from Havana and other places, which he accomplished by buying and selling goods. In a short time the people began to realize the benefits of the inflexible law of specie, and the quantity to transact the business of the country.
