Prof. Alexander of Cotner University and Two Students Bound Over.

SMALL BONDS REQUIRED OF ALL

Senate Chamber and House of Representatives Being Placed in Order to Receive the Nebraska Legislators-- Giving the Members Seats.

LINCOLN, Dec. 5.--(Special Telegram.)

Acting Judge Wursberg rendered his decision in the case of the state against the alleged body snatchers of Cotner university this morning.

The examination closed yesterday at noon and the judge took the case under advisement.

Defendants J. E. Waller and T. M. Ward he discharged. He held to the district court in bonds of $100 each Prof. B. J. Alexander, D. L. Mehan and J. A. Burford.

As the jury for the present term of the district court has been discharged the case cannot come up for trial until some time in the latter part of January or the first of February next.

PREPARING FOR LEGISLATORS.

The senate chamber and house of representatives have been decorated with most elaborate and striking wall paper.

The figure is comprised of large plait, forcibly reminding one of the bizarre suits worn by the average stage Englishman.

A representative-elect today quietly observed, as his eyes scanned the figure, that he was very much afraid of the speaker, in the presence of that wall paper, would experience some difficulty in making himself heard.

The secretary of state received today a large number of applications for seats in the two houses, more especially from representatives.

Fifty-nine members of the house and twelve senators have been seated as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Seat, Name, Seat. Lists names of senators and representatives seated.

The following senators have been supplied with seats up to date: Smith, of Douglas; Telf, Cass; Graham, Gage; Pope, Saline; Hahn, Adams; Brewster, of Wayne; Stanton, Madison and Pierce; Crawford, of Holt; Garfield, Wheeler and the unorganized territory north of Holt; and Keys, Paine; Cross, Jefferson and Thayer; Noyes, Douglas; Sloan, York and Fillmore; Watson, Oke, and Stuffer, Cuming and Burt. There are 100 members in the house and thirty-three in the senate.

COSTLY BLAZE.

Between 12:30 and 1 o'clock this morning the big two-story building in the suburb of Normal, owned by C. W. Hoyle, was destroyed by fire.

It was occupied on the first floor by Minor Woods, who conducted a boarding house and grocery. The second story was devoted to rooms rented by students. Nothing was saved. The furniture in the rooms and the fixtures in the restaurant were owned by Mr. Hoyle. The loss on the building is estimated at $4,500 and on the stocks and furniture at $4,500. The building was insured for $2,000 and the furniture and stocks for $2,500.

TO ENTERTAIN THE OFFICERS.

The visiting chiefs of police and mayors of the state will tomorrow be tendered the freedom of the city by Mayor Weir, and it is considered certain that they will be well entertained.

Tomorrow evening they will be given a theater party and reception at the rooms of the Commercial club. On the day following they will be taken in carriages to the penitentiary, asylum and other points of interest. The sessions of the Chiefs of Police union will be held at the United States court room.

LINCOLN BREVITIES.

County Attorney Woodward this morning filed information against Crawford for forgery, Bud Clark for horse stealing, Metz and Mileham for burglary, Hinton for assault and battery, Lybolt for getting goods under false pretenses, Grossman and Grossman for grand larceny, and Larkin for larceny from the person.

Clerk Baker files a lengthy answer to the application of the receiver of the Capital National for an order requiring him to pay over certain moneys in his possession, in which he says that he has claims for coats that ought to be paid out of that sum, as all the other parties to the cases are either non-residents or insolvent.

Sheriff Miller yesterday afternoon sold the Gun Saunders residence property on D street and his half interest in a lot opposite the Capital hotel to the First National bank of Barnaville, O., for $6,010 to satisfy various judgments against him.

J. S. Meek, a young man of 22, afflicted with epileptic fits, was sent to the asylum yesterday by the insane board.

The case of J. A. Buckstaff against the Granite Insurance company was submitted to a jury this afternoon after the twelve good and true had been permitted to go and view the scene of the fire.

Judge Strode is now engaged in hearing the case wherein Thomas L. Stephens sues the Bankers Life Insurance company for $3,500 damages for alleged breach of contract of employment. He claims that he was hired for $200 a month for two years to do field work, but after serving for a few months he was let out without warning and without being paid all the salary and expenses due him. The company claims that Stephens quit them without any provocation and declined to fulfill his contract after he had gotten about $500 more than was coming to him. They sue for this $500.

In the case of Crooks against Rador, a real estate commission case, the jury failed to agree.

The Prentiss Brown Stone company asks the court, in the interminable controversy over the Conservatory block, to confine the accounting to the $7,001 which Mr. Lamb paid for the building at Irwin's sale, claiming that he had no right to go ahead and complete it, except at his own risk.

