INVOLVES LINCOLN PEOPLE. An elopement story comes up from St. Louis which, on the face of it, appears to involve the identity of two L'ncoln people well known here in certain circles of society. Under the elect Joseph Burns has the contract. He blishes the following: 'John Noonan of Valparaiso, Neb., in letter to Chief of Police Harrigan, received at Four Courts yesterday, requested the po-lice to locate his wife, Ida Noonan, 36 years old. He writes that she eloped from his home with Walter Frient several days ago. It is supposed they came to St. Louis. When she left home, Noonan says, the woman took $700 with her and a lot of jewelry, consisting of a diamend ring, a gold watch and other tall and well built. The man is about 25 years old. Both are fond of amusement and ment, and Noonan thinks they will spend most of their time and money at the-luded to and the parties in the above descrip tion is as follows: Tommy Noonan, not John, was formerly well known here, where he was in the saloon business. He became in-volved in some trouble with the excise board and removed to Valparaiso. He was married, and the woman referred to is supposed to have been his wife. The story of their marriage is elightly romantic and involves the an act in a spectacular attraction. The fall stock plot of conventional dramatists, rriage without love and merely to save the family from the hands of a grasping

It is, however, evident that a mistake has been made in the name of the man who is spoken of as having accompanied her to St. Louis. Noonan, probably, intended to give the name of Walter Froii. The latter is a law student now in Lincoln, identified with base ball matters, and who has not been away from the city since the Noonans faded away from this vicinity. It is said that when onan left for Valparaiso his wife refused to accompany him. It is claimed that they were never on terms of the utmost adoration for each other. The story goes that when dressmaking business with Miss Frank Hal-Ida was a girl of 15 years, while living with leabeck at this place for the past four months,

The young woman now keeps house with her two little brothers at 2727 Holdrege street. This is where the desolated family lived when Mrs. Noonan It is the opinion in Lincoln that Noonan has confounded the names of Walter and his brother, George Freil. It is said that the latter was ever a warm friend of Mrs. Noonan, and it is known that when he left Lin-coln, some six weeks since, Mrs. Noonan was missing the same day. It is reported that George went to Ashland and fro he has not been as far away as St. Louis since he left Lincoln. To a number of creditors in this city Noonan has stated that his wife absconded at weeks ago, and prior to doing so sold some property that he had put in her name. It is related that 1,000 copies of the woman's photograph have been sent abroad to different police forces in the country. Soon after Mrs. Noonan left Linhim $10 with which to send the elder boy, Robbie Noonan, to that city. The boy was dispatched with due secrecy, remained with his mother one day, and on his return told his sister that he had seen his mother and where he saw her. Mrs. Noonan was subsequently traced to Quincy, since which time Lincoln acquaintance reports that he saw on the Conductor's Ueath. ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29 .- A special to the Post Dispatch from Little Rock, Ark., says: Walter D. Walsh, a traveling salesman for the Day Rubber company of St. Louis, has given to Superintendent McKee a full statement of the recent killing of Pullman Conductor Brown on the Iron Mountain train. which has heretofore seemed so mysterious and has caused so many sensational arrests in the effort to clear it up. Mr. Walsh states that he was on the train the night of the killing. In the coach in which he was a party of men, some half dozen or more, were carousing and were very boisterous. A lady in the coach, whom Walsh did not know, appealed to Conductor Brown to allow her to go into the sieeper over which he had charge. Conductor Brown remonstrated with the men, who became abusive, and an exchange of words followed, continuing the length of the car to the platform. The train just then was slowing up for a station. From the party of men who were on the platform of the car at the time a shot was fired, and it was this shot which killed Brown. The party then jumped off the train and fled.

