J. F. Hunt Seriously Burned.

F. Hunt, a well known dairyman, is confined to his house in the north part of the city as the result of a bad burning he received a day or two ago. A young man employed by Hunt was pouring some oil out of gasoline lamp and carelessly let some fluid fall on Hunt's clothing. He had a ited lantern in his hand, and a later he was surrounded flames. He lay down on the ground and by rolling over and over tried quench the fire, but was unable to do so. His calls for help attracted the attention of some of his men, who extinguished the fire before the unfortunate man was fatally burned. The right side of his head is badly scorched, but the most serious of his injuries are about the limbs, the skin being removed from them below the knees. Although he is in considerable pain, Mr. Hunt thinks the burns will not result seriously.

District Court Paragraphs. The case of Maude Bryant against th Omaha & Council Bluffs Bridge company did not come to trial yesterday, as was exected, an agreement having been reached between the attorenys for a continuance until October 25. The basis of the agree-ment was a stipulation by the attorneys for the defense that the question of the com-pany's liability should be urged, the only oint at issue being the amount of the lia

A verdict was rendered in favor of the de-fendant in the case of the Central Building and Loan association against the Phoenix Insurance company. The suit was brought to recover insurance on a house destroyed by fire, the amount of the policy being $1.700. The main point of the defense was that after the insurance policy had been issued the property passed into other hands than the person owning it at the time the policy was written. The insurance company was not notified of the change of owners and no application had been made by the new owner to have the insurance policy transferred. The manner in which the Building and Loan association became involved in the suit was that they had loaned the money used in the construction of the house, and held a mortgage as collateral. The insurance company offered to settle the dispute at one time by the payment of $1,100, but the loan association jected the offer. The case will be appealed A motion for dismissal was filed by the city attorney in the case of J. B. Fulton against the city. Fulton filed a petition aljudgment for the amount of the "blackmail." A motion for a more specific statement was sustained by the court, and, as Fulton did not come to time, a dismissal is called for.

One of the Most Prominent in London Refused Drinking License.

TREE'S NEW PLAY SCORES A SUCCESS

Preparations for a Grand Season of Symphony Concerts-Ellen Terry Entirely Recovered from Her Recent Illuess.

(Copyrighted 1891 by the Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 13.-The most notable thing onals, granite cloths and all worth 65c, 75c in connection with the past theatrical week and up to $1.00. Entire lot Monday at one has been the action of the county council in refusing "a drinking auditorium" license to the Empire theater and requiring the closing of its promenades. It is an incident of the annual attack upon the music halls license by the social purity leaguers and the vigilance comittees, etc. This year the evidence against the Palace theater is mainly that two anonymous Americans have professed to have been awfully shocked at the ballet, which caused the Pall Mall Gazette to remark: "This reveals Americans in London in quite new light." Manager George Edwards, however, will not give in without making a sturdy fight. He announces that he will appeal to the county council, and that failing to obtain what he considers justice from that body, will immediately close the Empire theater, thus throwing 1,000 people out of employment just as the winter is approaching.

The Palace theater, on the other hand, has succeeded in getting its license and there was no opposition to the application of the Al-hambra for its official permission to con-tinue business as heretofore, although both of these places are considered to be equally guilty with the Empire theater in the charges brought against the latter establishment.

The kaiser has promised to be present at the opening of the Royal theater at Wiesbaden on Tuesday next. No play is produced nowadays but there is rancorous dispute as to plaguarism in connec-tion with the main incidents, but beyond newspaper warfare the matter is not allowed to go. In France, however, they are about to carry it further, and a commission of French authors is to zit some time in November authors is to all some time in November to try the question whether or not the plot of Signor Leon Cavalos' successful "Ipiglacoi" was borrowed from "La Femme de Tabarin" of Catulle Mendes. To an outsider the anger of Catulle Mendes seems superfluous as the incident of an actor killing his faithless wife in full view of the audience is very old. It occurs in "Yorick," which the late Lawrence Barrett made familiar throughout the United States, which is well known was taken from the Spanish "Drams Neuvo" of Tamalto. It also appears to have been the central scene in an old Italian drama called "La Rimina.

