Mrs. De Hans is the wife of the man after whom Detective Malone recently started to Texas. He is charged by Abbott Bros. with having disposed of mortgaged property, a full account of which appeared in this morning's Bee. The probable cause of the despondency of Mrs. De Haas is the impending notoriety which must follow the return of her husband with the detective.

Lilly McNeil went to a room in the Hall-Lansing block, and was soon afterward found in a state of frightful illness. It is said that Lilly had quarreled with her lover, a young business man, and sought the young man's room in the block and swallowed eight grains of morphine. A physician was soon in attendance and Lilly was on the street

Never before were there so many glee clubs and quartets in service. The acknowledged leaders of this work were the Arion quartet of York, pletely destroyed and the stores underneath under the direction of Prof. J. A. Parks, This excellent quartet has used only its own selections, which were composed by the feader, Prof. Parks, and which pieces were used by the best clubs throughout the state. It was organized about five years ago, and since that has sung in nearly every city in the state. The political work of the body was first noticed during the campaign of 1892. During the late campaign the members have attended over fifty meetings. It was a fact that their appearance was the sign for enthusiastic demonstrations, and vere invariably encored until they refused to make a reappearance. The quartet is composed of Prof. J. A. Pushed by Bishop in a Holcomb Wheelba row a Distance of Two Miles. One of the most novel election bets of the season was paid off and settled last night, to the amusement and satisfaction of a large crowd of Helcomb men.

Prior to the election, J. W. Bishop and E. D. Cox, both doing business on Sherman avenue made a bet. Bishop was willing to and I stake any and everything that Tom Majors would win in the gubernatorial race, while Cox was just as sure that Judge Holcomb would come under the wire several laps ahead of his competitor. With this feeling taking possession of the two minds, the two men made the bet, the terms of which were that the loser should give the winner a wheel-barrow ride from Locust street to Sixteenth and Farnam streets. There was also a side bet between Joe Redman, backing Holcomb, and Henry Rachman, standing up for Majors. The condition of this bet was that the loser should precede the wheelbarrow and toot a hern during the entire journey. It having been settled to the satisfaction of all that Judge Holcomb had been elected, Cox and Redman declared last night that the bets should be paid. Bishop and Rachman pro-tested for a time, but at last they gave in, and at 8 o'clock last night the procession started on the trip, preceded by some fifty admiring Holcomb men, carrying torches and blowing horns. The wheelbarrow was decked with flags, while upon the vehicle rode Cox in all his glory, Rachman marching ahead and blowing a horn that reached out into the night a distance of some ten feet. Bishop blowed and puffed like a porpoise, but shortly after 9 o'clock he deposited his man Sixteenth and Farnam streets intersection, having covered a distance of nearly

A big horse race is to take place on the stage of the Lincoln theater next week, when Al Spink's celebrated comedy drama has its first Chicago production. That grand old racer, Freeland, famous for his great turf victory of 1886, will head the equine cast, and six other thoroughbreds, Cigale, All Ablaze, Arawan, Ianthe, Miss Price and Remedy, will take part in the mimic contest.

Colonel McCauil, who died suddenly Greensborough, N. C., on Tuesday last, was born in Scotland and went with his parents to Virginia in 1857, when he was 11 years old. At the time of John Brown's raid young McCaull, then 13 years old, was living at Harper's Ferry, and joined a party that waded across the Potomac with the intention of cutting off the retreat of old Ossawatomie, in which they succeeded. Three daughters survive him, his wife having preceded him about eighteen months ago.

One of the actors in "The County Fair' remarked to an associate at the Barker hotel breakfast table yesterday morning that the dramatic criticism in The Bee seemed to mention everybody from the property man up, except himself. The friend addressed very aptly replied: "You could hardly ex-pect to receive favorable mention when you waylay a dramatic reporter for favorable puffery." There is a coldness in "The County Fair" company because of the impolitic re-mark of one actor to another.
