PURIFYING BALDWIN'S BARN

Lucky's Stable Boss and Trainer Warned Off Bay District Track. J. CKEY C U3 STEWARDS MAKE A RULING. Count Not Secure Conclusive Evidence, but Not Enough to Justify the Action—One Important Question Remains Unanswered.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—After several days of investigation William Brien, trainer for Lucky Baldwin, and Willis Duff, stable foreman, have been warned off the Bay District track by the board of stewards of the California Jockey club. The men were not ruled off, but were simply told they could never do business in San Francisco again. Not enough evidence could be gotten together to show that the men had actually done any crooked work, but there was a strong suspicion which could not be overcome that they had offered to do crooked work for certain bookmakers. Brien and Duff did not work together, but operated at cross purposes. The question was, was Rey de Santa Anita pulled in the first two races he started there will probably never be answered, but there will always be a strong suspicion that he was.

SOME MORE AFTERTHOUGHTS. Beatrice Has Her Interests in the Antispy on the Late Game at Lincoln. BEATRICE, Nov. 26.—To the Sporting Editor of The Bee: Beatrice people would hardly think that the "wall of the de-feated" from Ashland was the same as the statements therein were not so rankly untrue that they ought not to stand uncorrected.

THE JUSTICE OF THE PEACE. The justice of the peace Mr. "Jim" Johnston is most rank. Mr. Johnston is a good fellow in fact but he has a bad temper. He has taught the boys "stugging" or "punching" and has been known to hit a man a whole untrue and uncalled for charge. It seems quite probable that the serious matter of the Ashland players in which he dealt to the fact that he continued to play after he had been hurt, instead of giving away all his money and going home, as he had to have done, rather than play on while in doubt as to whether he was hurt or not.

THE ONLY "DISCREET" FEATURE OF THE GAME WAS THE RUSHING OF THE CROWD ON THE BEATRICE HAD TWO FINE END RUNS STOPPED IN THIS WAY, BOTH OF WHICH SEEMED LIKELY TO YIELD TOUCHDOWNS. The Ashland correspondent is very unfair in his remarks on the Ashland players. Mr. Johnston has been their friend in many a game, and was so in the Lincoln game. He was not the referee in disputed points and he was clearly shown, by wronging the Beatrice team, and do yet. They all know that Ashland's team, while nearly all technically admissible under the rules, was not properly a high school team, and they should have known that.

BUFFALO, Nov. 27.—One of the most scientific fights ever seen in Buffalo was witnessed tonight when Solly Smith of California and Oscar Gardner, the Omaha kid, met in the rooms of the old Buffalo Athletic club in a fifteen-round go. The men were evenly matched and it is hard to call what the final outcome of the match would have been had not Smith lost his head and been knocked out by Gardner, who regained his feet after a knockdown.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Quarrel with Willy Settled on Terms Proposed by Himself. OLD CLAIMS MATERIALLY PARED DOWN. In Return He Gets Lighting Contract for Three Years—Why Evans Does Not Issue Certificate to Beech Highy as City Clerk.

The monopoly which has characterized the sessions of the city council during the past few weeks was succeeded by a different order of things last night. Surprises were the order of the evening, and it was one of the liveliest business sessions of the year.

When the council convened Wheeler passed around a box of cigars in honor of his 60th birthday, and during the early part of the session the council declared a recess and re-arranged the agenda. The council then met and talked handsomely. Hassall made a few remarks, during which he congratulated the members on the Fourth ward on his successful completion of three score years and his record as a member of the city council. He concluded by presenting him with a handsome gold-headed cane, which bore the inscription "Presented to Daniel H. Wheeler, a loyal friend, by the members of the Omaha city council and other officials, November 27, 1894."