CAMPANI WILL SETTLE IN LONDON. Campani writes that he has made up his mind to settle in London as teacher and con-cert singer. He has been engaged for the the part in Berlioz's "Faust" at the Royal theater at Berthall on December 19. Beerbohm Tree opened the Haymarket Sun-

"Diplomacy" is neither a "gallery" nor a "pit" play, but unquestionably true. one which keeps the attention of both. The story of the drama is hinged about the illfated love of a woman, strong, passionate, vindictive, who, when she sees her lover marry another, destroys their happiness by casting suspicion, through intrigue, upon the honor of both.

The leading role, of course, is enacted by Miss Rose Coghlan, whose physical and facial qualities suit her for the part of Countess Zicka, a woman not exactly scorned, but nevertheless with proverbial "fury." Miss Coghlan's support in this great play includes Frederic de Belleville, as Henry Beauclere; John T. Sullivan, as Julian; Cecil

M. York, as Count Orloff; J. W. Shannon, as

Baron Stein; Miss Maxine Elliott, as Dora

Miss Hattle Russell, as the Marquise, and Miss Blanch Burton, as Lady Henry. On Saturday afternoon a fine presentation of Oscar Wilde's latest play, "A Woman of No Importance," is promised by this most excellent organization. The interest aroused by this work of Wilde's is somewhat sur-prising. In London it attracted remarkable audiences, and the same may be said of New York and Boston, where the papers commented upon the intellectual gatherings

By request, Miss Coghlan will give "Forget-Me-Not" on Saturday night. "Rush City," by Gus Heege, the author of "You Youson," will be produced at Boyd's theater on this (Sunday) evening. The action of "Rush City" begins in the top story New York office of John J. Rush, a speculator, who is promoting the new Oklahoma city, named after himself, and described by him in the most glowing terms. He is aided by his typewriter girl in dedging his creditors. He sells lots to various people who have reasons for emigrating to the new metrojol's, a jay rainmaker, a tough gamb'er a swell pastor, a dude, a practical politician a Hoston school marm, a lively young Chi cago woman, who is seeking a divorce. Be sleged by his creditors, Rush in desperation sets fire to his own office and puts out the fire, while they are clambering pell mel down the fire escape. The second act finds Rush and his emigrants on the barren, shanty-dotted Oklahoma sits of the "city." which on paper looked like a second Chicago. The population of "Rush City" is augmented by the arrival of a vociferous cowboy and a theatrical manager, who has been acting as mayor of the adjacent been acting as mayor of the adjacent metropolis of Cactusville. The citizens resent Rush's endeavors to control the tion, whereupon Rush plans to steal and remove the county seat, in which project he is aided by the timely arrival of a cyclone, which is shown on the stage with great effect. The third act passes at Cactusville, whither some of the person ages have been borne by the cyclone, other by the limited express, "drawn by a mule. The cyclone and the removel have produce very indicrous complications. Opportunitie for mechanical effects and scenic displa songs and dances are given, and a series of humorous animate art pictures. The company include such well known artists as Mathews and Bulger, T. Edward Hall, Adelaide Ran-dall, Merri Osbourne, Gussie Hart, Josie Claf-lin and Sadie Claffin.

At the Fifteenth Street theater for four nights and Wednesday matinee, commencing with matinee today, Stair & Nicolai's comedy, "A Cracker Jack," will receive its firs tells a story that is highly exciting. I opens at Beechmere, on the Hudson, an es tate that had been left by Mr. Chandler charge of his steward, Thomas Carrington Hayden Coffin will give a short series of Chandler, while abroad with his son and only heir, Lawrence, dies in Egypt, and later Carrington hears of the son's death. virtue of long and undisputed possession, he omes to look upon the estate as his own nd through the machinations of Brooks Brown, a supposed friend, he loses consider in speculation. After years Lawrence Chandler returns to claim his own: Carring ton is about to make a clean breast of his shortage and attempt reparation when Brooks Brown appears, and a series of complications arises, involving Carrington, his daughter Christine, Chandler and Brown. A tragedy is averted by the timely appearance of Sam