NEWS LEAKED CUT PREMATURELY

Intended to Spring it When the Pension Board Cases Come Up-Examiner Waite Says He is Not Worried.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 29 .- The defense in the Van Leuven pension frauds cases have all along hinted mysteriously at a coup which was to be sprung at a critical moment and have asserted that the special examiners of the department, who were the prime movers in uncovering the frauds, would be behind the bars before the Lime Springs, Ia., pension agent would. The meaning of these mysterious hints has just eaked out, although it was intended that they should remain unexplained until the approaching trials in the federal court at Dubuque were in progress. It has been discovered that the grand jury of Howard county, Icwa, meeting at Cresco, recently returned an indictment against Special Examiner Edward F. Waite of this city, charging him with attempting to bribe a Howard county prisoner to give evidence adverse to Van Leuven and Dr. Kissell of Cresco by offering an increase in pension as a reward. Two other indictments were also returned, charging Mr. Waite with intimidation of witnesses. The fact that these indictments have been found has been kept a profound secret, as well as the further fact that attempts to find similar indictments are making in Winneshiek county, Iowa. Dr. Kissell is under federal indictment at Dubuque for complicity in the Van Leuven frauds as a member of the Cresco examining board. His attorney is W. K. Barker, who is also county attorney of Howard county, a fact which is claimed by Mr. Waite to explain the bringing of the indictments.

Mr. Waite is not much disturbed over the matter. He sees in it simply an effort to influence public opinion and further delay the trials, which are to begin December 11. He believes that the plan was to say noth ing of the indictments until he made his appearance and then cause his arrest and removal to Cresco. He declares that the charges are false and that he does not fear the issue. Previous attempts to prosecute him in Howard county failed, and a threat-ened damage suit was dropped. At that time the attorney general ordered the United the arrest is attempted he believes the government's law officers will take a decided hand in the matter. Waite has been the moving spirit in the investigation of Van 's transactions, and furnished most evidence on which the indictments were found.

Queer Ideas of a Lancaster County Citizen

GUARDS HIS PREMISES CONSTANTLY Neighbors of the Eccentric Individual Accused of Menacing His Property Interests on All Occasions-Surrounds His Yard with Wires.

LINCOLN, Nov. 29 .- (Special.) -- There are certain learned pundits who critically deprecate the alleged exaggeration of Charles Dickens. But the story of John Tippling must certainly cause them to modify their views. It is quite noticeable of late that cold truth is becoming stranger than fiction. John Tippling is a resident of Little Salt precinct, Lancaster county. Twenty years Delline. ago he came to Nebraska from Yorkshire. England, and settled near Raymond, where he has since resided with his wife. Several years since their only son left the family nest for good. Although the Tippling farm is not one flowing with milk and honey, it time will the board be composed of an en- is fairly productive, and has furnished a friends for the next two weeks. living for the old couple. Signs of eccentricity have been observed in the old has grown suspicious of the probity of his reading has imbued him with a profound ense of a visible increase in crime distinctly apparent. But it is certain that he city yesterday. has lately surrounded himself with a number of curious safeguards against the midnight

The dread of being despoiled of his possessions by robbers has, so say his neighbors, been greatly accentuated of late. With John Tippling the idea has developed into a mania. Gradually withdrawing from all rural society, going but seldom to town, making no friendly visits, John Tippling has become morbid. Every one is regarded by him with sus-picion. With barbed wire he has created a perfect web of network around his barn. From top to bottom the strands pass about the building six inches apart. Wires are also arranged in various traps, deadfalls of the boys hustle to beat his scores. and gins in all parts of his yardway. Con-tact with some of them throws the intruder to the ground; with others a bell is rung at the head of the old man's bed. ILLUMINATED HIS PREMISES

His latest freak is the establishment of a lighthouse. This private addition to the signal service is for the purpose of illumination of his grounds on dark and gruesome nights when bad men are prone to prowl and nineteenth century marauders assault the treasure of the rich. At twilight lasterns are hung from elevated places, or from the ridge pole of the house, and it is a legend among the neighbors of John Tippling that on such dark nights they can hear shots and deep curses in broad Yorkshire reverberating from the Tippling premises. Thus is the story of John Tippling's dementia corroborated by a neighbor:

"A lighthouse has been recently established on the northeast quarter of section 4, two miles east of Raymond, with signal guns fired all dark nights for the benefit of prairie schooner navigators. The lighthouse keeper appears to be attentive to his business and often intersperses loud declamations to an imaginary audience in strong and threatening terms, distinctly understood three-quarters of a mile from him, '- - you, I'll scatter your brains on the earth,' at the same time firing his heavily charged gun. Nervous people, who are innocent of any provocation, are troubled with such exhibitions, and if it continues to grow worse, as has been the case of late, they will either
