Reorganized Literary Societies. The literary society of the High school has been reorganized for the work of the year. There are about 300 members, and the rell is divided into sections numbering about forty. Each section is under the immediate supervision of one of the teachers, and literary exercises are held each Friday afternoon in the various rooms, with about twenty on each program, making each pupil appear twice a month. The best of each section appear in the main room before the combined sections, and this is considered a great honor, particularly by those chosen. There is an intense political activity in the society along about the time of election of officers. Each candidate has his or her friends, and for several days before the election there is scheming, wire pulling. blocking of voters and other maneuvers which would probably give points to ward politicians who think they know all there is to know in that line. The contest this year was no less spirited than usual, and out of it all the following were chosen: President, Berns Sawyer; vice president, Charles Smith; secretary, Miss Grace Pullen. The society has recently adopted colors, and the ribbons of rainbow hue are now to be seen in great plenty on the streets any

This provision would make it for the interest of labor organizations to incorporate under the law and make the committee a practical board of conciliation. It would also tend to create confidence in the committee and to give to that body in every hearing the benefit of practical knowledge of the situation on both

Third-The committee does not feel warranted, with the study it has been able to give the subject, to recommend positively the establishment of a license system, by which all the higher employes of railways engaged in interstate commerce should be licensed under due and proper examination, but it would recommend, and most urgently, that this subject be carefully and fully considered by the proper committee of congress. Many railroad employes, and some railroad officials examined, and many others who filed their suggestions in writing, are in favor of some such system.

1. The committee would suggest the con-sideration by the states of the adoption of some system of conciliation and arbitration like that, for instance, in Massachusetts. That system might be reinforced by addi-tional provisions giving the board of arbitra-tion power to investigate all strikes, whether requested to do so or not, and the questions might be so considered as to give labor organizations a standing before the law as heretofore suggested for trades unions.

2. Contracts requiring men to agree not to join labor organizations or to leave them as conditions of employment should be made illegal, as is already done in some states, (1.) The commission urges employers to recognize labor organizations; that such organizations be dealt with through representatives with special reference to conciliation or arbitration when difficulties arise. It is satisfied fied that employers should come in closer touch with labor and should recognize that while the interests of capital and labor are while the interests of capital and labor are not identical they are reciprocative.

(2.) The committee is satisfied that if employers everywhere will agree to act in concert with labor, that if wages can be raised under economic conditions they be raised voluntarily, and that when there are reductions reasons be given, much friction can be avoided. It is also satisfied that if employers will consider employees as theroughly essenand canvassed the votes cast for members will consider employes as thoroughly essential to industrial success as capital and thus take labor into consultation at the proper time much of the severity of strikes can be tempered and their number reduced.

The most important feature about that very common complaint, catarrh in the head, is its tendency to develop into some other more serious and adagerous disease. The foul matter dropping from the head into the bronchial tubes or lungs is very liable to lead to bronchitis or consumption, that destroyer which causes more deaths in this country than any other disease. As catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do but little good. WHAT IS THE CAUSE?

MANY INVALIDS ANXIOUS TO KNOW

The Catarrhal Element in Chronic Troubles and Mastered in Order to Give Relief and Great numbers of people suffer from the malign poisons of catarrh, as from other subtle chronic maladies, without any correct or definite idea of the nature of their affliction. Many diseases, known under various specific names, are really of a catarrhal origin and nature. Every part of the mucus lining of the nose, throat, ears, eyes, head, lungs, stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and bladder are subject to disease and blight by catarrh. The proper course for sufferers is this: Come to the office for free examination and trial treatment. The rich and poor alike are welcomed by Drs. Copeland and Shipard, if you live away from the city send for question blank and ask for mail treatment. In either instance, and whether by mail or office treatment, the patient may be assured of the speedlest relief and cure possible to enlightened medicine.

Mr. Alfred Cornish, 2415 Erskin street, an employe of the Woolworth Saddlery com-pany, talks to the point as follows;

"My catarrhal trouble dates back about seven years. I could feel it all through me. I seemed to have a continual cold in the head, with a painful pressure on top and through the temples. The nose and mauth were full of mucus that stopped me up in the head. The dropping of this secretion into my stomach disordered that organ so that I became dyspeptic. Soon I became languid, weak, without ambition, and in a word, "run down" completely. I felt that the real cause was the catarrhal poison in me and after a course of treatment with

G. H. BARTHEL, DeWitt, Neb.

'I am sixty years old and for eight years have been suffering from catarrhal poisoning. For a long time the trouble bothered my head with the usual symptoms of obstruction and headache. I found there was no such thing as comfort and cleanliness in the head while this nasty disease was present. Working down, the all ment iffected my stomach and bowels. To cat like other folks was out of the question. I felt no hunger and if I did cat the distress was terrible, for gas and sourness followed with severe pain and heart disturbance. After the disease got a good hold I became wakeful at night with frightful dreams and nervous worry. It seemed as if my system was reeking with poisons, for the heart, brain and stomach were all going wrong. Then when la grippe came on me all my symptoms became more violent. The exhaustion and suffering were so great that I knew I could not pall through without a supreme effort of medical skill in my behalf. The Copeland & Shepard treatment just fitted my case, for after a thorough diagnosis by a wonderfully arranged symptom blank I began the medicines, which did me more good than any I had used before and I have taken many in my time. Dr. Shepard did pull me through and cured me by just that familing which my case needed, and I will do all in my power to give him credit for his splendid work."
