ANOTHER JURY FOR PAYNE.

Discovery is Made that One Joror Who Ha

Been Sifting is Not a Citizen. Sam Payne's trial on the charge of having was discovered that one of the jurors was not a citizen of the United States. The jury was discharged and the work of selecting a new jury commenced.

When the court convened yesterday Judge Scott announced that he had been informed that one of the jurymen in the Payne case was not a citizen of Nebraska. Page case was not a citizen of Nebraska, nor of the United States, and was, therefore, not qualified to sit on a jury in a criminal or civil case. He asked the county attorney what he proposed to do in the matter.

Mr. Kaley was very much up a stump. He besitated a moment, and then said he saw nothing better to do than to proceed with the case.

with the case. "Proceed with the case?" inquired the court in surprise. "You cannot do that, Mr. County Attorney. You must show your hand.

"But I want you to raise the point your-self," retorted the court. "I want you to file your motion right away. This is no time to get weak-kneed. I want you to show your hand and give us a square deal. I told you last night that one of the jurors had said he was not a citizen of the United States. You should have gone to work on the case and should have been ready for this emergency this morning."

Mr. Kaley did not yet see his way clear to announce his plan of action, and the judge took the matter in his own hand, by placing the juror in question on the rack. The juror acknowledges the name of Peter Swanson, but further than that the evidence not really understood the import of the oath he was taking. He said he had lived in this country eleven years, but had taken no steps toward taking out his naturalization papers, and still owed allegiance to the king of Sweden, of which country he was a native

Judge Scott questioned the juror closely as to whether he had voted or not, but he stoutly maintained that he had not. His name, if taken from the voters' list, must belong to some other fellow, in which case belong to some other fellow, in which case he would give it up without a protest. He wasn't particular about the name anyway, and was willing to do anything to help the court out of trouble. After Swanson's remarkable lack of information had been duly ahown, Judge Scott asked the county attorney if he was ready to take action in the case. Mr. Kaiey stated that the question was an important one, and he did not feel like taking action on the spur of the foreigners on the jury, and i why not with six or twelve. It won't do.'

Mr. Kaley asked time to consider the question, and the court reluctantly granted recess until 2 o'clock.

When court convened at 2 o'clock Judge Scott read the record in the case and ordered Swanson dismissed from the jury and the jury discharged. The defendant's attorney filed a plea in bar, taking the ground that the prisoner's life had been placed in jeopardy once and that he could not be again subjected to a trial for murder on the original complaint. To this the county attorney filed a demurrer, which was sustained, and the work of calling a new jury was commenced. It is thought that the balance of the week will be FREMONT, Nov. 20 .- (Special.) -- Mission services, to continue ten days, commenced at consumed in the selection of a jury.

Swanson was released by Judge Scott late in the afternoon. The court had at first or dered the county attorney to prosecute Swan-son for perjury, but afterwards recalled his instructions, when he had talked with Swan-son and found that the statements made by that individual had been under a misappre nension, owing to his inability to speak English or understand it.

Number 3 is a notice from the Japanese government that it intends sending troops to Corea to suppress the rebellion. In number 4 China "shows her teeth" for the first time. It is a letter from the Tsung-ii-Yamen, the Chinese cabinet, to the Jap-anese minister at Peking. The latter expresses surprise that Japan should send troops to Corea when it has not been so requested by Corea. It adds the following significant language:

CHINA SHOWS ITS HAND. "The sole object of your country in send-ing troops is evidently to protect the legation, consulates and commercial people in Corea, and consequently it may not be necessary on the part of your country to dispatch a great number of troops, and, besides, as no application therefor has been made by Corea. is requested that no troops shall proceed to the interior of Corea, so that they may not cause alarm to her people. And, moreover since it is feared that in the event of the soldiers of the two nations meeting on the way cases of unexpected accidents might occur, owing to the difference of language and military etiquette, we beg to call your attention in addition that you will be good enough to telegraph the purport of this communication to the government of Japan Number 5 is the Japanese answer to the Tsung-li-Yamen, in which Japan also shows her teeth. It says: "As to the number of troops to be sent into Cores, the Japanese government is compelled to exercise its own udgment. It is published in full as a part of the proceedings of the Japanese diet which have been received by the Japanese legation. The gist of the controversy has already been made known to the public, but the official letters between China and Japan give the first account of the sharp diplomatic fencing between the countries up to a few days before the war. The letters run from June 7 to July 14, and are numbered from one to nine.

Miss Acherman was by vote made a member of the convention and was escorted to the platform. When the escorting party reached the platform Miss Willard took a valise from Miss Acherman's hand and said holding it up for the inspection of the audience: "This is the bag that has traveled 150,000 miles in the last seven years.