Major Wheeler acknowledged the gift with considerable feeling, and after a season of general congratulation the council settled down to business. A proposition from the Thomson-Houston company looking towards a settlement of the long pending controversy between the city and the company claiming that it has furnished a proposition was the result of a conference between Mr. Wiley and various city officials which has been in progress for some time. It was tacitly agreed to before it was presented to the council. Mr. Wiley's proposition was:

MR. WILEY'S PROPOSITION. You have under consideration at this time the proposition for lighting the streets of Omaha, submitted November 6, 1894, and among which is a provision for $100 per light per annum. We understand that the city is desirous of entering into the contract, so that the bid of this company is the one to be accepted. There has been for many months a controversy between your city and the Thomson-Houston company, the city claiming that the company has furnished a full and satisfactory service. The company has produced proof that the amount of electricity consumed by arc lamps is the same as it is in the case of incandescent lamps. The company has in good faith and in fact carried out its obligation to said city to the satisfaction of the city. The company has with held payment for the service performed for the month of October, and from February to October, 1894, inclusive, and is now indebted to the city for $11,622.50. This company is desirous of ending the long controversy between the city and the Thomson-Houston company, and for that purpose respectfully submits the following proposition to the city. The company will cancel the contract of November 6, 1894, covering 100 arc lamps at $125 per annum each, so that it shall be as if the contract had never been made. The company will pay to the city $11,622.50, the amount of the unpaid bills, and from July 1, 1894, to November 1, 1894, in the sum of $11,622.50.

The company will further lower its bid to $125 per lamp, under a new contract, to begin January 1, 1895, and to operate on the same terms as the present contract. The company will pay to the city the amount of the unpaid bills, and from July 1, 1894, to November 1, 1894, in the sum of $11,622.50. Another Bill Rejected. DENVER, Nov. 27.—Bicyclist J. D. Parke of this city in an official trial has reduced the world's class A record for one mile standing start, unpaced, from 2:22 to 2:19 4-5. In doing this he has broken the record for one-third and three-quarters of a mile.

Shawler Averts Defeat. NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Albin and Shawler played the twelfth game of the chess match, and the game resulted in a draw after fifty-seven moves. Albin played a French defense. The score now stands: Albin, 4; Shawler, 6; draws, 12.

Maher Will Put Up the Money. BOSTON, Nov. 27.—Manager Quilly, who is looking after the interests of Paddy Maher, states that he will be ready on Friday next to put up $1,000 to cover the amount deposited by Corbett last week to match Maher against Steve O'Donell.

DEPUTY BLOCKED THE SCHEME. His Effort to Tilt the Robbers, However, ARMORE, I. T., Nov. 27.—Last Friday George Isaacs, a stock man living in the western part of the Chicassaw nation, expressed himself from Kansas City two packages said to contain $25,000. The packages were addressed to Canadian, Tex. About thirty minutes after the arrival of the train bearing the packages four robbers rode up to the express car and demanded the money. The packages were opened and found to contain $25,000. The robbers were identified as Isaacs and a friend. The three fled in an easterly direction, leaving the fourth man, who was armed, to hold the balance due by your city for electric light.

WINTER WHEAT SUFFERING FROM DROUGHT. ABILENE, Kan., Nov. 27.—Reports from all parts of central Kansas say that the continued drought has seriously affected the winter wheat. The past month's continued dry weather has killed a considerable portion of it in many fields and all is suffering severely. Heavy rain would be necessary to bring it through. Further west the injury will go into winter in worse shape than in several years. Even here exceptionally favorable winter weather is necessary to an average condition next spring.

MINUTE COMPANIES DISMISSED IN DISGRACE. SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 27.—A resolution of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company is trying to convince a jury in Judge Ambrose's court that the city of Omaha owes it $110,000. The old Metropolitan Lighting company, which used to be in the gasolite lighting business, assigned a claim against the city for that amount to the Standard Oil company. The city paid the money out for labor and work to keep up the lighting after the collapse of the contractors.

PIGEONS THAT WOULD COME BACK. DENTON, Nov. 27.—Two homing pigeons sold by F. H. Hayes of this place to a fancier of McKeesport, Pa., three months ago have been found by Mr. Hayes in his loft. The birds had been kept shut up at McKeesport until a few days ago. They were then liberated and soon started for their home, reaching here on Saturday. The distance is about 100 miles.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

read, and with one or two exceptions referred to various committees. The contract for supplying ice was let to the Kimball ice company for 20 cents per 100 pounds. The only other bidder was the South Omaha Ice company, which offered 27 1/2 cents per 100 pounds. The Evening Bee was the only bidder for the city advertising. The figures submitted were: For first insertion, 27 cents per copy; second insertion, 25 cents; third insertion, 20 cents; all subsequent insertions, 17 1/2 cents. The bid was accepted and the city attorney was instructed to draw up the contract.