Derrick, a gawky law student, in love with Christine. The succeeding acts are laid in Oklahoma the Carringtons are followed by Brown, who is determined to gain the hand of Christine. By artful subterfuge he fastens the crime of stage robbery upon Carrington and induces the vigilantes to lynch him. The arrival of Chandler, the interference of Derrick and the aid of Sheriff Jorden frus trate Brown's designs, but not without everal exciting scenes, including a clever fistic encounter and later a novel sword com bat between Chandler and Brown, lynching beene, in which the victim is actually strung up; also a tar-and-feather episode, in which the villian gets a free ride on the proverbial rail. This brief outline does not touch on th several subplots, ner give an inkling of the numerous naturally brought out thrilling situations and artistically contrived comedy complications. Nor does it more than him at the pure heart interest, the genuine heroic entiment and natural comedy characteri zations in which the play abounds. Joe Ott, the sepulchral comedian, who has mounted the top pinnacle of success in his peculiar line of work, will explade a new satire by Franklyn W. Lee, entitled "The Star Gazer," and this new farcical fun extractor will be presented at the Fifteenth Street theater for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing Thursday, October 18 An exceptionally strong farce comedy or ganization has been engaged to present this latest and exceedingly funny skit, which incindes a beyy of pretty girls.

Conroy & Fox, who will be here next Sunday at the Fifteenth Street theater, at the head of their own company, in "Hot To-males," a musical comedy, the story of which City, will be remembered as the clever Irish comedians with the Howard Atheneum company last season. Mr. Conroy, as his name will indicate, is a pure-blooded Irishman, and is noted for being the only Irishman in the city of New York who can vote as he pleases without Dick Croker pulling the string. He studied Irish character among the 'longshoremen about the docks of the city of New York and the character he assumes is that of Irish sailor, Jerry Flannagan, which fits his street broker, carries the burden of the play and Miss St. George Hussey, as his sister "just landed." makes an elegant foil for his medy abilities. Among the company are such well known people as Kitty Allen, Josie La Fontaine, May Allen, Evellyn Paddock Arlie Latham, the clown of the base

Rose Coghlan's Lates: Trlumph. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 13 .- (Special Telegram.)-Miss Rose Coghlan was the re cipient this evening of a serenade by Danz's famous Mendelssohn orchestra. The serenade was given in the rotunda of the West hotel as a testimonial from her many friends of Albert Chevalier, the famous "Coster" their appreciation of her fine work as an singer, was married on Monday last to Florrie artist, on the occasion of her final performacy between the company of the opera house was crowded by one of the most enthusiastic audiences ever seen within a Minneapolis theater. Drs. Copeland and Shepard Caring for Sufferers at a Merely Nominal Expense and All Medicines Free.

So far from there being any abatement or any clear signs of abatement in the recent wide prevalence of all manner of climatic and catarrhal maladies, there is no question but that the past week has been worse than the preceding. Drs. Copeland and Shepard, who are perhaps closest to the people generwho are pernaps closest to the people generally, in their professional capacity, have no hositation in declaring the maladies referred to now definitely and decidedly epidemic. And it is needless to add that family physiclans of large practice, professionally familiar with climatic action on the human system, and personally conversant present situation, confirm the statement as

Nor is the absence of any alarming present increase in the death rate of the city any evidence to the contrary. The curse of the maladies now prevalent does not lie in their immediate or early fatality. The dan-ger and the horror of them is in a postponed fatality-in their innevitable liability to be come settled and chronic, with no other prospect if neglected, than that of a long period of suffering.

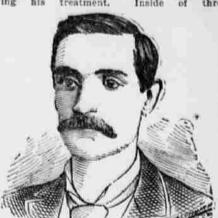

Drs. Copeland and Shepard have had a vast experience in the diagnosis and handling of these diseases and their subtle complications. and their methods reflect the present advanced state of medical science