The Lincoln Furniture company began suit in Justice Spencer's court today to replevin two presses and other material from William O'Shea, who operates a print shop and bindery in the Humphrey block. Constable Speltz made the levy and took the two presses and other material from the store, which was illegally made, and that he will sue for damages. He had sold the stock to Irwin & Bennett and taken a chattel mortgage to secure some notes. Meanwhile he bought some furniture of the plaintiffs in this suit, and among other notes gave them two which were secured by the mortgages. Irwin & Bennett could not handle the shop, and Mr. O'Shea took it back, releasing the mortgage. The furniture company declined to try to collect of Irwin & Bennett, but sought today to take the stuff under the chattel mortgage given by them to O'Shea. The case comes up Saturday.

A CORRECTION.

An Irrelevant Paragraph Inserted Into Yesterday's Bee contained the full text of Auditor Moore's biennial report of the affairs of his department. The report as published contained the following paragraph: "Several ex-members who have heard that their particular session of 1891 paid for enough jack knives to entitle each member to six of the implements swear upon their honor that they never saw one. It is known that persons who did obtain knives drew them by means of requisitions made out by Eric Johnson, chief clerk of the house, and the secretary of the senate. It is not known what the result would be if this were followed up all along the line. There was a large army of employees, who are credited with assisting in consuming such stuff."

The Bee is advised by Mr. Moore that this paragraph was not a part of his original report, but is an excerpt from comment made upon the report by a Lincoln newspaper.

Killed the Ice Business at Ashland.

ASHLAND, Neb., Dec. 5.--(Special.)--The matter of Swift and Company's ice house at this point is causing a great deal of comment at present. The fact that the ice house is to be shut down for a year or removed entirely means a great loss to Ashland. This evening Foreman Cox received orders from Swift and Company to discharge his men, as there would be no ice put up at Ashland this winter, owing to the action of A. B. Fuller, who refused to allow them to fill their pond from which they get their ice. Fuller owns the mill and electric light plant run by water power from the Wahoo, and he has the government mill charter of the stream, and has asked Swift to buy him out at an enormous price, which he refused to do.

A. E. Yont, left back on the university foot ball team and coach for Ashland, stopped off in Ashland a few days on his way east, where he expects to play on the Harvard team next year, as he enters Harvard January 1.

HEIRS OF DR. MELICK WIN

Federal Court of Appeals Decides Against the Life Insurance Company.

SUICIDE CLAUSE IN POLICY OF NO AVAIL

Court Held that the Deceased Killed Himself Involuntarily Because of an Irresistible Impulse Caused by Lockjaw.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5.--The December term of the United States circuit court of appeals was opened yesterday. Justices Caldwell and Thayer on the bench. The following opinions were handed down:

The court of appeals affirms the judgment of the Nebraska United States district court in the remarkable case of Samuel L. Melick, administrator of the estate of Leonard H. Robbins against the Travelers' Insurance company, of Hartford, Conn. Dr. Robbins was a prominent physician of Lincoln, Neb., and had a policy in the defendant company, one of the provisions of which was that the insurance did not cover "suicide, sane or insane." On June 1, 1890, he accidentally went a bullet through the fleshy portion of his foot. The wound became very painful, and finally the doctor and his physicians feared from the first. They used all the means known to relieve the pain and ward off the disease, but in vain, for on the morning of June 18 the doctor, while alone in his room, was seized with tetanus, "a disease that causes the most excruciating pains that human beings ever suffer, and which his friends entered his room that morning they found him dead in his bed, with a lockjaw, and the sharp, cutting spasms when he cut his throat, and that the tetanus would have occasioned death if he had not died."

The insurance company refused to pay the policy, on the ground that the death was occasioned by the suicidal act of the doctor. Suit was brought, and the question before the court was whether the shot wound which caused the tetanus or the throat-cutting was the proximate cause of the death. The court refused to instruct the jury to return a verdict for the insurance company, in being questioned by the administrator, whereupon the insurance company appealed.

JUSTICE SANBORN'S ARGUMENT. The court of appeals, by Justice Sanborn, says that the question as to the cause of the death would have been one for the court, if the cutting had been undisputed cause of death, and if it had not appeared that the cutting was itself produced by the shot wound, and in view of the evidence that death would have resulted as soon from the tetanus as it did from the cutting. The question was peculiarly one of fact, and the jury was to determine whether the shot wound, the cutting, or both? It was proper to submit the question to the jury, and the jury having found that the cutting was one of several special findings submitted to the jury, and some of which it returned, the court discusses at length what is a "proximate cause of death, and what was the proximate cause of Dr. Robbins' death. The shot wound was first in point of time. It was not unnatural or improper that it should produce pain and fever, and finally tetanus, and that the tetanus should produce uncontrollable pain and suffering. The universal practice of relieving his pain, the universal practice of providing such sufferers with constant attendants in order to prevent just such accidents as this, and the fact that this was neither an unnatural nor an improbable consequence of the cutting, and that the lockjaw that the shot wound produced. Evidently the jury found that the shot wound was the proximate cause that set in motion the train of events which, in their natural sequence, produced the cutting and without benefit, and then concluded to try the children's medicine, and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure.