The bid of the Omaha Gas Manufacturing company to furnish 800 or less gas lamps at $25 each per year for three years was also accepted. Bids for furnishing abstracts, cement, pipe, cement, horse feed and other supplies were referred for investigation.

The bids of Klapp & Bartlett, Ross Printing company and the Printing company on the city printing were referred to the committee on printing and the comptroller. Six bids on lumber were also referred for tabulation.

HIGHLY COMPLAINS OF EVANS. A communication from City Clerk-elect H. H. Evans conveyed the information that City Clerk Evans had persistently refused to issue his certificate of election as required by the charter. Wheeler moved that the clerk be instructed to issue the certificate forthwith, and Holmes offered an amendment referring the communication to the committee on city officers. The committee on city officers reported that it was not acting on his own responsibility, but under legal advice that he could not legally issue the certificate. Holmes' amendment was accepted on condition that the committee report at the next meeting. It is understood that the position taken by Mr. Evans is that he is not a clerk, but a member of the city council, and that he is not acting on his own responsibility, but under legal advice that he could not legally issue the certificate.

A place of ancient history was brought to light when Wheeler moved that the committee on city officers be instructed to consider a document which was referred to that committee on February 13, 1894. This was a petition from property owners on Seaward street, asking to be reimbursed for a grading tax amounting to $1,740, by virtue of an understanding which they claimed to have had with the city. The committee on city officers reported that it was not acting on his own responsibility, but under legal advice that he could not legally issue the certificate.

Backed a resolution that the charter amendment committee be asked to recommend an amendment increasing the amount which could be expended by the mayor for any single purpose from $200 to $1,000. After some discussion the resolution was referred back to the member without action.

The comptroller and the city attorney were directed by resolution to prepare a contract with the Manchester Manufacturing company for the purchase of 100 arc lamps. An important resolution was introduced by Chairman Burkley of the finance committee which provided for taking up the following amounts from the 10 per cent reserve collected for the purpose of paying and distributing them among the funds named:

General fund $2,204.76
Water rent 2,519.84
Fire 1,742.47
Library 2,326.20
Fire 1,742.47
Curbing, gutting and cleaning 2,026.20
Sewer maintaining 3,192.19
Lighting 2,198.45
Total $13,252.67

This amount has been held in reserve by Mr. Burkley during the year and has not been considered in liquidating the condition of the funds. It represents the collections of the 10 per cent reserve since January 1, 1893, and was not reported sooner for fear it would be considered a surplus and would produce a more liberal expenditure than would be the case if the attention of the council was not called to the fund available until the year when it was needed. The most good in relieving the general deficiency. It is believed that with this additional resource the city will be in a condition to meet the year without serious embarrassment.

MEADOWS ON TRIAL. CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Charles J. Meadows and Frank R. Meadows, Jr., who were placed on trial today in Judge Brennan's court on the charge of receiving money for deposit after the bank was known to be insolvent. The proceedings indicate that the Meadows brothers are establishing a record on that side of the ledger. It is believed that the Meadows brothers are establishing a record on that side of the ledger. From "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" to "Still Waters Run Deep" is like changing from state to state. The enjoyment of rare old wine in the month to the enjoyment of rare old wine. The one is questionable, the other delicious, and the audience that saw Mr. and Mrs. Kendal in the performance at the Boyd last night can have a pleasurable reflection that is denied those who saw "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray." The first was a play that was only saved by consummate acting; the second was one that indifferent rendition could not rob of its interest.

