THINK HOLCOMB UNFAIRLY TREATED

They Insist that His Name Shall Be Followed by the Names in Brackets of the Parties Nominating Him.

LINCOLN, Oct. 26 .- (Special.) - This afternoon J. A. Edgerton, secretary of the peopin's independent party, applied to the district court for a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to change the form of the ticket so that the name of an endorsed candidate shall have the parties he represents bracketed. As the ticket now reads the name of Silas A. Holcomb is followed by the words "Democrat-People's Independent" on one line, and the petitioners demand that the ticket shall read:

indulging in some speculation as to how the illiterate voter is going to discover his particular brand of politics, as, for instance, in the case of the secretary of state, whether he is a "democrat" or a "straight democrat."

The clerks and typewriters in the office of the secretary of state have been busy today in preparing and gending out to the county clerks of the state the official ballots. On the sample sent out there are eight varieties of politics, as follows: Prohibitionists, re-publicans, democrats, straight democrats, democrat. mendes, indemodent members in democrat-people's independent, people's in-dependent, free silver democrat-people's in-dependent and one democrat-by-petition-republican in the person of Matt Daugherty. IN THE COURTS.

IN THE COURTS. Judge Tibbets and a jury were engaged to-day in hearing the case of George Bush against the Lincoln Street Railway company. The plaintiff says that one day in July. IS91, he got on a Tenth street car and when the conductor came around after the fares he tendered 25 cents for six tickets. The con-ductor refused to have it that way, demand-ing a straight 5 cent fare. Plaintiff alleges that the employes then put him off the car with great force and violence, causing him much pain.

The company admits all the facts alleged by plaintiff except as to the injuries. They say Bush was put off the car with as little force as possible. Bush sues for $1,000.

LITERATURE OF THE JEW.

First of a Course of Lectures by Rev. Leo M. Franktin.

There was an unusually large attendance st Temple Israel last night on the occasion of a lecture by Rev. Leo Franklin on "The Literature of the Jew.

In discussing the subject, Dr. Franklin said that it was astonishing after so many centuries of persecution the Jews were enabled to stand firm and lift up their voices in praise of their fathers. It was also aston-ishing that they had been able to retain their individuality through all of the trying times of the past. He was glad that they had not succurated to the foe, but instead had continued to advance step by step in all of the arts and the sciences. This was someof the arts and the sciences. This was some-thing that was grand to contemplate and it was apparent that in the struggle for life the Jews had not given themselves up en-tirely to the material things of earth. In all The case will be heard at 11 o'clock to-morrow. These who have seen the ballot have been incluiging in some speculation as to how the differate voter is going to discover his par-becular brand of politics, as, for instance, in the case of the secretary of state, whether the specifies of the secretary of state whether the specifies of the secretary of state of the secretary tended, belonged to a lower order, mentally, and could never reach a high plane of civilization. When the persecution against the Jews was most bitter, Rev. Franklin urged, then they soared to the most lofty intellectual heights, as the writings of Issiah and the psalmists would bear testimony. The natural tendency was for high and noble things, and among the old Jewish writers there were many who wrote upon subjects aside from ethics and theology. The bible was the foundation of all literature, it was the basis of every legal and moral code and it was the production of Jewish writers. tion Jewish writers.

While this was going on, destruction was being wrought and Jerusalem was being invaded by the Roman foc. The temple, the state house of the assembly, was laid low and the national life was cut to the heart. There was weep-ing and mourning, but at a later period Israel developed again until she turned out scholars who were learned in religion, ethics, science and art until the depth of knowledge was something that was marvelous. There were something that was marvelous. There were universities, schools of medicine and music. Learning was scattered broadcast to such an extent that in Spain, where the Hebrews were numerous, from the eighth to the sixteenth century, there was more literature than in all of the rest of the country put together Looking down the aisles of time Mr. Pank-lin insisted that during the reign of the Crusaders Jewish literature made many rapid strides in Italy, Germany and southern Eu-rope until it had become a thing that wise
