General Passenger Agent E. L. Lomax of the Union Pacific has returned from a seven weeks' trip over the western branches of the system. Most of his time was spent in Portland, where he was in almost daily conference with Receiver Mc Noill of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company over the differences between the Union Pacific and the Navigation company regarding the basis of divisions to be paid the latter company by the former for the haul from Huntington west. Mr. Lomax in summing up the situation west said business was exceedingly dull and thought the outlook was not particularly bright for any increase.

One portion of the form is presented to the passenger, while the other is held by the baggage agent and is known as the "agent's stub," which is ramitted to the auditor.

The passenger to get his baggage must present his coupon and his local check, which have been placed on the free baggage allowed under the Nebraska statutes. There can be no collusion under these circum-stances, and if the passinger is overcharged the railroad company gets the amount indi-cated in the excess baggage form, not the baggage agent. If the amount is less than the sum the baggage agent should have collected he will have to make it up to the auditor. Under these conditions he said that it would seem impossible for the traveling man to get the best of the company ex-cept in the question of weighing, which baggage men say is next to impossible, for the baggage is checked back on the agent issuing the excess baggage checks, and if it is found the weights do not tally the original agent is held responsible for the

The importance of this decision consists in the fact that the purchaser of the stocks ordered to be sold would thereby obtain the central of the English company, which holds and owns the eatire stack of the Alabama Great Southern railway and a majority of the stock of the Cincinnati, New Orleans &

Texas Pacific railway.

The parties to the litigation were the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway com-pany, who are the real substantial owners of the stock represented by Henry A. Taylor, while the minority of the bonds are owned and controlled in the interest of the Southern Railway company. It will follow that if the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway company shall be the highest bidder at the sale of the stocks so ordered sold their control of the line of road from Cincinnati to New Orleans will be secured. On the other hand, if the Southern Railway company shall become the purchaser of the said stocks it will, through them, obtain the entire de-nomination of the aforesaid line from Cin-

EDWARD HIGGINS KILLED.

Shoots Hinwelf Accidentable with a Revolver in the Dark

Edward B. Higgins, the 18-year old son of Mrs. Anna O. Higgins, widow of the late The night shortly after 11 o'clock at his home, dental discharge of a revolver. He had arisen from bed in the dark to get the revolver with the intention of shooting at some barking dogs. The revolver was lying on a shelf in a closet, probably with the muzzle pointing outward, and being in the dark and half asleep Higgins evidently acci-ently discharged it as he grasped it.

The bullet entered the center of the fore head, just below the hair, and could be felt in the back of the head. He was found in a crouching position at the threshold of the closet. He had pulled down several articles from the shelf upon himself. Both his hands were badly powder stained.

A VICTORY FOR PASKOLA

Eminent Experts and a Jury of Representative Citizens.

The suit brought by Ohio's food commissioner against a Cincinnati druggist for selling Paskola, on the grounds that it was nothing but glucose, resulted in a great vic-

HERE THEY GO! LOOK AT 'EM!! Palmer Cox's Queer People

Racing on a Bicycle!!!

The thousand and one Pranks, Comic Adventures, and Mischievous Escapades that Palmer Cox, in his flights of imagination, takes his Queer People through are wonderful in their variety, and most charming in their likeness to the exuberant fancies of childhood; and yet, in every thrilling story of adventure and exciting incident, the sweet sunshine of kindness is always present, and, while captivated with the fun, unconsciously the heart of youth is inspired with pure and good impulses.