The drama is a strong one, full of sentiment and human interest. John Midway is a thorough and listless man, who has married a pretty woman he loves and by whom he is beloved, but both are unaware of the reciprocal feelings, and their married life, while not unhappy, is monotonous and devoid of pleasure. Midway gives his attention to the culture of celery, and his wife narrowly escapes from the clutches of a villainous man, Captain Hawkeye, presumably a promoter of reform in steamship navigation, but really a swindler who has secured the money of the estate of Mrs. Midway's father, and has planned to inveigle Midway into investing his fortune in the same unstable security. Mrs. Midway's aunt, a woman of strong character, has been formerly united with Hawkeye's father, and has given him letters which bear her reputation in his hands. He attempts to use them in drawing John Midway into the trap. But Midway, while watching the money, has been studying the character of the man, and succeeds in proving Hawkeye a forger and thief, and secures the return of his father-in-law's investment and the recovery of Mrs. Midway's fortune. The success of the performance, and, luckily, theirs was the greater part of the work. Mr. Kendal's performance was artistic, finished and convincing. His delivery was clear, his strong-minded and weak-hearted aunt, Mrs. Sternhold, was marked by the finest skill. The breakfast scene between Midway and Mrs. Sternhold, and the scene in which rather stupid husband shows a new side to his character to the woman who had been accustomed to ruling his household, was one of the most effective bits of acting imaginable.

But little can be said of the support of the Kendals. Mr. J. F. Graham, in the part of the miserly father, had a most effective bit of acting. The support of the Kendals was a most effective bit of acting. The support of the Kendals was a most effective bit of acting. The support of the Kendals was a most effective bit of acting.

WANT TO PAY IT OVER. Park Commissioners Anxious to Apply a Balance to Clarke Judgment. The Board of Park Commissioners had a special meeting yesterday afternoon to consider the proposition of the city council to appropriate the $463,313.30 now remaining in the park bond fund on the judgment sought by W. E. Clarke as trustee for property condemned in the location of Riverside park.

At the time of the condemnation proceedings the appraisers awarded the Clarke property $40,000. Clarke protested against the award and went into the courts on the ground that the price was excessive. He succeeded in obtaining a verdict for $55,687.15, but the city secured a new trial and a decision is still considerably in the prospective.

The inference which will be finally determined to be, is drawing 7 per cent interest, while the fund is only drawing 2 per cent. As a measure of economy it is proposed to pay over the amount now in the fund and let it apply on the final judgment. The question was discussed to some extent by the board, but no definite action was decided to join in the recommendation with the limitation that the amount paid over should not exceed the original award.

From "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" to "Still Waters Run Deep" is like changing from state to state. The enjoyment of rare old wine in the month to the enjoyment of rare old wine. The one is questionable, the other delicious, and the audience that saw Mr. and Mrs. Kendal in the performance at the Boyd last night can have a pleasurable reflection that is denied those who saw "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray." The first was a play that was only saved by consummate acting; the second was one that indifferent rendition could not rob of its interest.

The drama is a strong one, full of sentiment and human interest. John Midway is a thorough and listless man, who has married a pretty woman he loves and by whom he is beloved, but both are unaware of the reciprocal feelings, and their married life, while not unhappy, is monotonous and devoid of pleasure. Midway gives his attention to the culture of celery, and his wife narrowly escapes from the clutches of a villainous man, Captain Hawkeye, presumably a promoter of reform in steamship navigation, but really a swindler who has secured the money of the estate of Mrs. Midway's father, and has planned to inveigle Midway into investing his fortune in the same unstable security. Mrs. Midway's aunt, a woman of strong character, has been formerly united with Hawkeye's father, and has given him letters which bear her reputation in his hands. He attempts to use them in drawing John Midway into the trap. But Midway, while watching the money, has been studying the character of the man, and succeeds in proving Hawkeye a forger and thief, and secures the return of his father-in-law's investment and the recovery of Mrs. Midway's fortune. The success of the performance, and, luckily, theirs was the greater part of the work. Mr. Kendal's performance was artistic, finished and convincing. His delivery was clear, his strong-minded and weak-hearted aunt, Mrs. Sternhold, was marked by the finest skill. The breakfast scene between Midway and Mrs. Sternhold, and the scene in which rather stupid husband shows a new side to his character to the woman who had been accustomed to ruling his household, was one of the most effective bits of acting imaginable.

But little can be said of the support of the Kendals. Mr. J. F. Graham, in the part of the miserly father, had a most effective bit of acting. The support of the Kendals was a most effective bit of acting. The support of the Kendals was a most effective bit of acting. The support of the Kendals was a most effective bit of acting.
